BIG SHORTAGE IN ARLINGTON CASH CHARGED

$200,000 Missing From Treasurer's Accounts, Board Claims.

IMMEDIATE INQUIRY ORDERED BY POLLARD

Complaints of Bondholders Lead to Investigation of Ball's Office.

E. WADE BALL.

Statement of the Arlington County board that accounts of County Treasurer E. Wade Ball were more than $200,000 short, yesterday led Gov. John Garland Pollard of Virginia to order an investigation of the office by the State auditor. The investigation will begin either today or tomorrow.

Members of the board said that there was less than $11,000 left in the county treasury at the present time.

They asserted that the treasury was short $94,000 supposed to be in the general county fund; $46,000 to retire notes of the county water bond issue and $90,000 in the county school fund. The latter figure was supplied them by County School Superintendent Fletcher Kemp, members of the board declared.

Call for Payments Ignored.

Harry A. Fellows, chairman of the board, said a check was begun on Ball's bank accounts after the board was advised by a Cincinnati banking house on February 17 that $12,000 of county school bonds and $10,000 of bond coupons due February 1 had not been paid.

The banking firm reported two telegraphic demands, both confirmed by letter, had been made on the treasurer for the $22,000 payment, according to Mr. Fellows, and the bankers informed the board that Ball had not replied to their messages.

Mr. Fellows said that the James Stuart Ball firm of auditors at Washington were hired to check the treasurer's accounts after a statement of the county's fiscal condition prepared by Ball's office "did not check with information available to us from other sources."

Errors in Statement.

"The statement of the county's condition," he declared, "was promised the new board when it assumed office January 1. It was not made immediately available and when we got it we found there were errors. We hired the auditors then."

The report from the auditors has not yet been made.

The board issued the following statement yesterday:

"On February 1, 1932, the semiannual interest on school bonds issued in 1924, together with some $12,000 of these bonds, which had reached retirement period, were duly presented for payment to the paying agent. Sufficient funds not being in hand, payment was refused.

Governor Advised.

"This matter was first brought to the attention of the board by a letter received on February 17 by its chairman from representatives of the bondholders. The failure of the treasurer to deposit with the paying agent a sum sufficient to meet these payments (about $22,000) aroused the fears of the board and an investiga-

England's Jobless Battle With Police

Gatherings in London and Bristol Are Broken Up; Several Injured.

London, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Police broke up two demonstrations of unemployed in England today, heading off marchers on the Houses of Parliament in London and on the city hall at Bristol, where the paraders put up a wild fight.

A small group of mounted police, riding at full tilt down each side of Whitehall, scattered the London crowds before them. The unemployed were on the way to send in a deputation to the minister of labor, shouting "We want work, not charity."

More than 2,000 of them had just finished a mass meeting in Hyde Park. There were several scuffles with the police. Several leaders later were allowed to enter the House of Commons, where they had an interview with George Lansbury, leader of the Labor party.

The marchers at Bristol, announcing they intended to present a list of grievances to the city officials, started to the city hall with clubs and heavy instruments. They ran into a police line and the fight began. Thirty of the crowd and several policemen were injured.

TARDIEU POLICY WINS CHAMBER AS FISTS SWING

New Premier Given Vote of Confidenee Amid Riotous Scene.

SEVERAL DEPUTIES REQUIRE FIRST AID

Majority of 47 Counted for Government as Fight Comes to End.

Paris, Feb. 23 (U.P.).—The new government of Premier Andre Tardieu won a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies just before midnight tonight after a tumultuous session which was interrupted by fist fights between left and right wing deputies. The vote was 309 to 262, giving Tardieu a majority of 47.

The disorders that had halted bitter debate three times during the night session finally ended in a charge of opposition, or left wing members, across the chamber where they engaged in a 15-minute-free-for-all battle with right wing deputies.

Several Deputies Treated.

Fists were swung wildly; the collars of dignified, bewhiskered deputies were torn off; eyes were blackened and noses bled freely. Several deputies were forced to seek first aid treatment after the fight, which was ended only by suspension of the session.

When the chamber resumed, the vote of confidence in the cabinet, formed to succeed the resigned government of Pierre Laval, was taken.

The session had been disorderly from the time that Tardieu read his declaration of policy, which was similar to the policies of the Laval government in internal and foreign affairs.

Debate Twice Suspended.

On two previous occasions the president had suspended debate; first, when a spectator in the gallery died of heart trouble due to the excitement and second, when a Communist deputy attempted a filibuster and refused to leave the speaker's platform until expelled by ushers.

The general battle between the right and left was started after a Nationalist party deputy arose and shouted a charge that Leon Blum, Socialist leader, who was attacking the cabinet, was "an advocate of Germany."

HITLER'S AID OUSTED AFTER REICH ATTACK

Suspended From RulingBody When Bedlam Greets Hindenburg "Slur."

Berlin, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The Reichstag snapped under the strain of presidential politics today; and when bedlam subsided, Adolph Hitler's chief lieutenant had been excluded for offering "a serious insult to the head of the state," President von Hindenburg.

The fiery Joseph Goebbels, had taken the floor to discuss fixing the date of the presidential elections for March 13; but, instead, launched into a violent tirade against the president, declaring he had left the voters in the lurch.

He turned to the smiling Chancellor Heinrich Bruening and charged that other nations would not make treaties with him because "they know you do not represent Germany." He said "the man of tomorrow is coming."

Further tumult greeted his charge that the president was supported by "superannuated excellencies from the stone age" and by the Social Democrats, "the party of deserters."

Here bedlam broke loose. Members almost came to blows. The speaker suspended the session, the first in four months, for half an hour to allow the members to cool off.

When they returned it was announced that Herr Goebbels had been suspended for the day because certain passages of his speech were viewed by the council of elders (steering committee) as a serious insult to the head of the state.

Arrest of Chilean Fliers Linked to Revolt Report

Santiago, Chile, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—A number of aviators at El Bosque Military Aviation School were reported today to have been arrested for acts contrary to discipline. Minister of War Vergara ordered an immediate investigation.

Persistent reports of the possibility of a military revolt have been in circulation for several days. Authorities said, however, that the plan was "absurd" and undoubtedly had failed.

10 Killed, 10 Wounded As Moro Runs Amuck

Manila, (Wednesday), Feb. 24 (A.P.).—The slaughter of ten persons in the town of Malita and the wounding of ten others, was blamed tonight by the Philippine constabulary on a single Moro, named Hajula.

Hajula was killed today by a posse on Mindanao Island. Two other persons were killed and three wounded, possibly fatally, by Constabulary Private Nicolas Francisco, who was shot and killed by soldiers, another report here said.

Musician Running Last In Seattle Mayor Vote

Seattle, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—John F. Dore, criminal attorney, was far in the lead in the mayoralty primary with returns from 50 precincts tonight, giving him 5,480 votes. Vic Meyers, orchestra leader candidate, trailed far in the rear with 731 votes. Mayor Robert Harlin had 2,723 votes, and former Mayor Frank Edwards, 2,142.

House Creates Group to Cut U.S. Expenses

(Associated Press.)

A special economy committee to find quick means for cutting governmental expense by abolishing, combining or curtailing Federal agencies was created yesterday by the Democratic House.

The action emphasized Speaker Garner's declaration of Sunday that the Democrats would not grant President Hoover the unlimited authority to reorganize the Government that he requested last week in a special message to Congress.

With the Democrats marshaled by Representative McDuffie, of Alabama, party whip, they rushed through the Douglas resolution setting up the special group and instructing it to report its recommendations by April 15.

The standing vote was 215 to 22 with many Republicans voting for it. It came after an hour's debate in which some Republicans favored the purpose of the resolution, but assailed the method of seeking to effect Government economy, calling it a gesture that would not accomplish anything. They maintained that a joint Senate and House committee should make the investigation or that President

CREDIT GAIN SHOWN BY RESERVE BOARD

Speedy Return of Hoarded Money to Circulation Is Stressed.

By LAWRENCE SULLIVAN.

Widespread improvement in the national banking and credit structure following establishment of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation early this month was reported yesterday in the monthly economic review of the Federal Reserve Board.

Supplementing the printed report, which deals generally with member bank statements through January, officials of the Reserve Board said that the stabilization influences which became operative in all quarters with the establishment of the Government's emergency finance corporation have received new impetus during the last two weeks through the rapid progress of the new Federal Reserve bill in Congress.

Hoarded money is returning to circulation in every Federal Reserve district, and during the last ten days those districts which recorded the largest increases in circulation for the last quarter of 1931, reported unbroken daily increases in the volume of money returned from hiding.

The sharp upturn in security prices which followed announcement of the new Federal Reserve rediscount policy ten days ago has checked the distressing curtailment of bank credits, which tended to dislocate banking operations in some of the larger centers during December and January.

Simultaneously with these reports of reviving confidence, Comptroller of the Currency John W. Pole announced yesterday a new plan for facilitating the quick and orderly liquidation of national banks which suspended in the 1931 crisis.

"In order to obtain the maximum amount for disbursement to the cred-

House Group Rejects Mooney Pardon Plans

(Associated Press.)

Largely because the Mooney-Billings case was considered California's own business, the House judiciary committee yesterday rejected a resolution urging Gov. James Rolph to grant a pardon.

Without going into the famous 1916 Preparedness Day bombing case, the committee voted down the proposal. It was offered by Representative LaGuardia (Republican), New York. He said he would make no further effort in this direction and reported the measure lost by one vote.

REVENUES VOTE PLANNED TODAY IN HOUSE GROUP

Factory Sales Tax Bill Will Be Delayed by Subcommittee.

ACTION IS EXPECTED ON INCOME CHANGES

Treasury Views on Proposed Manufacturers' Levy Are Submitted by Mills.

(Associated Press.)

Definite progress on the new revenue bill is expected today when the House ways and means committee votes on proposed administrative policies, but further delay was foreseen late yesterday on the suggested manufactures sales tax levy.

The subcommittee drafting that section, estimated to yield about $600,000,000 from a 1 to 2 per cent levy on selected articles, was unable to complete its work, and will reconvene late today to continue its study.

Vote Expected Today.

Acting Chairman Crisp explained the committee would be asked to vote today on new policies toward proposals to modify the capital gains and loss provision of the income tax, the proposed abolition of the affiliated and consolidated income tax returns, and repeal of a provision allowing credits on taxes paid to foreign governments.

Secretary Mills yesterday submitted final Treasury views on the manufactures sales tax proposition at an executive session by outlining a bill broad of scope that he said could easily oe administered.

He maintained the Treasury's recommendations that heavy excise taxes be imposed on a few major industries was the best way in which to raise the needed revenue to meet a prospective $1,241,000,000 Treasury deficit in the fiscal year 1933.

Mills Promises Cooperation.

However, he assured the committee the Treasury would cooperate to carry out whatever form of tax bill Congress enacted. Mr. Mills recommended that all taxes levied in the new bill be limited during the period of the Treasury's emergency. This has been advocated by Acting Chairman Crisp. The committee has yet to take action, although indications are that a time limit will be fixed.

Meanwhile Representative McLeod (Republican), of Michigan, asked the committee in a letter to make known as quickly as possible what tax, if any, is to be imposed on the automobile industry.

"The automobile industry is in a state of turmoil as a result of the proposal that excise tax on motor vehicles be restored," he wrote.

ChefAdmits Killing Woman, Police Say

Slew Her With Iron Bar and Buried Body in Garage, Officials Claim.

Los Angeles, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Six hours after the battered body of Mrs. Anne Terrell, 35, was found under the gravel floor of a private garage here, police announced tonight that James A Reed, 45, a chef, had confessed beating her to death with an iron bar after a quarrel.

Reed was arrested in Santa Monica and brought to police headquarters here. Mrs. Terrell's eleven-year-old daughter, Harriett, whom Reed said he took to Santa Monica February 12, several days after the slaying, was placed in the care of juvenile authorities.

Clews led the authorities swiftly to Reed, alias James Reagen. Police, searching for stolen goods in the garage, unearthed the body. Articles were missing from the house where Reed, Mrs. Terrell and the little girl had been living, and the search was requested by the lessor of the place, Charles U. Loskamp.

CHINESE AT KIANGWAN SURVIVE AIR ATTACKS; U. S. STAND DUE TODAY

DEBUCHI SAYS JAPAN TO SEND MORE MEN

Calls at State Department and Is Not Worried Over New Developments.

(Associated Press.)

The American Government is ready to announce to the world a definite, firm policy on the Far Eastern problem.

Secretary Stimson conferred with Chairman Borah, of the Senate foreign relations committee, at considerable length last night preparatory to announcing the declaration expected today, to which much significance is attached here.

America for years has insisted upon the open door policy in China, and a full statement of the Nation's position in the Far Eastern crisis is looked for, involving an elaboration of the original John Hay open-door policy.

It will emphasize the importance of American interests in China, which must be protected against any attempt to reestablish the old system of foreign zones of influence which was abolished by the Washington conference.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

Japanese military reinforcements will be brought up to Shanghai immediately to meet the Chinese entrenched troops there, who have gravely compromised Japanese military prestige by their unexpected and stubborn resistance, it was officially learned here yesterday. Japanese Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi, blithe and debonair, called to apprise Undersecretary of State William R. Castle, jr., of the new phase of the Japanese military move.

This increase in the military activity in and around the International Settlement at once created a proportionate anxiety and concern at the State Department and White House. Any further extension of the military operations might be attended with the gravest outcome for the little band of Europeans and Americans who are under the protection of a combined allied military force of only 10,000 men.

The total number of Japanese forces in the Shanghai area will now increase from 25,000 to 40,000 or perhaps more, depending upon the final decision of the Japanese general staff. The Japanese military leaders have determined on a drastic and determined "mopping-up" operation, which they hope will effectually dislodge

Cardozo Unanimously Approved for Bench

(Associated Press.)

A unanimously favorable report on the nomination of Judge Benjamin N. Cardozo to the Supreme Court was made yesterday by the Senate judiciary committee.

This action cleared the way for prompt confirmation of the New York jurist named to succeed the venerable Oliver Wendell Holmes, who resigned recently.

Text of Japan's Reply To League Peace Plea

(United Press.)

Japan yesterday replied to the League of Nations' appeal that it cease hostilities in China with the declaration that the Japanese government does not consider China as an organized people within the meaning of the league covenant.

The statement addressed to Joseph Paul Boncour, president of the League Council, made public here last night by the Japanese embassy, said China has been treated in the past by common consent as if the expression connoted an organized people.

"But fictions can not last forever nor can they be tolerated when they become grave sources of practical danger," the reply said. "The time has inevitably come when realities, rather than fictions must be reckoned with."

SENATE BODY URGES TREATY LIMIT NAVY

(Associated Press.)

Mindful of the war in the Orient and the arms conference at Geneva, the Senate naval committee yesterday voted for a Navy as big and as strong as the London treaty will permit.

It approved a bill by Chairman Hale to bring this about. Senator Watson, the Republican leader, promptly gave it his indorsement and indicated the measure would receive early consideration.

The measure is a simple authorization and provides no appropriations. Senator Hale estimated it would cost $980,000,000 to bring the Navy up to the treaty strength in ten years.

A similar bill is pending before the House naval committee, introduced by Chairman Vinson. The committee approved it, but voted not to seek enactment at present because of the depleted condition of the Treasury.

Mr. Vinson said recently, however, that if the crisis in the Orient did not abate, he would ask the committee to place the measure before the House.

Senator Watson, in indorsing the bill, said it would strengthen the po-

Snowbound Colorado Town Calls for Food

Durango, Colo., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Faced with a traffic blockade for the next 45 days, snowbound Silverton tonight appealed for assistance in getting food into the community within the next week. Silverton, a mining town, has a population of approximately 900. The city is 51 miles north of Durango.

Ben Allen, Silverton representative of the State highway department, told Durango city officials by telephone there was only enough food to last for a week. "From that time on the situation here will be extremely serious," Allen said.

Desperate Drive on City Launched in Darkness by Japanese.

RENEWAL OF ACTION COMES AS SURPRISE

Tokyo Chiefs' Headquarters Barely Missed by Bombs From Enemy Planes.

By MORRIS J. HARRIS.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Shanghai, Wednesday, Feb. 24.—Japanese airmen bombed the Chinese stronghold at Kiangwan in a furious attack that shook the countryside today, but again failed to blast out the Chinese who still swept the enemy with an ever-constant rifle and machine gun fire.

Two Chinese airplanes in turn bombed Japanese headquarters near Kiangwan, missing their target by only 100 feet.

The air attack was followed up by frenzied fighting. The Japanese had launched a desperate attempt to take Kiangwan in the darkness before dawn. Their batteries on the Kiangwan golf course opened fire on the Chinese positions, but the artillery attack brought them nothing.

Then they shifted the style of their attack, in which for almost five days they had sought to capture Kiangwan, focal point midway of the Shanghai battle line from Chapei to Woosung, and took to the air in a spectacular offensive.

22,000 More Men Expected.

Japanese officials said two additional army divisions—about 22,000 men—would sail from Japan in the near future and that with their arrival Lieut. Gen. Uyeda would be superseded by a full general.

A fleet of eight giant bombing planes darkened the skies over Kiangwan's northwest sector and set loose the rain of blows that made the ground fairly tremble. They used 250-pound missiles in their attempt to obliterate the Chinese defenses and open a way for the Japanese to enter into the beleaguered village.

How many Chinse survived the terrific blasts remained a mystery, but when the smoke and debris-laden air partially cleared the Chinese still were there, continuing to pour rifle and machine-gun bullets at the Japanese positions.

Lull Comes in Fighting.

Then the area for a while settled back into comparative inactivity, disregarding the riflemen and machine gunners who, apparently tireless and sleepless, were always on hand. The boom of the artillery punctured the atmosphere, but for the moment the troops appeared to be resting for the renewed storm to come.

The earlier Japanese push, aimed at the Chinese machine-gun positions to the north of the village, was broken up by the Chinese defenders who quickly launched a counter-attack of their own.

Then the big Japanese guns roared forth from their positions in the race course to the east of Kiangwan, deluging the Chinese assault lines with devastating shellfire.

Meanwhile, the Chapei front several miles to the south had burst into action. Five minutes after 4 o'clock a major artillery duel started after Chapei had enjoyed an unusually quiet night.

Weather Is Drizzly.

The weather was drizzly and nasty, but no complaints came from the Chinese. They said the Japanese were having great difficulty moving their artillery pieces in the quagmire.

For miles in the back areas of the Kiangwan district Japanese engineer units labored at top speed to construct new roads—a task of tremendous difficulty, as the section is criss-

Mrs. Aitchison Emphasizes Importance of Essay Test

Wife of Interstate Commerce Commissioner Lauds Post for Permitting Children at Any Age to Enter for Attractive Cash Prizes.

The far-reaching effect on the children in public, private and parochial schools of the District of Columbia and nearby Virginia and Maryland by The Post George Washington Essay Contest was emphasized yesterday by Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison, wife of the Interstate Commerce Commissioner, and a member of the national board of the National Society of Daughters of Founder and Patriots.

"Education along the proper lines, without a doubt, will be of great value to the children of today, the men and women of tomorrow," said Mrs. Aitchison, who is a leader in educational circles here. "Therefore, it is an excellent thing to turn their minds while they are in the formative period toward the study of worthwhile things. True inspiration can be found always in the lives of men and women who built this Nation in the days of old. What better time could be found for our young people to study the life of George Washington than in the year of his Bicentennial?

"Certainly such an observance of George Washington's 200th birthday as took place yesterday should do much to induce the boys and girls eligible to compete in the contest to join it at once. The day was a wonderful one, but it was only the beginning of the Bicentennial celebration, which is to last until Thanksgiving. In order to keep the enthusiasm alive until that date it will be necessary to have such praiseworthy efforts as The Post George Washington Essay Contest to keep the young people's interest keen until that time.

"I think essay contests for school children are helpful at any time and wish that there were more of them.

"Naturally, the prize winners will be found among the boys and girls who have studied hard and read a great deal in order to obtain the in-

Atlantic Rumrunners Open First Convention at Halifax

Halifax, Nova Scotia, Feb. 23 (U.P.). North Atlantic rumrunners made "whoopee" tonight at their first annual convention.

Informal business discussions were held at the Nova Scotia Hotel this afternoon by a number of liquor runners from New York, Boston and other points on the American Atlantic seaboard. Delegates were registered at the Nova Scotia and Lord Nelson Hotels, many of them under their right names. There seemed to be a sort of technical division of the delegates at the hotels.

At the Nova Scotia, for instance, were registered the "big shots" from ashore, while at the Lord Nelson were the sea captains and other seafaring folk who transport the liquor.

About 25 known liquor smugglers, American and Canadian, are attending the convention. Their meetings will be an annual affair hereafter, it was said. While the various delegates from the American liquor running gangs make no secret about their meeting being a rumrunners convention, they decline to discuss the issues which have brought them all together. The business sessions tomorrow will be secret.

One thing in which they are all in agreement is that business is good. There is no business depression in the liquor trade, said one smuggler.

Garner Keeps Colleagues In Dark on Dry Law Views

Curiosity Over Nation as to His Attitude Grows as Presidential Boom Gathers Momentum, But He Avoids Statement on Issue.

By EDWARD T. FOLLIARD.

Where does Speaker John N. Garner stand on prohibition? Is he wet or dry? As the Garner-for-President boom gathers momentum, curiosity concerning the answer to this question grows in intensity.

Letters are arriving at the Capitol. The writers want to know whether Garner is for or against repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Garner refuses to answer, and his colleagues are unable to answer, the fact of the matter being that they don't know where Garner stands.

Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, "father" of the eighteenth amendment, had to admit this yesterday in replying to the query of a constituent —H. Beauchamp, of Dallas, field secretary of the Sunday School Board of the Southern Baptist Church.

Senator Sheppard told Beauchamp that "Mr. Garner has made no statement as to his position on the repeal of the eighteenth amendment."

"While he (Garner) voted against the submission of the eighteenth amendment," Senator Sheppard wrote, "he voted for the Volstead act and it is my opinion that he has voted for every enforcement act since. His entire public record is ample assurance that he would give the country vigorous and thorough enforcement."

Mr. Garner announced weeks ago that he would have nothing to say regarding the presidential boom, explaining that he had enough to do carrying out his tasks as Speaker. Since then he has consistently declined to discuss the matter.

Ultimately, if he is to make a real race for the Democratic nomination, Garner will have to outline his position on prohibition. And, inasmuch as he was against the eighteenth amendment in the beginning, the wets expect him to say that he still is against it.

U. S. FLIER IS SLAIN FIGHTING JAPANESE

Pilot of Chinese Plane Is Revealed as American, Robert Short.

Shanghai, Feb. 23 (U.P.).—The pilot of a Chinese military plane which three Japanese planes shot down in flames over Soochow and then saluted as "the bravest Chinese" was disclosed today as Robert Short, an American.

Short died in the burning wreckage of his craft, but not until after he had fatally wounded Japanese Pilot Susumu Kotani, who was officially credited with the victory. Kotani flew back to Shanghai and landed safely, but died today in the Hongkew military hospital.

U. S. Flier Attacks.

The three Japanese planes were flying from the Hongkew airfield, scouting far back over Chinese territory in an effort to check the Chinese reinforcements and the defenses in the Soochow area.

They were circling over Soochow when Short, one of three Americans attached to the Chinese Aviation Squadron, climbed into his little Boeing pursuit plane and went aloft.

The plane had been purchased only a week ago and was the pride of the squadron. Short climbed rapidly in an attempt to outmaneuver the Japanese craft, whose pilots were not expecting an attack from the comparatively insignificant Chinese air force.

Victors Pay Tribute.

The Chinese plane circled and swooped toward the Japanese, while Short opened his machine gun at an altitude of about 2,400 feet. Bullets ripped through the fuselage of Pilot Kotani's plane, but the three Japanese maneuvered quickly and returned the fire, sending a stream of machine gun bullets into Short's craft.

The battle lasted for two and one-half minutes and then Short's plane went out of control, falling in flames. The Japanese circled over the crashing plane and paid tribute to the American's bold attack by dipping their wings in salute.

Short was 27 years old. His home was in Tacoma, Wash. He visited Tokyo last summer in company with a Douglas Aircraft representative.

Special Orders to Army Reserve Officers Denied

(Associated Press.)

Officers of the Army general staff said yesterday no orders had been issued from Washington regarding active duty or possible active duty for reserve officers. Their statement was made in response to inquiries regarding rumors that reserve officers in different parts of the country had been told to hold themselves "in readiness."

Any such instructions were issued without authority of the general staff, it was said. Only the customary number of reserve officers are being given the usual two weeks' training and the orders for these are the only ones being issued.

Shanghai War Zone Seen by Roosevelt

Governor of Philippines Is Taken Over Lines as He Breaks Manila Trip.

Shanghai, Wednesday, Feb. 24 (A. P.).—Col. Theodore Roosevelt sniffed the battlefield early this morning and found it smelled like burnt wood instead of like powder.

The colonel, who is here with Mrs. Roosevelt and their daughter, Grace, on their way to Manila, where he will become Governor General of the Philippines, was escorted out to the United States Marine front lines by Nelson T. Johnson, United States Minister to China.

Col. Richard S. Hooker, Marine commander, took Col. Roosevelt to outposts, where he had an excellent view of no man's land, but not a single shot was fired while he was there.

SHORTAGE CHARGED IN ARLINGTON FUNDS

tion was immediately begun, the result of which seemed to confirm these fears. The representative of the bonding company was notified on Saturday, February 20, and this morning the Governor of Virginia was also advised of the seriousness of the situation and was requested that he have the auditor of the public accounts take over the office at once.

"The financial interest of the county is fully protected by a bond of the Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland."

Members of the board said that after checking up on the accounts in the three county banks and four banks in Alexandria, it appeared that there is less than $11,000 in the county treasury at the present time.

Audit Starts Today.

T. Coleman Andrews, State auditor, in Richmond, said last night that he was sending men to begin an audit of Ball's accounts this morning. Until the audit is completed he declined to make any statement as to the facts in the case.

Commonwealth's Attorney Lawrence W. Douglas, of Arlington County, declared yesterday that the case was in the hands of the bonding company. He said that representatives of the bonding company expressed willingness to make good any shortage.

Ball himself declined to comment on the matter.

"I have no statement to make until a complete audit of my books has been made by the State auditor," he said.

The county treasurer is a veteran in office. He has held his position for 25 years and was reelected at the recent election for another four-year term. He had no opposition.

The county treasurer is one of four offices which remained elective under the county manager plan recently adopted by Arlington County. Ball is a brother of former State Senator Frank L. Ball, and has been elected to the position of Arlington County treasurer seven times.

U.S. NOT TO BOYCOTT JAPAN, SAYS MOSES

New Hampshire Senator Is Doubtful America Will Become Involved.

Concord, N. H., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—America, Senator George H. Moses said today, will not boycott Japan for its military activities in China.

The Republican New Hampshire Senator, member of the Foreign Relations Committee of the Senate and supporter of the administration, said nothing would come of the proposal of a group of prominent Americans that the United States join the League of Nations in an economic boycott of the Japanese.

Of the possibility that the United States might be drawn into the conflict now centered at Shanghai, Senator Moses said: "I think the most that will happen will be a paper bombardment."

Replying to further questions, he said he doubted that the Soviet government would be involved in the Far Eastern clash.

Thinks France Favors Invasion.

Senator Moses said he believed France wanted Japan in Manchuria—that France expected that Japanese occupation of that region would necessitate maintenance of armed Russian forces along the Manchurian border, thus reducing Soviet military strength at places which France considered danger points.

Referring to the proposed participation of the United States in an economic boycott of Japan, which President A. Lawrence Lowell, of Harvard; President Ernest Martin Hopkins, of Dartmouth College, and others have indicated they would approve, Senator Moses said:

"Nothing will come of that proposal for two reasons. The first reason * * * is the reluctance of Congress to take any such drastic action; and, of course, congressional action would be necessary to make it effective.

Would Sell War Goods.

"The second reason is that there are too many American business men who take the somewhat sordid view, 'Let 'em fight and we'll sell them goods.'

"This may be a rather low point of view from the moral side," he continued, "but it is nevertheless the view of a very great many of our business men today."

Senator Moses foresaw no immediate prospect of peace between the Japanees and Chinese.

"If the Chinese war lords should get together," he said, "China would be able to put up quite a campaign, and she might be able to stall off Japan for some time to come."

Red Cross Workers Leave for Shanghai

Nanking, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Members of a Volunteer Red Cross Corps left for Shanghai today to care for the wounded, and Nanking Chinese gave them an enthusiastic demonstration. Physicians, nurses and civilian assistants made up the corps. They were equipped with large quantities of medical supplies.

The government announced that since the Shanghai action began Chinese overseas have sent numerous contributions to help in carrying on the fight. Among the donors were the Chinese Colonies in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Los Angeles. Other gifts were received from Hongkong, Cuba, Singapore Burma, Peru, Australia, India, Mexico and South Africa.

Japanese Troops Plan New Assault on Chinese

Harbin, Manchuria, Feb. 23 (A.P.). Gen. Jiro Tamon prepared once again today to lead his shock division against the Chinese foe, this time eastward along the main line of the Chinese Eastern Railroad to the Imienpo district where 7,000 Chinese troops are reported to be looting and terrorizing hundreds of Japanese and thousands of Korean residents.

Gen. Murai's brigade of the division entrained at Liaoyang this morning and will arrive at Harbin tomorrow. Then Gen Tamon's command will move to the east. Japanese transport officials have asked the Chinese Eastern to prepare 500 freight cars for the expedition.

Pastor to Put Garner In Primary in Florida

Jacksonville, Fla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Dr. E. O. Heath, pastor of the First Methodist Church here, said today he will enter the name of John N. Garner, Speaker of the House, in Florida's presidential primary.

Text of Japanese Answer To League's Plea for Peace

present disorders at Shanghai and expressed surprise that the League of Nations should not have sent its appeal to cease hostilities to China.

"The measures of Japan are strictly defensive," the statement added, denying that they infringed article 10 of the covenant, which the league appeal had invoked.

The reply concluded with a repudiation by Japan of the "stigma which is attempted in some quarters to be attached to her of favoring and desiring war."

The text of the statement follows:

1. The Japanese government can not understand why the appeal of the twelve powers should be addressed to Japan—as though she were able, by the exercise of some unspecified act of forbearance, immediately to bring about a cessation of the alarming situation at Shanghai. It is to the Chinese, as the attacking party, to whom the appeal might be effectively made. At the very least it is impossible to see why it should be made to Japan alone. It does not appear to be suggested that Japan was wrong in resisting the attack made on her marines. And unless that is assumed, why is she called upon to discontinue that resistance?

Lack of Suggestion Hit.

2. If the note had any positive suggestion to offer, such as the establishment of a "safety zone" adjoining Shanghai, with a view to effective separation of the Chinese from the Japanese forces, or indeed any other guarantee for cessation of conflict, the appeal would be intelligible. But no such suggestion is made. The Japanese forces are expected to lay down their arms, or to withdraw to Japan, and to allow the Chinese troops to occupy the International Settlement—for that would be the inevitable result.

If it is said that the Chinese would be afraid to put themselves thus definitely in the wrong, the answer is that they already have done so twice; moreover, the storm of Shanghai could always be attributed to irresponsible soldiery.

Strong exception must be taken to the assumption that China is willing to resort only to peaceful measures for the solution of the dispute, while Japan is not so disposed. China may undoubtedly formally declare her willingness to take none but peaceful measures: but deeds speak louder than words. There is no possible reason why the aggressive measures of China should be condoned because of her pacific declarations, while defensive measures of Japan are branded as hostile. While Japan is daily sustaining losses of life and treasury through Chinese military attacks it is distinctly surprising to be told that China is willing to settle all disputes by peaseful means!

Questions Observation.

The Japanese government do not understand the observation that "Japan has not found it possible to have recourse unreservedly to methods of pacific settlement provided for in the covenant of the League of Nations."

Japan has participated unreservedly in the process of settlement provided in the covenant: It surely can not be supposed that these methods exclude interim measures of self-defense which are interdicted by no resolution of the league? or that these methods compel her to accept a departure from their own express provisions, in the shape of a majority decision? It is a universally accepted axiom that all treaties of pacific settlement leave unimpaired the right of legitimate self-defense!

The gravamen of the regret appears rather to be that Japan has not unreservedly put herself in the hands of her colleagues: And this, with great respect, she was legally and morally entitled to decline to do. Legally because she was under no promise to do otherwise. Morally because although reposing the greatest confidence in their judgment and good will she believes that she is naturally and necessarily in a far better position to appreciate the facts than any distant power can possibly be.

Infringement Denied.

4. The appeal invokes article 10 of the covenant of the League of Nations. The measures of Japan, strictly defensive, do not infringe the provisions of that article.

That they do not do so is illustrated by the fact that neither when strong reinforcements were dispatched by other powers five years ago to defend Shanghai, nor when American and British forces bombarded Nanking, nor on various other occasions which will readily be recalled, was any question raised by any power concerning this provision of the covenant. It is a very proper provision, but it does not exclude self-defense, nor does it make China a "chartered libertine," free to attack other countries without their having any right to repel the attack.

5. As Japan does not, any more than was contemplated on those occasions, contemplate any attack on the territorial intergrity or the independence of a member of the League of Nations, it is superfluous to say that the bearing of the observation that attacks of such a character made in defiance of article 10, of the covenant, cannot be recognized as valid and effective, is totally obscure to the Japanese government. They take this occasion of once more firmly and emphatically declaring that Japan entertains no territorial or political ambitions whatsoever in China.

To Stand by Obligations.

6. The Japanese government is also unable to suppose that the duty of justice and moderation toward China is one which flows from the "nine-power" treaty of Washington. The duty of justice and moderation toward all powers is entirely independent of the treaty and it is most willingly and gladly accepted by Japan, who is equally appreciative of the justice and moderation shown to herself by others. Japan is fully prepared to stand by all her obligations under the "nine-power" treaty, but it is conceived that it would be inconvenient and improper to enter upon a discussion of its terms with powers other than those who are parties to that engagement and in the absence of some who are parties.

7. Finally, it must be emphasized that the Japanese government does not and can not consider that China is an "organized people" within the meaning of the League of Nations covenant. China has, it is true, been treated in the past by common consent as if the expression connoted an organized people. But fictions can not last forever nor can they be tolerated when they become grave sources of practical danger. The time has inevitably come when realities, rather than fictions, must be reckoned with.

Organization Is Denied.

The general desire to see China happy, prosperous and united, has led the world to treat her as united in a way in which to sober fact she was not. Its population is not organized except in patches. If Japan had no interests there it might be possible to go on indefinitely respecting the fiction that the region is occupied by an "organized people."

Japan, however, has enormous interests there. It is impossible any longer to treat the chaos in China as if it were order. The authorities which subsist in various parts of China derive their title simply from the fact that they do exercise control within limited areas. But they can have no title to extend their control beyond them. This anomalous state of things can not but profoundly modify the application to Chinese affairs of the covenant of the league. Instead of a single organized people we have there various rudimentary nuclei of organization. The Japanese government do not pretend that it is easy to work out the implications and consequences of this siutation. It is not easy but it is necessary. We must face the facts: And the fundamental fact is that there is no unified control in China and no authority which is entitled to claim entire control in China.

8. The considerations have now been stated in a short compass which this government desires to adduce in answer to the appeal to them, an appeal of which they keenly feel the generosity and lofty humanity. It has been shown that the powers, in appealing to Japan, are forcing an open door, and that it is the aggressive Chinese forces to whom the appeal should be addressed. It has been suggested that to be really useful and practical the appeal should comprise some specific plan such as the creation of a "safety zone."

Urges Check on China.

The charge has been rebutted that Japan is less disposed than China to settle matters by peaceful means. Lastly it has been shown that China can not be dealt with on any other footing than that of fact and reality, and that the fact is that China does not constitute an "organized people." It remains for the Japanese government to repeat their deep sense of the high purpose and philanthropic energy which have actuated the powers in taking this unusual step. It is their sincere belief that on reflection those powers will come to coincide with the views now advanced and it is earnestly hoped that they will not relax their utmost efforts to induce the Chinese to refrain from aggressive acts such as those which have precipitated the armed conflicts of the past five months.

Japan altogether repudiates the stigma which is attempted in some quarters to be attached to her, of favoring and desiring war. Her people yield to none in their detestation of war and its inevitable horrors. If efforts of the twelve powers should succeed in bringing about a pacific attitude on the part of China nowhere will more sincere delight be felt than in Japan.

TOKYO CHIEF HOPES TO WITHDRAW SOON

Araki Says Army Will Not Extend Its Operations Beyond Shanghai.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Tokyo, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Lieut. Gen. Sadao Araki, the grimly efficient little war minister, who is directing the Japanese military policy toward China and Manchuria, said today that the army hopes to withdraw from the Shanghai area as quickly as possible and has no plans for a long-time occupation.

"The duration of the stay of our troops depends entirely on the Chinese," he declared, in an exclusive interview.

"We hope the powers will judge our case fairly and will cooperate in the speedy restoration of peaceful conditions in that great international city.

"Nobody wants that situation aggravated except possibly a certain Chinese military clique or Chinese Communists who desire to embroil China or Japan with America and Great Britain.

No Intention of Extension.

"We have no intention of extending our operations beyond the Shanghai district. However, it must be recognized that if the enemy continues to menace us, measures adopted to deal with the menace must be based on military tactical considerations.

"In any case we must insist that the Chinese armies be cleared from an area around the International Settlement sufficiently large to insure that they will be unable longer to menace it."

Gen. Araki is short, like the average Japanese, and slight. He wore a plain mustard-colored uniform, undecorated except for the two-starred shoulder straps denoting his rank. His most striking feature is his bristling moustache. His gray-flecked hair is close cropped.

It is easy to credit reports of the general's dominant position in the cabinet when one notes his air of decision, his keen, direct glance, his narrow eyes.

Assumed Important Role.

He has the reputation of one of the army's most brilliant officers. Heading his classes at the Cadet College and the Army Staff College, he rose to leadership of a military group favoring a decisive policy toward China, and assumed an important role in state affairs.

The interview switched to North Manchuria, where Japanese troops again are moving along the Chinese Eastern Railway to cope with their Chinese foes. Gen. Araki was asked whether he believed danger of conflict with Russia would arise from Japan's occupation of Harbin and her use of the Chinese Eastern—jointly owned by Russia and China—for troop movements.

"That depends on the attitude of Soviet Russia," the war minister said. "We have no intention of courting trouble in this connection.

"Hitherto the Soviet and the Chinese Eastern Railway authorities have recognized the justice of the Japanese army's action in North Manchuria and have dealt fairly with us. We appreciate this.

Discounts Soviet Fears.

"The Communistic revolutionary principles Soviet Russia seeks to advance are incompatible with the national policy of Japan, but so long as Russia respects our actions and refrains from interfering we never shall encroach on the rights or interests of the Chinese Eastern Railway or invade Russian territory.

"There is nothing to justify the Soviet fears of Japanese instigation of 'white Russian' activity against the Soviet. We insist the occupation of Harbin is a teamporary measure. Also, the Soviet acquiesced in our use of the Chinese Eastern Railway. It is untrue that we ever controlled the railway's southern branch.

"I am ignorant of any proposal by Japan to buy this branch. Certainly we never entertained any idea of controlling the entire Chinese Eastern Railway."

The war minister admitted it might be necessary for the Japanese army to undertake further operations in North Manchuria, but said "these never will exceed what is necessary for the defense of our people's lives and property from subjugation by bandits."

Forgery Charge Is Laid To Flying Bank Robber

Shawnee, Okla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The suspended 10-year prison sentence for Orval Burch, flying bank robber, was revoked today by Judge Leroy Cooper on information Burch was being held at Nashville, Tenn., on a forgery charge. Nashville authorities were asked to hold Burch for commitment to the Oklahoma reformatory.

The youth robbed a McLeod, Okla., bank January 3, and fled in an airplane he had chartered here. The plane landed at Fort Smith, Ark., for fuel and Burch was arrested.

Bud Stillman and Wife Become Proud Parents

Boston, Feb. 23 (U.P.).—A 9-pound daughter was born today to James A. "Bud" Stillman, jr., son of the New York banker, and his wife, the former Lena Wilson, of Grand Anse, Quebec.

"Bud," a fourth-year medical student at Harvard, was quite calm about it all, but the baby's paternal grandfather found it exciting. The elder Stillman sped by automobile to the couple's Brookline home and from there to the New England Baptist Hospital, where he arrived just in time to greet his granddaughter.

Bank Cashier Admits Theft During Holdup

Woodstock, Ill., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Conscious-stricken, W. W. Buck, cashier of the State Bank of Ringwood, today told officers he had taken advantage of the robbery of the institution to pocket $3,000.

Sheriff Lester Edinger said that Buck admitted to him that only $2,000 had been taken by robbers Saturday and that he, after taking $3,000 became alarmed, returning the money to the vault on which he set the time lock for this morning.

Food Sent to Stricken Farmers.

Hope, Ark., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—In gratitude for the relief they received during the 1930 drought, farmers of four communities near here today shipped a carload of food and feedstuffs to De Smet, Kinsbury, South Dakota, where crops were destroyed by grasshoppers last year. Another carload will be shipped within a few days.

JAPAN WILL DOUBLE STRENGTH IN CHINA

25,000 More Troops Will Go to Shanghai to Help Oust Dogged Foe.

Tokyo, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The cabinet decided today to double the strength of the Shanghai expeditionary force.

The decision was reached after the ministers were informed the Chinese had successfully stopped the Japanese onslaught. The army now has 25,000 men at Shanghai and the new reinforcements will bring it to 50,000.

Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, army commander in the field, refused to request more men, but Mamoru Shigemitsu, Japan's Minister to China, and Vice Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, commander of the fleet in Shanghai waters, joined in the appeal.

The war office explained that Gen. Uyeda had declined to ask for reinforcements in accordance with the Samurai code, which requires him to disdain any appeal for help.

The chief of staff and other high military officials, uneasy about the lack of progress made by the Japanese attackers, urged that additional men be sent. These officers were worried not only by the inability of the Japanese forces to dispose of the Chinese Nineteenth Route Army, but also by alarming reports that units of Gen. Kai-Shek's national guard, the best trained troops in China, were arriving at the front to join the Nineteenth.

Lieut. Gen. Sadao Araki, minister of war, presented the reinforcement problem to the cabinet at a meeting early today. Previously the war minister had been waited on at his home by a group of military leaders, who told him of the latest disquieting news from the front.

Estimates here are that the Chinese have about 35,000 men in the Shanghai area. Thus, with the reinforcements, the Japanese will outnumber them 10 to 7.

New Trial Is Sought For Winnie Ruth Judd

Phoenix, Ariz., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—A new trial for Winnie Ruth Judd was asked today on the ground that Dan Kleinman, one of the jurors, who convicted her of the murder of Agnes Anne Leroi had disqualified himself by reason of bias and prejudice.

Herman Lewkowitz, defense counsel, submitted five affidevits to support the defense contention. Judge Howard C. Speakman granted a continuance until tomorrow to permit County Attorney Lloyd J. Andrews time to study the documents.

JAPANESE RENEW ONSLAUGHT, ADMITTING PAST FAILURES

crossed with numberless canals and irrigation ditches.

The renewal of action by the Japanese at Kiangwan was a surprise, for the army command had admitted earlier in the day that they had failed to budge the Chinese machine gunners barricaded behind the village's shell-torn walls and foreign military observers had expressed the opinion that the Japanese offensive was spent.

Fail to Smash Line.

During yesterday the Japanese tried time and again to smash the Chinese line north of Kiangwan in order that they might break through and seize Tazang, to the rear of the village, and thus cut off the small garrison that had effectively blocked their big push. But the Chinese defenders stuck to their posts despite blasting bombardment.

Little more could be asked from a defensive army than was shown by the Chinese during this series of do-or-die attacks.

Early today the Chinese issued a communique declaring that during yesterday's action their troops had fought the Japanese to a standstill despite the superior equipment of the enemy. The bombardment of Tazang from the air was so complete that only a few houses were left standing, this communique said.

Japanese Meet Rebuff.

Despite this preparation, the Chinese machine gunners rose up and manned their guns every time the Japanese let up with their shell fire and bombing in order to allow their infantry to attack. And each time the machine guns laid down bullet streams in front of the Chinese positions through which the storm troops could not make their way.

Those of the attackers who did succeed in getting through the machine gun fire charged into trenches manned by troops who knew how to use the bayonet. The machine guns effectively broke the strength of each onslaught and bayonets disposed of what was left of each Japanese wave.

Make Necessary Plans.

"Because of the impending arrival of two additional Japanese divisions," said the Chinese communique, "the Chinese command is making all necessary preparations to resist any further offensive from the reinforced enemy."

No estimates of casualties at the Kiangwan front were issued by any authoritative sources, but it was apparent the losses were high. Chinese declared that in this same sector they suffered 2,000 casualties during Monday's fighting.

All available hospitals were crowded with wounded and as soon as new ones were opened they were filled. Thus one emergency hospital, which opened Sunday with 200 beds, had every place taken within a few hours. Most of the wounded were men badly mutilated by shrapnel.

Chinese Women in Lines.

Japanese army headquarters reported that Chinese women were in the lines in the Kiangwan sector. Headquarters officials said that soldiers returning from the front told of seeing women shooting from the windows of ruined buildings on the outskirts of the village. According to Japanese headquarters the soldiers had little respect for the women's marksmanship.

The writer paid a visit to the no man's land north of Kiangwan yesterday. It was a battlefield of terror.

In the middle of the war-torn area I saw an old Chinese woman sitting in an open field, weeping and wringing her hands. Some distance to the right a Japanese soldier appeared, followed by several more. The lone leading soldier raised his rifle, aimed at the woman and fired.

He missed. The woman continued to weep, her face buried in her hands, and the rifleman leisurely aimed his gun again and fired. This time he fired with deadly accuracy. His bullet sent the helpless victim into eternity.

These officials said they had no knowledge of executions. Such matters, they explained, were entirely in the hands of the military.

Maj. M. Hirata, speaking for Lieut. Gen. Kenkichi Uyeda, commanding officer, said it had been necessary to take drastic measures to curb the activities of plainclothes snipers. In some instances, he asserted, women and children had been helping the snipers.

Japanese Ships Shelled.

The Chinese artillery continued bombarding Japanese warships in the Whangpoo. One of their shells came close to the Idzumo, the flagship of Admiral Kichisaburo Nomura, and Japanese officials became a little more respectful in their comments on the Chinese marksmanship. But they did not move the Idzumo from her mooring near the Japanese consulate.

The Chinese antiaircraft gunners stationed near Chenju, northwest of the International Settlement, also were reported to be showing better control of their bursts. On apparently reliable authority, it was learned that the "archies" brought down two Japanese airplanes Monday. The Chinese averred that three Japanese airmen were killed and that both planes were destroyed.

The Japanese Residents Association advised all Japanese women and children to evacuate the Hongkew section of the International Settlement and return to Japan. Shells have been falling into Hongkew from the Chapei front for several days. All Japanese men who are not needed also were told it would be a good idea to go back home. Numerous Japanese nationals, both men and women, already have been evacuated.

3 Japanese Give Lives To Destroy Barbed Wire

Shanghai, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Three privates in the Japanese army sacrificed their lives yesterday to blast a way through barbed wire entanglements blocking the advance near Miachung Chen.

The Japanese Press Union Service told today how three men from an engineering battalion carried a load of high explosives out into no man's land and deliberately jumped into the wire. There was a shattering explosion which destroyed the wire and a Japanese column advanced over the bodies of the three volunteers.

GOVERNMENT PLAN UPHELD BY RITCHIE

Urges Return to Original Principles in Address at Michigan University.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Gov. Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland today concluded a three-day visit to Michigan with an address at the University of Michigan forum and a luncheon with Washtenaw County Democrats.

In his address at the university forum Gov. Ritchie defended what he called "the American system" of government and urged a return "to first principles."

Gov. Ritchie said the American Government was born "of the people, blood of their blood and flesh of their flesh, and gave expression to the traditions, ideals and free spirit that animated them in their century-old struggle for self-government."

"It has changed and been changed with changing times and not always for the best," he said, "but the cardinal fact is, it has worked.

"It is worth fighting for, and if it is now threatened, I believe we must look for its preservation to that accumulated wisdom we call the law and to that accumulated experience we call social justice."

"We are in an age," the governor said, "which calls for a return to first principles. To those fundamentals which at other times assured us a government under the Constitution and liberty under the Bill of Rights, in no other way can you find a sound starting point again."

Mother of Girl Who Died On Ship Returns to U. S.

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Garbed in mourning and apparently near collapse, the mother of Elizabeth Barrett Cook, Boston heiress, who died mysteriously aboard a ship on the Mediterranean February 7, arrived today on the steamship Conte Biancamano and departed for Boston.

The mother, Mrs. Mabel Cook, would not talk to reporters and hid her face from camera men, but passengers aboard the vessel attributed to her the belief that her 20-year-old daughter died accidentally of an overdose of sleeping powder.

SENATOR HENRY F. ASHURST.

HENRY FOUNTAIN ASHURST was born in the West in the days before it lost the adjective wild, and seemingly never was fettered by the idea that because most persons did certain things before they did others he should follow example.

He was a justice of the peace before he was a lawyer. He was elected to the Territorial Legislature and was elected Speaker of the House and subsequently to the Territorial Senate before he went to college and won his law degree and returned to begin practicing his profession. It is not surprising that he married before he was graduated from college.

Senator Ashurst was one of the first two men to be sent to the Senate when Arizona was admitted to Statehood. His selection was the unanimous choice of the Legislature, and he began his senatorial career in 1912.

Tall, well put up with a figure reminiful of a runner, the Arizonan is a flowery orator. One who heard him speak for the first time would be surprised that this courteous and polite and precise speaker, who seemed so familiar with poetry, would ever start across the Senate floor with the obvious intention of doing swift and plentiful bodily harm to another senator. A stranger might also be surprised that this man who seemed so mild would be stubborn enough to keep the poor Senate in session throughout the day while he spoke on and on through the hours in a futile effort to block legislation he thought was not good for his State. Though primarily interested in things which direcity affect Arizona, Senator Ashurst takes a pretty constant part in most all matters before the Senate.

He was born near Winnemucca, Nev., on September 13, 1874. His parents moved to Arizona when he was an infant. In his youth he was a cow puncher, a ranch hand and a farmer before he became a lawyer and senator.

CRASH RAISES DOUBT IN AKRON; TEST NEAR

House Group Head Skeptical on Condition; Adams Defends Airworthiness.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy's "Queen of the Skies"—the giant airship Akron—may have to continue her reign wearing a crown tarnished by controversy.

The subject of a lengthy congressional investigation, she was about to have a chance to prove her airworthiness against all criticisms Monday when she broke loose from a mooring and struck the ground, damaging a rear fin.

Yesterday Representative McClintic (Democrat), Oklahoma, chairman of the House naval subcommittee investigating charges that the biggest airship in the world was unsafe, said: "I don't see now how we can write a report saying she is all right."

Irreparable Damage Feared.

He expressed the fear the Akron might have been irreparably damaged by the strains to which she was subjected by the mishap which occurred while the ship was being prepared to take McClintic and other committee members aboard. Likewise, he said he does not "intend to take a ride in her now."

Just the same, naval officials came to the defense of their ship. Secretary Adams said he would "like very much to ride in the Akron," after repairs have been made. Rear Admiral William A. Moffatt, chief of the Navy's Aeronautics Bureau, insisted an inspection had shown the damage was "not serious and merely local."

"Repairs can probably be made in about 30 days," Admiral Moffett continued, asserting that the ship then would go to the Pacific Coast and take part in maneuvers with the fleet as scheduled.

Shenandoah Case Cited.

Admiral Moffett held the damage was similar to that a seagoing vessel would suffer if it broke loose and swung its stern into the dock.

But Mr. Clintic reported he felt differently.

"I remember that the nose of the Shenandoah was pulled off in a similar accident a short while before she crashed," he said. "Her longitudinal girders were immeasurably weakened. Whether the same thing has happened to the Akron I don't know.

"No matter how thorough an investigation we might make of the ship now, we couldn't tell, if we found loose rivets or defective materials, whether they were in the ship before or after the accident.

"Every bit of evidence brought before the committee by the Navy tends to show the ship was all right. But there is no method available now by which we can satisfy ourselves that she's still that way. The whole structure of the ship suffered a mighty jar."

Bill Inserts Word 'Who' Twice in 1799 Statute

(Associated Press.)

To correct the grammar of a law written in the year George Washington died, the Senate judiciary committee yesterday approved a bill inserting the word "who" in two places in the aged statute.

The changes would be made in a section of the criminal code dating back to 1799 which prohibits a citizen from working against the interests of his own country by communicating with a foreign government involved in controversies with the United States.

The omissions of the pronoun "who" were spied by the Justice Department at whose request Chairman Norris (Republican), Nebraska, introduced the bill.

Move by Wets to Prevent Practice Is Defeated Prior to Action.

(Associated Press.)

Through usual parliamentary procedure, prohibitionists in the House last night blocked a record vote on the expenditure of Federal money for wire tapping in dry-law enforcement.

By a 132-to-103 teller vote the members already had rejected such an amendment offered to the pending four-department appropriation bill which allocates $11,369,500 to the Prohibition Bureau.

Then Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, and other anti-prohibitionists prepared to obtain a record vote. They intended to offer a motion to send the bill back to committee with instructions that it be reported back with the wire-tapping provision included.

Under the parliamentary situation, only one motion to recommit could be made. House rules require that members of committees which handle legislation be recognized in preference to others.

Speaker Garner recognized Representative Cannon (Democrat), Missouri, an appropriations committee member, who moved that the bill be recommitted and reported back with an amendment increasing the appropriation for the Federal Hospital for Defective Delinquents at Springfield, Mo., from $775,000 to $1,050,000.

Shafer objected to the vote by which Cannon's motion was defeated—198 to 1—that a quorum was not present. Speaker Garner could not count the necessary 218 members on the floor, so the House adjourned. On Thursday, its members must answer a roll call to vote on Cannon's motion.

The House earlier had disapproved by a vote of 133 to 74 an amendment by Representative Boylan (Democrat), New York, to reduce the appropriation for liquor law enforcement from $17,369,580 to $8,369,500.

Numerous other amendments were suggested for that portion of the pending annual four-department appropriation bill carrying funds for the Prohibition Bureau. One by Representative Tierney (Democrat), Connecticut—which lost by a 176-to-79 vote—would have forbade Federal expenditures in States which did not spend as much for enforcement as the Federal Government.

HOUSE FAILS TO BAR BAN ON PROMOTIONS

LaGuardia's Move to Cut Clause From Bill Goes Down to Defeat.

Another attempt to remove the ban on Federal promotions and pay increases went down to defeat in the House yesterday when a motion to strike out the restrictive clause in the State, Justice, Commerce and Labor appropriations bill failed of adoption.

Representative Fiorello H. LaGuardia (Republican), New York, vigorous opponent of wage cuts, led the drive to defeat the controversial section, which already has been incorporated in House Agricultural and Interior Department appropriations measures.

The promotion restriction, eliminated from the Senate edition of the Agriculture appropriation bill, was declared "unfair, unjust and unnecessary" by the New York Progressive.

Senate Precedent Cited.

He pointed to the Senate precedent in failing to incorporate the promotion ban, and declared Congress had made a "solemn contract" to reward meritorious service with advancement when it passed the reclassification act of 1923.

The small saving that would result from the drastic step would be disproportionate to injustice done, he told the House.

Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), Michigan, opposed application of the section to the Coast and Geodetic Survey. He said only $11,250 would be saved by prohibiting promotions in this service, and 42 per cent of this would come out of the pockets of employes drawing an average of only $1,719 a year.

Byrns Opposes LaGuardia.

Chairman Joseph W. Byrns (Democrat), Tennessee, of the appropriations committee, who has consistently opposed pay cuts and drastic reductions in personnel, nevertheless took the floor in opposition to the LaGuardia motion.

The section, having been included in agriculture and interior appropriations, should apply equally to all, he said. In answer to a question by Representative Mapes, he said the clause would be adapted to Army, Navy and Marine Corps, as well as the Geodetic Survey.

Although Representative LaGuardia was substantially supported in the vote on his motion, he declined to call for division. Later he was defeated on another motion to prohibit use of labor-saving devices by prison labor competing with private industry.

Constriction of Throat Sends Man to Hospital

Philadelphia, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—A. E. Brainard, passenger traffic manager of the New York Central Railroad, who rushed across the Continent for medical aid to prevent his throat closing, was admitted to the Temple University Hospital today for treatment.

Physicians in Los Angeles, where Mr. Brainard had gone because of illness, diagnosed the case as one of constriction of the throat. The esophagus, or food passage, they said, had contracted until it had narrowed to the diameter of a lead pencil. For some time he has been taking only liquid foods.

unless he is a wet. That Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, realizes this is evidenced by his almost frantic efforts of late to make up for his silence on the subject.

As Representative Thomas Blanton, of Texas, exultingly pointed out in the House the other day, both wets and drys are now lining up for Speaker Garner, one of the outstanding wets being William Randolph Hearst and one of the outstanding drys being William Gibbs McAdoo.

Among Speaker Garner's callers yesterday was the most vehement wet Congress has ever known—former Senator James E. Reed, of Missouri.

Reed, an old and intimate friend of Garner, said that his call was simply a personal one and had nothing to do with politics. Nevertheless, Garner's friends attached particular significance to some of the remarks the Missourian made.

Hint on Washington Policy.

"I want to see somebody elected President who represents America and American policies," Reed said. "I don't want to see some one who will intervene among the Oriental races or in any other nations.

"We spent a lot of money on fireworks for George Washington yesterday, but I haven't heard very much about Washington's foreign policy.

"We should have somebody in the White House who thinks about American interests and who will not try to have us acting as the guardian of the rest of the world."

Scores Boycott Plan.

Commenting on the economic boycott against Japan, suggested by Newton D. Baker, among others, Reed said that such a move would be tantamount to an act of war.

"The best thing to do," concluded Reed, "is what old George said: 'Stay at home and mind your own business.'"

And that, according to friends of Garner, is just what the Texan would do.

Brown and Johnson Confer.

Another conference that intrigued Capitol Hill yesterday was one between Postmaster General Walter Brown and Senator Hiram Johnson, of California. The indications were, however, that there was no particular political significance attached to it.

Johnson has been urged to contest the Republican nomination with President Hoover, but he evidently has definitely decided to stay out of the race.

Most of the political excitement yesterday centered in Georgia, where admirers of Speaker Garner have set out to break Gov. Rosevelt's grip on the state.

Georgian Favors Garner.

Commenting on the action of Judge H. H. Howard in filing as a Garner "proxy" to win delegates for the Speaker in the March primary, Representative Charles H. Brand, of Georgia, said that while he has been for Roosevelt, he would switch to Garner if the latter should go after the state delegation.

Other members of the Georgia delegation in Congress, however, were not so enthusiastic. In fact, Representative Vinson said that he was for Roosevelt "first, last and all the time."

Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray of Oklahoma, who was ruled out of the Georgia primary because his filing papers failed to arrive in time, said in St. Louis that he would stump the state anyway.

Bankruptcy Plea Filed In Police Gazette Case

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was clamped today about the Police Gazette, pink-hued journal of the mauve decade. The first waver in its aging mortal step came February 13 when for the first time in 85 years it omitted its customary weekly issue.

An official of the William K. Fox Publishing Co., Inc., said the magazine brought in $115,000 last year, which was $40,000 short of its expenses. Creditors who filed the bankruptcy action claimed approximately $30,000 was due them.

Akron's Accident Hits Philatelists

150 Pounds of Special Mail Held Up Pending "Fate" of Flight.

The accident which damaged the Akron while the huge airship was being moved from its hangar at Lakehurst on Washington's birthday was a severe blow to the stamp collectors, W. Irving Glover, Assistant Postmaster General, announced yesterday that plans to carry 150 pounds of mail from Lakehurst to the Pacific Coast on February 28, especially for the philatelists, had necessarily been abandoned.

A number of "covers" had already been sent to Lakehurst by ardent stamp collectors, awaiting the proposed transcontinental flight. These letters will be held at Lakehurst until it is determined whether the flight will ever be made. "Until such time as repairs are made and the Navy Department completes arrangements for its trip to the Pacific Coast and advises the Postoffice Department it is prepared to carry mail, no definite plans can be made for handling this mail," Mr. Glover said.

The One-day Mount Vernon postoffice, conducted for the stamp collectors, appeared to be another moneymaker. The Postoffice Department announced yesterday that more than 500,000 letters were canceled and that approximately $100,000 worth of stamps had been sold to be canceled by the special stamp there.

DAY IN CONGRESS

FEBRUARY 23, 1932.

SENATE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 4:08 p. m. until noon Wednesday.

Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, urged enactment of his antiinjunction bill.

Judiciary committee approved nomination of Benjamin Cardozo to the United States Supreme Court.

Naval committee approved a bill to build Navy up to treaty strength.

Senator Jones (Republican), of Washington, introduced a bill providing for an educational peace commission.

Senator Walsh (Democrat), of Montana, read Washington's farewell address.

Conferees failed to reach agreement on the Glass-Steagall credit expansion bill.

Senator Wheeler (Democrat), of Montana, announced Gov. Murray of Oklahoma approved his bill for free coinage of silver.

Senator Brookhart (Republican), of Iowa, denounced crime moving pictures and urged Federal inquiry and perhaps regulation of the industry.

HOUSE.

Met at noon and adjourned at 6:15 p. m. until noon Wednesday.

Ways and means committee heard Secretary of Treasury Mills outline a 2 per cent sales tax program to yield $600,000,000.

Adopted resolution providing for a special committee to investigate unnecessary governmental agencies.

Foreign affairs committee heard Paul Linebarger, legal adviser to Chinese government, testified that Americans had supplied Japan with money for her Manchurian campaign.

Judiciary committee tabled LaGuardia resolution protesting against continued imprisonment of Tom Mooney.

Representative Sweeney (Democrat), of Ohio, introduced a bill authorizing transportation of mails over highways in motor buses.

Voted down proposals to prohibit wire tapping in prohibition enforcement and efforts to reduce the appropriation asked for enforcement.

CREDIT IMPROVEMENT SHOWN IN RESERVE BOARD REPORT

itors of national banks in the hands of receivers, and to prevent the promiscuous dumping of securities," the Treasury announcement said, "the Comptroller of the Currency has arranged for a centralized control of the marketing of bonds, other than local issues, of national banks in the hands of receivers. This work is being done through an office in New York under the immediate control of the comptroller and with the cooperation of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York."

Heretofore, liquidating committees have handled their own security sales, which brought all the distressed sellers into direct competition with each other in a market all but completely demoralized by months of disastrous bear raiding.

Under the new plan, bonds at least will be marketed in an orderly manner, free from the pressure of distress selling. Banking officials consider it likely that the same sort of centralized liquidating agency soon may be established to handle bank securities other than bonds.

The cloud of bear raiding on the New York Stock Exchange still hangs ominously over the financial community, but in most quarters there appears to be growing confidence that the exchange membership will enforce effective control over speculative excesses as quickly as the existing tremendous short interest has been liquidated.

Shorts Get Jolt.

Last week's sudden upturn in stock prices gave the professional shorts the most terrible wallop they have received in many months, and the sluggishness of the market on Saturday and Tuesday was attributed generally to the desperate fight being made by the shorts to extend their pay-off interval.

The new stock exchange rule, sharply limiting the privilege of interbroker assignments of securities to sustain short sales, does not become effective until April 1, but with the professional raiders now devoting every energy to climbing out of a very bad hole, there is little fear that the short pressure can be resumed before that time.

The most reassuring evidence of the fundamental strength and security of the United States' banking system is offered in the Federal Reserve Board's account of bank loan curtailment during the last quarter of 1931. It was during these three months of unrelenting bear raids that the security markets tobogganed to new lows, undermining for a time the entire credit structure and inducing the hoarding which has been checked only during the last three weeks. On this point the February Bulletin says:

Statement on Bank Loans.

"Reduction of member bank credit has been under way since late in 1929, and for the two years, ending September, 1931, total loans and investments showed a decrease of $2,800,000,000, or at an average rate of 4 per cent per year. In the last quarter of 1931, however, there was a further reduction about equal in amount to the full decline in the preceding two years and larger than the postwar liquidation in loans and investments which took place between November 15, 1920, and March 10, 1922. Both in 1930 and 1931, the largest declines were in loans to customers."

Despite this drastic pinching in of bank credit in the last three months of 1931, however, the total loans and investments of all member banks of the Federal Reserve System stood at approximately $30,500,000,000, which is about the average level of the years 1926-27. In all of the principal economic calculations of the Government, the period 1926-27 is taken as the basic "normal."

In the case of rural banks, however, the falling off in both deposits and loans, due to rapidly declining farm prices, carried the index for the end of 1931 to a point approximately 30 per cent below the 1926-27 level.

Revival Is Started.

With the turn of the new year, the national reconstruction program was well under way in Congress and January saw the processes, first of stabilization and then of revival effectively launched.

"The principal development affecting the banking situation during January," says the Federal Reserve Bulletin, "was the enactment of legislation creating the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with a capital of $500,000,000."

During February, two additional reconstruction forces were set to work—the campaign against hoarding and the movement to broaden the rediscount base of the Federal Reserve System. In each case, the announcement of the new policy served further to offset the lethargy and dismay created by the credit stringency of the last quarter of 1931.

So complete has been the restoration of confidence in several banking centers that loans arranged with the Reconstruction Finance Corporation have not been drawn upon by the negotiating banks.

Antisaloon Fund Would Fight Wet

Will Take No Part in 1932 Race if Drys Are Named, McBride Says.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The Antisaloon League will put $100,000 into a campaign to defeat the political party that nominates a "wet" for President, Dr. F. Scott McBride, general superintendent, said here today. The Antisaloon League is holding its fifth annual Southern prohibition convention.

The campaign fund, McBride said, was voted by the league's national board. Additional amounts will be used if they are contributed.

"If both parties nominate constitutional dry candidates, the Antisaloon League will take no part in the campaign," McBride said. "If either party nominates a wet, however, the full support of the league and its campaign fund will be thrown into the fight to defeat that candidate."

HAYS SAYS MOVIES DO NOT FEAR PROBE

Czar of Film Industry Hits Back at Brookhart Plan and Senate Attack.

(Associated Press.)

Charges of issuing "indecent" films, violating the antitrust laws and raising a "smoke screen" to prevent action by the authorities were made against the motion picture industry yesterday by Senator Brookhart (Republican), Iowa. He urged a Senate investigation.

From C. C. Pettijohn, general counsel of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors, came a prompt answering statement that the senator had been "deceived and misled." Mr. Pettijohn said that the movies have "nothing to fear from a senatorial inquiry" although the producers feel such a move would delay solution of their economic problems.

ADD ONE 4N MOVIE

In presenting his resolution for a searching investigation, Senator Brookhart predicted it would equal the Teapot Dome oil inquiry "in importance to the public and in the startling nature of its revelations."

Brookhart Assails Movies.

He denounced the movies as having become "even more degrading" since the "Hays morality code" was promulgated by Will H. Hayes, president of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors in America, Inc., "to quiet the hue and cry."

Emphasizing their effect on "the impressionable young minds of the country," Senator Brookhart said the style in films last year was to exploit or even exalt the gangster while this season the trend "is definitely toward prostitution."

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The motion picture industry "has no objection" to an inquiry by the United States Senate, Will Hays, president of the Association of Motion Picture Producers, Inc., said here tonight.

"No industry anywhere could conduct its business more frankly, open-and-above board than does ours," he said in a statement issued in regard to a recommendation by Senator Brookhart in the Senate today that the motion picture industry be investigated.

Do Nothing in Secret.

"The things we do, the contracts we negotiate, the theaters we buy or sell and the artists we employ, are of public interest and generally noted in the newspapers of the world. There is no secret about anything we do in the motion picture industry.

"We engage in no activities, at any time, of any kind which restrain anybody from doing business anywhere. Our job is to provide wholesome entertainment for our millions of patrons throughout the world. This is an essential service and its value is attested by the millions who daily approve it.

"We recognize this as a great public responsibility which we are discharging in the thoroughly American method of effective self-regulation, constantly improving the quality of the pictures in an open market and with unrestricted competition. This program engages all our energies and to it we shall adhere. * * *

"The complaint which Senator Brookhart files against us is quite on a par with the charges of meditated propaganda to defeat law enforcement which he recently fired at the organized press of the Nation."

ECONOMY COMMITTEE CREATED BY HOUSE

Hoover be authorized and held responsible for effecting consolidations and savings.

Speaker Garner was authorized to designate the committee. It will be composed of Chairman Byrns of the appropriations committee, Chairman Cochran of the expenditures committee, Douglas, of Arizona, and McDuffie, of Alabama (Democrats), and Wood, of Indiana; Williamson, of South Dakota, and Ramseyer, of Iowa (Republicans).

Democratic leaders sponsored the movement in connection with what Speaker Garner described as their drive to help balance the Federal budget in 1933 by slashing appropriations, increasing revenue and cutting off needless agencies.

In submitting the measure, Chairman Pou of the rules committee explained he believed the committee would have recommendations by April 15, "that will save the Government many millions of dollars."

Representative Douglas (Democrat), Arizona, said it would expedite reorganization and that quick specific changes would be proposed.

Representative Mapes (Republican), Michigan, charged the Democratic resolution was a "mere make-believe, a mere gesture." He said it was the second gesture of the Democrats since Congress convened, the first being the tariff bill.

Argument by Bankhead.

"Everybody agrees that economy is necessary," Representative Michener (Republican), Michigan, said, adding, however, that though he would support the measure in the interest of economy it would accomplish nothing unless the study were made jointly by the Senate and House.

Representative Snell, of New York, the Republican leader, saying he favored the purpose of the move, asked that President Hoover be given the authority to reorganize the Government and be held responsible in effecting savings.

Concluding Democratic argument, Representative Bankhead, of Alabama, was asked "why not give the President the authority and place the responsibility at his doorstep?"

"It's been on his doorstep for ten years and nothing has been done," Bankhead exclaimed. "The Republicans claim this move is a mere gesture. What has the President done for ten years but advocate reorganization as a gesture?"

Education Journal Editor, 87 Today, Honored at Fete

Gen. Pershing Is Guest at Banquet for A. E. Winship.

A. E. WINSHIP.

Editor of the Journal of Education, of Boston, Mass., since 1886, A. E. Winship, who is attending the convention here of the department of superintendence of the National Education Association, will be 87 years old today.

Mr. Winship, who came to Washington to attend the convention after a 3,000-mile tour alone of the United States, was honored at a banquet last night, tendered by the Exhibitors Association of the N. E. A. Each year the Exhibitors Association honors a member of the N. E. A. with the award of a medal. Mr. Winship was given this medal at last night's banquet which was held at the Mayflower. Gen. John J. Pershing was a guest of honor.

Mr. Winship has the reputation of having known every President of the department of superintendence since its organization 62 years ago, and every Commissioner of Education of the United States since this office was formed. The veteran editor is noted for his energy and indefatigable interest in the cause of education. The Journal of Education was founded in 1875.

Law to Oust Radio Stations Is Upheld

(Associated Press).

The law, which gives the Radio Commission the power to order stations off the air will not be reviewed by the Supreme Court. In refusing to take up the complaints of the owners of stations WMBB and WOK at Chicago, the court let stand the decision of the Seventh Circuit Court of Appeals that the radio law of 1927, giving the Government exclusive control of broadcasting as valid.

The stations, located at Homewood on Chicago's outskirts, were ordered off the air in September, 1928, after they had previously operated with the permission of the commission.

The American Bond & Mortgage Co. and Trianon, Inc., owners of the stations, said the commission was depriving them of their property without any compensation, and that the commission's action amounted to unconstitutional confiscation.

Wheat Gift Sought By South Dakotans

Congress Asked to Donate 5,000,000 Bushels for Drought Relief.

(Associated Press.)

South Dakotans in Congress started a drive yesterday for 5,000,000 bushels of Farm Board wheat to feed the people and live stock in the crop-failure area of the northwest. Senator Norbeck (Republican), South Dakota, introduced the resolution, agreed upon by the congressional delegation, and arranged for it to be considered today by the agriculture committee. Chairman McNary called a special meeting for the purpose.

The legislation would turn over the 5,000,000 bushels of Stabilization Corporation wheat to the Red Cross for distribution in those regions visited by drought and the grasshoppers last year.

The cost of the wheat would be charged against the revolving fund of the corporation. Expenses for distribution would be paid entirely by the organizations to which it is delivered. "Our people live to a considerable extent off their live stock," explained Norbeck. "When the live stock dies starvation begins. We have got to have help."

Sinclair, City's Record Arrester, Is Upheld

Washington's champion arrester—Policeman Raymond V. Sinclair, of the Traffic Bureau,—will not be detached from the traffic squad, despite the complaint of the Monarch Club, a local business men's club, that his zeal could be utilized to better advantage in some other branch of policing.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, chief of police, announced yesterday that he had decided against shifting Sinclair. He said investigation showed that the majority of arrests made by Sinclair stand up exceptionally well in court.

Pennsylvania Mine to Reopen.

Shamokin, Pa., Feb. 23.—One thousand miners will be given employment March 1 when the Pennsylvania colliery between Mount Carmel and Shamokin resumes operation, the Susquehanna Collieries Co. announced today. The mine has been closed since last November.

Wabash Opposes East's Rail Merger

Board Favors Own Plan for Atlantic Outlet; Fixes Distress Blame.

(Associated Press.)

The Wabash Railway, through Winslow S. Pierce, chairman of the board of directors, yesterday expressed opposition to the four-system plan for consolidating Eastern railroads. Mr. Pierce said his line opposed the proposal insofar as it affected the Wabash and railways allocated to it as a fifth system under the commission's own consolidation plan, except that it did not want an alliance with the Norfolk & Western and the Seaboard Air Line.

Although the Pennsylvania Railroad owns 49 per cent of the stock of the Wabash, Mr. Pierce said that company had never attempted to control the line. He blamed Pennsylvania stock ownership, however, for the inability of the Wabash to obtain loans when it recently found itself in a serious financial condition. The road is now in the hands of receivers.

The Wabash several years ago filed a petition with the commission for permission to form a system reaching from Kansas City to the Atlantic Coast, taking in the Western Maryland Railroad and several other lines. This plan was withdrawn at the suggestion of the commission after it had made public its original consolidation plan which created a system of which the Wabash, the Norfolk & Western and the Seaboard were to be the principal components.

A Capella Choir Planning Concert

60 Singers Will Take Part in Lenten Performance on March 11.

The A Capella Choir of Washington, comprising 60 trained singers, under the direction of Mrs. Ruby Smith Stahl, will present its second annual Lenten concert Friday evening, March 11, at the Mayflower Hotel.

The choir, which recently gave a program for the men at Walter Reed Hospital and sang on Monday at the Capitol ceremonies of the Bicentennial celebration, is engaged in civic work here along musical lines. Radio work is a part of its monthly program. Its members are engaged between rehearsals for the Lenten concert in assisting the making of a new picture which the Department of Agriculture is producing entitled "The 4-H Club, What It Is and What It Does."

The soloists of the choir are Mrs. Stahl, Mrs. Dorothy Wilson Halbach, Francesco Della-Lana, and C. Ridgway Taylor. The choir sings at First Congregational Church.

Citizens' Group Stages Bicentennial Exercise

A large silk American flag was presented to the Logan Circle-Thomas Circle Citizens Association at their meeting last night in the Northminster Presbyterian Church by E. Brandstatter, 1309 P street northwest, a member of the group. The meeting was generally devoted to George Washington Bicentennial observances.

Songs, recitations and a discussion of George Washington formed the balance of the program of the Logan Circle-Thomas Circle group. A small amount of routine business was taken up.

Educational Exhibit Seeks To Build Student Interest

Visual Methods of Teaching and Innovations in Equipment Planned to Make Schools Attractive and Remove Suggestion of Work.

That the American public school of the immediate future will be a wonder land, to which boys and girls will go as eagerly as they now rush to the movies, is indicated by the exhibit of the National Education Association at Washington Auditorium in connection with the convention of the department of superintendence.

A post reporter spent an hour yesterday afternoon amid the multifarious displays, ranging from pen points to school buses and came away wishing that he were going to school again. It is a safe guess that early morning toothaches and headaches will not trouble school boys and girls when all these new improvements for schools are brought into use.

People who went to school twenty years ago will not recognize these components of the new American public school. Even the desks, now made for comfort and health, are unrecognizable. That the talking moving picture will form a predominant part of the new school is clearly shown. The exhibit includes a number of these movie displays where educational talking pictures are shown throughout the day.

New methods of teaching, in which a child is shown how a thing is done, how plants grow, how buildings are erected, how animals live, &c., instead of being taught to memorize these things, form the program of the Electrical Research Products, Inc., in which Western Electric sound pictures are used.

The RCA Victor photophone portable, on which sound is reproduced on 16 millimeter film, is being shown for the first time at the exhibit. A short program of these pictures will be presented in the sublounge of the National Press Club at 1 o'clock this afternoon.

The displays include various other kinds of visual education, such as panoramas for kindergarten children and unique educational toys. In books every effort seems to have been made to make learning a pleasure. The entire secret of these new methods of education appears to be to remove the element of work from going to school and transforming it into an amusement. Of course the youngsters aren't supposed to know that.

SWEEPING REFORM IN EDUCATION URGED

Dr. Suzzallo, in Speech to Superintendents, Deplores Number of Specialists.

Need for a sweeping reform in public school education, particularly in the type of teachers, was voiced by Dr. Henry Suzzallo, president of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching, of New York City, in an address last night before the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association at Constitution Hall.

Speaking on "A Program for Tomorrow," Dr. Suzzallo declared, "There are too many academic specialists in our public schools who know very much about a little field of study and nothing much about the wider ranges which make up the rest of life." He expressed regret that these specialists have been given preferment in appointment, promotion and remuneration, with the result that departmentalized teaching has increased to the detriment of the child.

The teacher of the future, Dr. Suzzallo declared, must be "a character man, or woman, interested in people as well as in books, a man of this world and not an academic recluse."

Present System Critisized.

Other speakers last night were Francis G. Blair, State superintendent of public instruction at Springfield, Ill., who spoke on education of the past in America, and Frank P. Graves, State commissioner of education at Albany, N. Y., who discussed education today.

Milton C. Potter, superintendent of Milwaukee schools, will be the new president of the department of superintendence. He was the only superintendent nominated for the place yesterday. He will be formally inducted into office tomorrow, together with George Melcher, superintendent of schools in Kansas City, who was sole nominee for the vacant post of second vice president. The department delegates will vote for a vacancy on the executive committee from two nominees, David Malcolm, of North Adams, Mass., and Carroll R. Reed, of Minneapolis.

Succeeds Philadelphian.

Mr. Potter succeeds Edwin C. Broome, of Philadelphia, who led discussion on the present crisis and public education at yesterday morning's session. If retrenchments are to be made in public schools they should be made by friends of school children and not by those whose only interests are political, Dr. Broome said.

Prof. George Drayton Strayer, professor of educational administration at Teachers' College, Columbia University, told the superintendents that those who think the battle for free school education is over are "living in a fool's paradise." Dr. Strayer declared that an aroused public opinion in interest of education is necessary.

A report submitted by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of Washington public schools, showed that the Capital's public school system has survived the depression better than any other city in the United States. Teachers' salaries are being maintained here, and the largest school building program in the history of the Capital is in progress, Dr. Ballou's report said.

Press Paid Compliment.

The press, severely criticized in the 1932 Yearbook and in subsequent speeches, was paid a compliment at yesterday afternoon's session by J. M. Gwinn, superintendent of schools at San Francisco, Calif. He declared that the press is the most effective means of carrying the schools to the people, and that the school system that has a favorable press is "indeed fortunate." "The whole truth," he said, "is the way to better schools."

The people of the Nation were told of the progress of the superintendents convention last night over a Nation-wide hook-up by Representative Ruth Bryan Owen, of Florida, and Frank Cody, superintendent of Detroit schools. The talks were broadcast over Station WRC.

Injunctions Limit Is Urged by Norris

(Associated Press.)

Appealing to the Senate to free the American workman from "economic slavery," Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee, yesterday urged the enactment of his long-pending bill to limit the use of injunctions in labor disputes.

"Harsh, cruel and misused" injunctions, he said, have prevented the Nation's workers from organizing into unions to "present a united front to the demands of combined wealth and great aggregations of capital."

The Senate yesterday took up the Norris bill, with considerable debate in prospect before a vote can be reached. A substitute was introduced by Senator Hebert (Republican), Rhode Island, on behalf of a minority of the judiciary committee. This contained many provisions embodied in the Norris bill, but eliminated some which the minority group considered unconstitutional.

Senator Norris turned from his bill to denounce injunctions handed down by Federal Judge Wilkerson, of Chicago, whose nomination for the circuit bench is now pending before his committee.

Comedy Presented By Jewish Center

Dramatic Society Revives "Welcome Stranger," of 10 Years Ago.

A revival of the Broadway success of ten years ago—"Welcome Stranger"—was presented last night by the Dramatic Society of the Jewish Community Center, Sixteenth and Q streets, northwest. The four-act comedy was received enthusiastically by a large audience.

The play was written by Aaron Hoffman and was produced by the Community Players under the direction of Ronald Dawson, who is connected with radio station WOL.

NEW PRESIDENT

MILTON C. POTTER.

CATHEDRAL HONORS VETERAN OFFICIAL

Special Service Is Conducted in Chapel as Tribute to Canon Fletcher.

A communion service of special thanksgiving was held in the Chapel of the Resurrection at Washington Cathedral yesterday to commemorate the fiftieth anniversary of the Rev. Canon Joseph Fletcher, librarian of the Cathedral, as an ordained clergyman of the Episcopal Church. The service was attended by the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, and other members of the Cathedral clergy staff and several Washington and Maryland clergymen, together with a number of members of the Rock Creek parish of which Canon Fletcher is the rector emeritus.

Canon Fletcher was ordained into the ministry by the late Bishop William Pinkney, of Maryland, in 1882, after having served his deaconate at the Church of the Epiphany in Washington under the late Right Rev. William Paret, who later became Bishop of Maryland. He first served as rector of the Church of the Atonement at Tenafly, N. J., then he undertook a mission among steel workers at Sparrows Point, Md., and later was called to Maryland to become rector of the St. Barnabas Church, of Baltimore. He next served as rector of the Church of All Saints at Reisterstown, Md., leaving that post to become principal of the Hannah Moore Academy, the diocesan school for girls in Maryland.

Following a lengthy service as the head of this school, Canon Fletcher was called to Washington to become the rector of Brookland parish and in 1919 he was chosen as the rector of Rock Creek parish. He served as its rector until 1927, when he was made Canon of Washington Cathedral and the Cathedral librarian. He was elected rector emeritus of his parish when he went to the Cathedral.

Canon and Mrs. Fletcher built a home on Thirty-fourth street on the Cathedral grounds, which they have given to the Cathedral as the first unit in the group of houses that will eventually make up a clergy village on Mount St. Alban.

Woman Says Husband And Pet Cat Are Missing

Mrs. Anna Jennings, of 2014 Newton street northeast, yesterday reported to police that her husband, Franklin Jennings, 41 years old, had been missing from their home since Sunday.

Mrs. Jennings declared that her husband's disappearance at first caused her no alarm. When he failed to return, however, she notified police. A Persian cat, valued at $100, which had been a family pet for some time, is also missing, Mrs. Jennings said.

Defiant Prince Is Cheered.

Dover, England, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Prince Lennart of Sweden, the young man who has given up titles and riches so he may marry his beautiful commoner sweetheart, Miss Marie Nissvandt, arrived with her today amid cheers from a large crowd. They plan to be married three weeks hence at the London register's office.

WILBUR URGES NEED OF PROPER FEEDING

Interior Secretary Asserts Better Citizens Will Be Result in Schools.

Proper feeding of children was viewed as of basic importance in the building of good citizens by Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, and chairman of the White House conference, in an address yesterday afternoon before the Department of Supervisors and Teachers of Home Economics of the National Education Association at the District Red Cross chapter house.

Dr. Wilbur declared that one of the great problems in child nutrition is "to try to assist the American mother in making the job of proper feeding a simple one instead of a complicated one." He compared the nutrition field to the political one in that there is a great deal of information that is unreliable, and opined that "misfeeding rather than lack of food has been a strong contributing cause to malnutrition of children."

Will Mean Better Citizens.

"Properly nourished children," the Secretary of the Interior told the economics teachers, "will result in better citizens as they grow up, and they will be in a better position to resist disease, especially the nervous ones. They will also be protected from a craving for narcotics. The thermometer of good nutrition in children is happiness."

Dr. H. C. Sherman, of the department of chemistry, Columbia University, showed lantern slide demonstrations of experiments with rats in nutrition in which application of the five vitamins, needed by a growing child, played an important part. Rats being comparable to human beings, Dr. Sherman was able to demonstrate the distressing results if certain vitamins are eliminated from the child's diet.

"Five vitamins are thus far known to be needed by the growing child," he pointed out. "At school age, the child will be eating such a variety of food that all one need do to safeguard the vitamin B requirement is to see that not too large a proportion of the fool is taken in artificially and in unduly refined forms."

Urges Protective Foods.

Dr. Sherman said that vitamins A, C and G are the ones which in the present stage of nutritional knowledge and food industry seem to call for special thought in the feeding of school children. All these vitamins, and also iron, calcium and phosphorous are well provided when a generous share of the child's total food calories is given in the form of the protective foods: milk, fruit, vegetables and eggs, he said.

The speakers were introduced by Dr. Mary Swartz Rose, of Teachers College, Columbia University, who said that the fact that there are six million children in the United States improperly nourished presents a challenge to home economics teachers throughout the Nation. The home economics department delegates will attend a breakfast this morning at McKinley High School.

Flying Education Topic at Meeting

Amelia Earhart Putnam Is One of Speakers Before Guggenheim Group.

"Aeronautical Education" was discussed yesterday afternoon at a meeting of the Daniel Guggenheim Fund committee on elementary and secondary aeronautical education held in conjunction with the annual meeting of the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association at the Washington Hotel.

Senator Hiram Bingham, of Connecticut, addressed the group on "Aeronautical Education from a National Standpoint." "Significant Trends in Aeronautics" was the topic of a talk by Joseph S. Marriott, chief of the inspection service for the aeronautics branch of the Department of Commerce.

The educators heard Amelia Earhart Putnam speak briefly on the educational aspects of aviation. Following her talk Mr. Roland Spaulding, specialist in aeronautical education for the Daniel Guggenheim Fund committee on elementary and secondary aeronautical education led an informal discussion on the general subject of aviation and education.

Sore Throat?

Not if he gargles when he gets home, with Bayer Aspirin! Some tablets crushed in a little water, one good gargle, and the soreness is gone; the danger of infection reduced. If your throat ever tickles after you've been out in the cold or damp, gargle as soon as you can find some Bayer Aspirin. Take it for any cold; two tablets at the first sniffle. For headaches, neuralgia, neuritis; or rheumatism. Instant relief from all such pain. Perfectly harmless, if you get the genuine tablets stamped Bayer; they do not depress the heart. All druggists.

RAIL LOAN REQUESTS TO COME UP TODAY

Among Applications Is One by St. Louis-San Francisco for $13,700,000.

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The Railroad Credit Corporation, of which E. G. Buckland, chairman of the New Haven Railroad, is president, will meet tomorrow to pass on applications for loans, it was reported in railroad circles here today.

Among applications on file is one by the St. Louis-San Francisco Railway Co., involving a total placed at $13,700,000. Owing to the amount involved, it was expected in Wall street banking quarters that the application would be forwarded to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

Under the Interstate Commerce Commission authorization, the Railroad Credit Corporation is restricted solely to loaning money to carriers to help them meet pressing interest requirements. While the St. Louis-San Francisco application is designed for this purpose, the amount is substantially greater than moneys thus far impounded in the Railroad Credit Corporation pool from recent rate increases. As a consequence, it was said, the Railroad Credit Corporation would probably pass on the merits of the application and, if approved, it would refer it to the larger governmental sponsored corporation.

It was also stated that executives of the two loaning bodies had agreed that any loans from railroads to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation would first be passed on by the Railroad Credit Corporation before going to the larger credit agency, which also has arranged to consult with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The St. Louis-San Francisco request is partly for the purpose of raising money to meet March 1 interest requirements.

Kate Ryan, Big Sister Of Gold Rush, Is Dead

Vancouver, British Columbia, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The "Big Sister" of the Yukon gold rush, Miss Kate Ryan, 56, died here today after a long illness. Miss Ryan never hesitated to travel miles over the frozen wastes to attend a sick miner.

In 1898 she went to Atlin, British Columbia, and later to Whitehorse. No other woman, except Nellie Cashman, became so well known and loved in the Yukon. Miss Cashman, like Miss Ryan, remained single. She was "Mother of the North" 25 years before Miss Ryan was there.

Juror in Mayflower Bond Sale Case Is Ill

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The jury hearing the trial of five officials of the American Bond & Mortgage Co., of New York and Chicago, was reduced to 11 today when one juror was taken ill. The case proceeded with 11 men in the jury box.

The defendants are William J. Moore, Kenneth W. Moore and Charles C. Moore. They are charged with using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of second mortgage bonds of the Mayflower Hotel Co., of Washington, D. C.

$500 Contributed To Charity's Fund

Donations of $100 and $250 Among Latest Made to Community Chest.

Another $500 was added to the Community Chest 1932 total by gifts received at Chest headquarters over the holiday. The gifts, while small, included one anonymous contribution of $100 and a contribution from Willard A. Holbrook of $250, the total for the day being $510.25.

Yesterday's gifts bring the Chest total to date up to $2,415,045.15, leaving the Chest still $185,954.85 short of its goal of $2,601,000.

Edward P. Colladay, chairman of the Community Chest campaign committee, has sent letters to all the workers in the campaign, thanking them for their efforts and praising them for the number of subscriptions and the amount of money obtained. The more than $2,400,000 obtained by the workers is the largest single sum ever raised for a peace-time emergency in Washington.

Among the gifts received yesterday were $100, anonymous; $1, anonymous; $15, I. Bindeman; $2, Gloria Garcia; $1, Maria L. Gilman; $250, Willard A. Holbrook; $10, C. C. Jensen, jr. (additional); $50, Mary Washington Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution; $10, O. E. McIntosh; $50, Orange Crush Bottling Co.; $21.25, Elisabeth A. Wilson.

Death of Ellis Gill Is Held Accidental

Rites for Advertising Man Will Be Held Today at St. Stephen's.

A verdict of "accidental death while intoxicated" in the death of Ellis Gill, 40, Saturday night as the result of drinking a heavy dose of poison, was given by a coroner's jury yesterday. Gill died at Garfield Hospital about two hours after he was found unconscious in his apartment at 3614 Connecticut avenue.

Gill was connected with the advertising department of the Evening Star. An autopsy revealed a quantity of poison and liquor in his stomach.

Funeral services will be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock at St. Stephen's Church, Newton and Center streets northwest. Interment will be in Arlington National Cemetery.

War Veterans Guests Of Gold Star Mothers

Members of the Washington Chapter of Gold Star Mothers of the World War last night gave a party for former service men at the War Veterans' Service Home, 2626 Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Mrs. Mary Killeen, vice president of the Gold Star Mothers, gave a short talk of welcome and entertainment was furnished by Arthur S. Whitcomb, cornetist in the Army Band, and Mrs. Elfie Hart and Mrs. Dorothy Wilding.

The Greeks Had a Word But Not the Americans

By JOHN J. DALY

THE Greeks had a word for it, and the French have a word for it. So, too, the Argentines, the Alsatians and the Scandinavians. The Americans, however, are not quite so apt. It is alleged they have several words that, more or less, answer the purpose; but, it is said, on reliable authority, no one is quite appropriate. Hence, the daily jargon, hemmed in, always, by qualifications, is somewhat staggering. You see it neatly expressed in the police reports, viz:

It is believed that Joe Jones, alias John Smith, alias Fred Freeman, alias Roger Thornton, alias Buck Hayden, was shot, badly cut and lacerated last night while he stepped into an alleged coupe in front of a so-called lunchroom as he prepared, it is said, to take a ride.

Police are said to be puzzled. It is understood that Jones, alias Smith, alias Freeman, alias Thornton, alias Hayden, is the man believed to have been seen recently wearing an alleged green hat and that, it is understood, he is known as the so-called Man in the Green Hat.

* * * *

IMMEDIATELY after the alleged shooting, Jones, alias Smith, alias Freeman, alias Thornton, alias Hayden, who was said to be suffering from shock and a serious beating, thought to have been administered by a policeman with an alleged blackjack, was taken to the so-called Emergency Hospital. There, the supposedly serious wounds were dressed, in becoming colors, and the so-called patient taken to No. 1, that is, the First Precinct. It was stated, authoritatively, that Jones, alias Smith, alias Freeman, alias Thornton, alias Hayden, was the best bootlegger in the diocese.

Lieut. Pennypacker, said to be temporarily in charge of the First Precinct, was interviewed by the so-called police reporters. He said, they stated, it is said:

"At 1 o'clock this morning, one of our operatives on duty at the alleged lunchroom where Jones, alias Smith, alias Freeman, alias Thornton, alias Hayden, and a couple of more aliases, it is said, noticed a man dressed like a cinemactor—

"A cinemactor?" the Lieut. was asked, it is stated.

"A motion-picture star to you," the Lieut. is said to have responded.

* * * *

WHEREUPON the Lieut. continued: "At that time, 1:10 a. m.—after midnight, to be exact—only a few people were on the street," the Lieut. went on, pursuing his so-called narrative.

"What street?" he was asked, it is said.

"My mistake," the Lieut. corrected himself. "The Avenue."

"So Jones, alias Smith, alias Freeman, alias Thornton, alias Hayden, along with his other so-called aliases, was shot in the Avenue," the so-called reporters are said to have concluded.

"You'll have to ask the alleged doctor about that," the Lieut. replied, refusing to waive immunity, it is said.

Pressed for further explanation, the officer, it is stated, admitted that, quite possibly, the prisoner was wanted by the police. In an attempt to get the actual facts in the case, the reporters, to a man, asked point-blank for the low-down.

"What we want is the status quo," the dean of the corps is said to have declared.

"If you want anything like that around here, you'll have to ask for it in English," the officer, it is alleged, replied.

"In that case," said the dean, dejectedly, "we'll have to give up. The English have no word for it."

Neither have the Greeks, it is alleged; but the French—ah, the French, it is said, in reliable authority, have several so-called words for it, but they are used only by the Diplomatic Corps.

U. S. TO BARE POLICY TODAY ON SINO-JAPANESE FIGHTING

the Chinese Eighty-eighth Division and drive it back inland.

Ambassador Debuchi was persuasive and unworried over the developments. He professed to see in the new orders nothing but a decision to avoid further aggravations in the situation. Far from adding to the prospect of further casualties, the ambassador affirmed his belief in the efficacy of additional troops to cut down casualties—Japanese casualties, that is.

At the same time the ambassador announced that the Japanese reply to the League of Nations note had been forwarded by his government to Geneva. The ambassador remained with Mr. Castle for more than half an hour and afterward chatted pleasantly with newspapermen of the prospects in the Far Eastern events.

The Chinese defense has created considerable surprise in official military and naval circles and considerable mortification in Japanese circles. The morale of the Chinese troops appears to be considerably high and their effective resistance to the attack of bombing planes, long range mortars and persistent barrage has heightened it even more so. The total number of Chinese troops was difficult of approximation in official circles, but the figure is expected to vary between 75,000 and 100,000 men.

Japanese artillery has been at a great disadvantage in dislodging Chinese snipers who have concealed themselves in trench pockets beyond the effective range of the big guns and continue to harass advancing Japanese soldiers.

The visit of the Japanese Ambassador to the State Department was interpreted as a further indication of Japan's intention to refrain from any misunderstanding with the American Government. Certain uncontrolled statements emanating from allegedly Japanese foreign office sources have been productive of wonderment and surmise here, but Secretary Stimson has refrained from any more definite reaction.

The American commander in charge of operations at Shanghai, Rear Admiral M. M. Taylor, radioed the Navy Department corroboration of this intent of the Japanese government. The admiral announced that the Japanese Minister to China, the Vice Admiral Kichasabauro Nomura, and a special representative of the foreign office had visited him to assure him of the "absolute desire" of Japan to avoid any friction with this country.

Disaffection Is Sealed.

The disaffection which had been reported in the Chinese military forces has seemingly been sealed by some agreement between the Cantonese and the forces of Chiang Kai-Shek. The crack troops of the Chinese war chief have been reported constituting the basic elements of the present fighting eighty-eighth division. They are described as formerly having belonged to the Nineteenth Route Army which was originally equipped to protect the road between Canton and Shanghai.

In the face of this apparent tendency to reunite the hitherto disjointed units of China, the reaction of the Chinese government to the proclamation of the free state of Manchuria was regarded as highly significant. The Chinese Legation here yesterday announced that the government would not recognize the new Manchurian state since it is an integral part of China and such dismembering of Chinese territory is in violation of the League of Nations covenant, the Nine Power Treaty, and the Pact of Paris, or the Kellogg-Briand Treaty.

The legal adviser to the Chinese government now in Washington, Judge Paul M. Linebarger, declared before the House foreign affairs committee that Americans had financed Japan and had provided the means for equipping their Manchurian campaign.

American Consul General Edwin S. Cunningham at Shanghai cabled the State Department a report of the situation there as of 6 p. m. yesterday (Shanghai time):

"The intermittent exchange of firing between the opposing forces on the Chapei front on February 22 was succeeded at 9 o'clock that night by heavy gunfire from the Chinese side. Shells were fired easterly, in the direction of Kongkew, the objective appearing to be the Japanese consulate general and the flagship of Vice Admiral Nomuri at the Yangtze Road Wharf, since several projectiles passed over that neighborhood, one of which struck the Italian cruiser Libia, causing slight damage to that vessel.

"During the bombardment on the night of February 22 one shell landed in the compound of the Shanghai Baptist College and another injured some Japanese marines at the Japanese aerodrome adjoinig.

"On the morning of February 23 two squadrons of Japanese planes bombed the Hungjaa Aerodrome, causing some damage to the property. No Chinese planes were in the aerodrome.

"Japanese airplanes also attacked Soochow, where they claim to have brought down a Chinese plane."

(United Press.)

The Chinese Legation issued a statement last night saying the government would not recognize the new so-called independent regime of Manchuria, which is termed "a puppet organization."

The statement said the Chinese government would not recognize any administration in Manchuria which was not organized with their own consent.

The three eastern provinces, known as Manchuria, the statement added, "are always an integral part of China and any usurpation or interference with the administration therein constitutes a direct impairment of China's territorial and administrative integrity."

BOXER AND FUGITIVE KILLED IN NEW YORK

Two Murders Defy Police as Mayor Walker Opens New Radio System.

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—A murderer wanted at Syracuse and a Brooklyn pugilist were slain today in gangdom's final challenge before police started operation of a radio broadcasting station designed to nip its criminal activities.

A patrolman, off duty and in civilian clothes, was wounded seriously in a battle with two men he surprised while they were holding up a Brooklyn store.

The slain killer was identified from his fingerprints as Charles (Ponzy) Albano, 28, whose picture had appeared in the current police publication, Spring 3100 (the police telephone number), as a wanted criminal. He was hunted as the man who killed Reuben Johnson, of Syracuse, last June 17.

Albano's body was thrown from a taxicab as it sped under a West Side motor highway in the early morning. He died before a surgeon could reach him. Five bullet wounds were found in his body.

Edward Oliva, 28, the pugilist known to fight fans as "Buck Oliver," was killed by an assassin, who fired there bullets into his body and fled. Santa Caraciollo, another pugilist known as "Sam Cara," questioned by police, said Oliva was killed by some one who crept behind them as they talked. Police said a witness of the shooting described the killer as a man who had been talking to the two fighters.

Patrolman John W. Johnstone was struck twice by bullets of the young bandits upon whom he opened fire when they ordered him to a back room of the store they were robbing. The two gunmen, neither of whom was hit by Johnstone's fire, escaped.

The police radio was opened officially when Mayor James J. Walker, talking into a microphone, received a telephonic response from the crew of a car cruising at Corlear's Slip within 110 seconds after he started talking. Other cars in Harlem and Washington Heights responded within three minutes.

$2,500 Prewar Rum Is Stolen From Home

Burglarly of the home of Horace Hampton Westcott, real estate dealer, at 1310 Sixteenth street northwest, and theft of more than $2,500 worth of prewar whisky was reported to police yesterday. The burglary, which apparently was committed in daylight, was discovered by Mr. Westcott's chauffeur.

The burglars gained entrance by cutting a square of glass from a third-floor window at the rear after climbing up a fire escape from an adjoining building. They jimmied the door where the whisky was stored and removed between 200 and 300 bottles which bore labels familiar before adoption of the eighteenth amendment.

Montgomery Auto Crashes Injure 5

Four Are Hurt as Two Cars Collide on Rockville Pike, Bethesda.

Five persons were injured early yesterday in accidents in nearby Montgomery County. Four were hurt when two cars crashed on Rockville pike on the outskirts of Bethesda and another in a crash near Norbeck.

The Bethesda accident involved the cars of Roy Wheeler, of Baltimore, and Conrad Fox, West Falls Church, Va., at Chestnut street on Rockville pike in Bethesda. Mr. Wheeler suffered a broken leg; Lillian Watson, a passenger in his car, suffered cuts on the knee, shoulder and head, and Clarence Rhodes, a hitchhiker with them, was slightly injured. Mr. Fox, who was riding alone, suffered a lacerated nose. All of the injured were taken to Georgetown Hospital by the Bethesda Rescue Squad.

Nathan F. Norris, 6405 Blair road northwest, suffered a fractured leg, fractured arm and cuts when his car was in collision with a car driven by Robert G. Spurrier, 115 Rittenhouse street northwest, on Brookeville road. His car caught fire after he was dragged from the machine. Spurrier was charged with reckless driving and released on $500 bond.

Postal Savings Checking Accounts Urged by Dill

(Associated Press.)

Postal savings accounts would be open to checking privileges under a bill introduced in the Senate yesterday by Senator Dill (Democrat), Washington. The bill would allow checking accounts up to $5,000, in addition to the present limitation of $2,500 on passbook accounts.

"This legislation," Senator Dill said in a statement, "will do more to stop hoarding and get money into actual circulation than all the presidential appeals and urgent insistence of bankers and citizens can possibly do."

LONG FLIGHT HELD UP BY CRASH IN BOSTON

Browne and Muldowney Miss Injury Narrowly as Hop to Buenos Aires Fails.

Boston, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—An attempt by Nate C. Browne, former Army pilot, and Edward Muldowney, of Scranton, Pa., his reputed financial backer, to set a new airplane flight record by making a nonstop hop from Old Orchard Beach, Me., to Buenos Aires ended here today with a forced landing.

Little more than two hours after their red monoplane, the Lone Star, coasted down the hard-packed beach at Old Orchard and headed south in the cold, crisp morning air, the ship came down at the Boston Airport, smashing its landing gear and narrowly averting turning over as it did so.

Neither Browne, who was at the controls, nor Muldowney, who rode behind him, was injured, and, although visibly disappointed, Browne announced they would try again as soon as repairs could be made. A superficial examination showed the damage to be confined to the landing gear.

Twenty minutes after passing Boston and while at sea several miles from the shores of Cape Cod, Browne noticed that something had gone wrong with one of his cylinders. The plane, burdened with more than 1,000 gallons of fuel, lost altitude rapidly until the craft was within a few feet of the waves.

"It was a close call," Browne told newspapermen at the airport. "I had to decide quickly what to do. It was clear we couldn't continue so we dumped between 600 and 700 gallons of gasoline overboard and headed back to Boston."

Even then the anxious moments of the two aviators were not over. A strong northwest wind was blowing and they had a difficult time fighting their way back to land.

37 INDICTED IN PLOT TO SMUGGLE LIQUOR

Maryland Shore Conspiracy Repeatedly Used Guise of Oyster Trade.

Baltimore, Md., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Indictments naming 37 men in an alleged liquor smuggling conspiracy, carried on under the guise of an oyster and fishing business on Maryland's Eastern Shore, were made public today by District Attorney Simon E. Sobeloff.

The indictments were given out by Mr. Sobeloff at the same time Federal agents began a systematic round-up of those named in the bills, returned secretly last week by the Federal grand jury here. They followed an investigation begun in September, 1930.

Aside from the indictments made known by Mr. Sobeloff, his office reported that others either have been voted, or will be in the near future, naming the men regarded as leaders of the plot to land liquor in the Chesapeake Bay and its tributaries from ships outside the 12-mile limit.

Fred H. Dalton and James D. Lee were the first taken into custody, arrested, Mr. Sobeloff said, in Atlantic City. At the same time deputy marshals rounded up a number of those indicted in the vicinity of Salisbury, Md., but they were not identified in reports received by Federal officials here.

Oyster wharves along the Wicomico River were the landing points for imported liquor, brought in from ships in the neighborhood of Fenwick Island lightship, according to the indictments.

Headquarters of the rum ring were reported by Mr. Sobeloff to be at Wildwood and Bivalve, N. J.

The indictments related that the alleged conspiracy began about September, 1930, with the importation of liquor landed at oyster wharves operated by Hall N. Niles at Colburns Landing. Another consignment was landed in December of the same year, they said.

Bench warrants were issued yesterday for those named, Mr. Sobeloff said.

Inspection of Police Uniforms Is Ordered

A general inspection of the uniforms and accoutrements of police personnel has been ordered by Brig Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police. The action was taken by the police head after he noted a number of policemen on duty during the opening of the Bicentennial celebration Monday who were untidy.

SENATE COMMITTEE URGES NAVY UP TO TREATY LIMIT

sition of America's delegation at the disarmament conference.

"It will give our fellows over there some chips to sit in the game," he said. "Republican leadership will do all it can to put the bill through."

Senator Hale expressed a similar view, saying the bill "would show that we don't simply talk, but that if other countries plan to build up to the treaty strength," America will do the same.

"Without such a program," Senator Hale added, "we will be in a very pitiful position." In a radio speech Monday night he urged building the Navy up to treaty strength because of the hostilities between China and Japan.

Democratic leaders would not discuss the bill publicly, but privately expressed the view it might embarrass the delegation at Geneva. They predicted its passage, however.

Senator Hale said the cost of the program would depend upon how many years it extended. To build up to treaty limits within five or six years would cost less, he said.

The cost of the Vinson bill has been placed at $616,000,000, but Senator Hale said his higher figure also included the cost of finishing ships now under construction, modernizing battleships, construction of ships already authorized, and replacements.

MR. GARNER'S MISTAKE.

The public reaction against Speaker Garner's announcement of opposition to further cooperation with Republicans in enacting relief legislation reveals that Mr. Garner has made a serious mistake. The country expected that he would stand loyally with other Democrats and Republicans in nonpartisan efforts to end the depression. It now develops that other Democrats had a hand in suggesting or preparing Mr. Garner's ill-advised statement in which he opens up a campaign of political opposition to the relief program, on the ground that too much credit may be earned by President Hoover and too little by the Democratic party in pushing through this legislation.

Did a group of Democrats who secretly oppose Speaker Garner's candidacy for President induce him to make this blunder? The current report that the Garner statement is in part the fine work of Charles Michelson, of the Democratic national committee, working in cooperation with Director Shouse, confirms the opinion of some observers that Mr. Garner was led into a position which places him in the light of a politician who prefers to play politics rather than cooperate with the President of the United States in the effort to put an end to the national depression.

Republicans have given credit to President Hoover for his unceasing efforts to bring about unity of the American people as a prerequisite to ending the depression. Mr. Hoover himself has claimed no credit which he has not at the same time conceded to Democrats. In every utterance he has expressed appreciation of the patriotic cooperation of all parties in Congress. On every major proposal the Democratic leaders of Congress have been called into consultation, and their advice has been as potent as that of Republicans in shaping the preliminaries of proposed legislation. The whole country knows this. Everybody knows that the Democratic party is entitled to equal credit with the Republican party for enacting relief legislation.

The moratorium which stopped the spread of the German panic over the entire world; the Gifford unemployment organization, which organized the country against suffering from unemployment; the National Credit Association, which stemmed the tide of panic growing from the British collapse; the appropriations to assist farmers under the Farm Loan mortgage system, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, the bill now in course in Congress expanding eligibility in the Federal Reserve System in coverage of currency and discounts—these are all the result of cooperative action of the highest order. The general provisions of the eligibility bill now in Congress are the result of a conference of Republican and Democratic leaders which the President called.

President Hoover has never uttered one political word in the whole of this period. He has repeatedly expressed his appreciation of this cooperation. He has worked unremittingly for the recovery of the country from the blows received again and again from European collapse.

The country realizes today that if it had not been for this debacle in Europe, this country would long since have recovered. The American people are interested in the measures which are being put through Congress, which are already giving evidence of returning recuperation from European shocks. They will have no patience with political obstruction. The remaining parts of the program—the relief of depositors of closed banks, and the Home Loan Discount banks, and taxation to balance the budget—are uncompleted. They have been approved by the country.

The most dangerous course ever undertaken by a party leader has been Speaker Garner's threat that the Democrats may interfere with completion of this program for political reasons. If Mr. Garner had acted upon his own initiative it does not seem possible that he would have placed himself and his party in the light of obstructing the return of prosperity.

AN ADEQUATE NAVY.

Approval of the Hale bill by the Senate naval committee puts new life into the cause of adequate national defense at a very appropriate time. Congress must face the issue of building the American Navy up to the strength prescribed in the London naval treaty while war is raging in the Far East and unrest prevails throughout the world. The disarmament conference at Geneva must give heed to this determination to strengthen American naval defense in proportion with that of other great powers.

Never has there been a time when carelessness about national defense was so foolish as it is today. Resentment against the United States has been augmented in Europe because this country refuses to assume the debts of the last war and reconstruction period. America is by far the wealthiest nation on earth. In these hard times jealousy and covetousness are sharpened to a keen edge. Extensive rivalries in international trade and shipping do not add to the friendliness among nations. America's gold supply and great domestic market are the envy of the world.

Across the Atlantic, Europe is united, to some extent, through the League of Nations. Across the Pacific Japan is pursuing an aggressive policy that may involve American rights and honor. Of course, the United States does not intend to make war, or to be dragged into foreign conflicts, but that is no guarantee that America is safe from aggression. The only force on which the United States can rely for safety is the American Navy and Army. To the extent that they are crippled the Nation that Washington founded and Lincoln saved from disunion is exposed to the mercy of ruthless forces that have already manifested their utter lack of regard for covenants and treaties.

The world has recognized the right of the United States to maintain a Navy exceeded in strength by no other naval force. Yet Congress has shamefully neglected to provide such a Navy. At present Uncle Sam is only a second rate naval power, on about the same level as Japan. If the present policy of indifference and false economy is pursued, this country will sink still further down into mediocrity. Senator Hale points out that, if no new programs are launched, the United States will have only 68 modern ships at the expiration of the London treaty, in 1936, compared with 119 modern ships for Great Britain and 156 for Japan.

For the last ten years Congress has failed to appropriate enough money to maintain an adequate Navy. American ships are becoming obsolete, and are not being replaced fast enough to keep naval strength at par. It is almost unthinkable that the world's greatest commercial nation, the world's foremost creditor, would be so negligent.

Economy does not enter into this question. When national security is at stake, the meager sums that are spent on the Navy melt away into insignificance. To suggest that the wealthiest nation in the world can not afford to keep its Navy up to treaty limits, while other nations are anxious to exceed theirs, is to make a joke of national defense. Naval defense costs the average American less than one-third of what the average Englishman, Frenchman or Italian has to pay. Japan spends five times as much per capita upon her navy as does the United States.

It is time for the American people to wake up to the actualities of the situation. If this country should be forced into a war in the near future, it would be hopelessly unprepared. An adequate navy can not be built in a day. The only safe policy is to outline a definite program of construction, and to lay down enough ships each year to bring the United States up to its naval treaty limit. The enactment of such a law ranks foremost among the duties of the present Congress.

THE ECONOMIC BOYCOTT.

There is something strangely anomalous about a war cry proceeding from America's citadels of pacifism—the universities. But this inconsistency is not apparent to professors who hasten to indorse the petition of A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard, urging President Hoover to make economic war upon Japan. In the atmosphere of theory and idealism by which they are surrounded an economic boycott is considered a certain road to peace.

In the matter-of-fact world, however, the procedure which these educators are pressing upon the attention of the President would commit the United States to war with Japan. It asks the President and Congress to signify to the League of Nations that the United States would concur in an economic boycott to stop hostilities in the Orient. The league can not see its way clear to apply economic sanctions against Japan. In fact, the league has not been able fully to determine which Oriental nation was the aggressor in the preliminary hostilities that led to the present state of war. Even if that question had been determined, league members are not disposed to send their sons to die among the ruins of Shanghai or on the plains of Manchuria.

These considerations do not deter the college professors. They ask the United States to take the first step toward invoking the machinery of the league, while the league itself remains inactive. If the United States took any such rash action, it would have to stand ready for a war with Japan. The league might drop the whole troublesome problem into Uncle Sam's lap with an admonition to go ahead and save struggling China. Regardless of what the league might do, the proposed commitment would involve the United States in foreign entanglements that might cost the lives of an untold number of American sons.

Dr. Lowell's petition reflects the typical schoolmaster's attitude. Japan is trying to coerce China. He asks the United States to play the leading role in coercing Japan. To deny Japan the rights of international commerce would be an act of war itself, since that country could not exist without importing food and raw materials. There is no more certain way of plunging the world into another cataclysm.

The schoolmasters' petition need not be considered seriously, however. The Senate refused to ratify the League of Nations covenant because it would have involved the United States in foreign wars in which this country has no concern. It is absurd to suppose that Congress would now involve the United States in the very complications which it avoided by refusing to join the league. This country is not the guardian of China any more than it is the guardian of European powers. The Government may be expected to protect the interests of American citizens in the Orient, and to insist that American treaty rights be preserved. The good offices of the United States may be used in adjustment of the dispute. But beyond that the Government ought not to venture. Let the question of applying economic sanctions remain academic, so that professors may chew upon it without disturbing the authorities who are responsible for the safe conduct of the United States.

CHILDREN ON THE STAGE.

When the child labor act of the District was adopted in 1928 Congress neglected to insert a provision allowing children to appear on the stage in legitimate dramatic productions. As a result no play in which minors are cast may be staged in Washington. The law discriminates against Washington as a dramatic center, and against the young people of this city as actors and actresses.

Senator Capper, chairman of the Senate District committee, has introduced a bill to amend this law so that minors may appear as late as 11 o'clock p. m. in any "professional theatrical production not considered offensive to public decency." Administration of this section would be placed in the hands of the Board of Education. Children appearing in professional drama would require permits from the board. Such permits would be issued only on condition that the young Thespians were receiving adequate educational instruction, and with proper safeguards to health and morals. Representative Mary T. Norton, chairman of the House District committee, will introduce an identical bill, and it will be pressed for enactment at the present session.

Common sense suggests that this measure should be approved without delay. At present school children may appear in amateur pageants, plays, &c., without restriction. There is no reason why, with these safeguards, they should not be allowed to participate in legitimate theatrical performances. Instead of putting handicaps upon children this amendment to the law would open opportunities to them. Many of the world's greatest actors grew up on the stage. The law forbidding children to take any part in professional drama is unnatural and reactionary. Under proper safeguards a child with dramatic inclinations may gain more development from an experience on the legitimate stage than from weeks of schooling.

It is claimed that politics change sectional lines. For example, since the Garner boom the old Southern State of Texas is out West.

Yale may end the year with a deficit of half a million dollars. Another sign that Old Eli's football team was not up to par.

WASHINGTON, FARMER

From the Christian Science Monitor.

Readers of biography on George Washington have cause to wonder why so many schoolbook accounts of him were incomplete concerning his agricultural interests. It seems almost inconceivable that, after he devoted so much time to his rural estate, so little should have been written about it in textbooks. Possibly this deficiency has been remedied recently in schools, through improved teaching. Certainly the splendid restoration and preservation of Mount Vernon have enabled thousands visiting there to visualize more fully the extent of his farming.

Washington may not have been overly successful as a farmer. There seems to be considerable divergence of opinion on that, as on many another question about him, but there can be no doubt of his deep interest in agriculture, of his large investment in it, and of his genuine enjoyment of rural living. Some of his ideas on the subject, based on his experiments and studies, seem applicable to modern farming. For example, a way to assure steady employment was explained to his farm manager, in a letter dated December 10, 1799:

> Every attentive and discerning person, who has the whole business of the year laid before him, and is acquainted with the nature of the work, can be at no loss to lay it out to advantage. He will know that there are many things which can be accomplished in winter as well as in summer—others, that spring, summer and autumn are fit for. In a word, to use the wise man's saying. "That there is a time and a season for all things." * * * There are many sorts of indoors work which can be executed in hail, rain or snow, as well as in sunshine; and if they are set about in fair weather (unless there be a necessity for it), there will be nothing left to do in foul weather; the people therefore must be idle.

Moreover, Washington was a strong advocate of home beautification; he believed in "keeping up the place." "I shall begrudge no reasonable expense," he wrote to an assistant, "that will contribute to the improvement and neatness of my farms."

He planted, grafted and experimented extensively at Mount Vernon. Almost every one who knows anything about Washington has read the cherry tree legend; perhaps comparatively few know how persistently he planted and worked with trees and shrubs.

Washington will be commemorated as well this year by tree plantings as by recitations of his military valor and his patriotism in public office, and those who develop the backyard garden probably will find many ways of honoring the farmer Washington.

Hats, Boots and All.

POST HASTE.

Neither side in the fighting at Shanghai can explain satisfactorily, any better than the world at large, what the fighting is about.

Japan, however, is losing a wonderful opportunity to demonstrate by practice in China what she is preaching about war prohibitions at Geneva.

The whole country celebrated the Washington Bicentennial Monday, but the Capital will continue during 1932 to present the Birth of a Nation.

Speaker Garner had to be entered in the Georgia primaries by proxy, but Gov. Bill Murray considers militia measures to override the technicality that rules his name off the ballot. Politics is peculiar.

It is very gratifying to note that we have converted Secretary Mills to the many advantages offered by a sales tax.

It may be too late, but Theodore Roosevelt suggested that we trade the Philippines for Ireland, so that we could raise our own policemen.

Nothing personal, but isn't it curious that a man can't realize how funny he is when he takes himself instead of his job seriously?

The difficulty of finding political issues here of sufficient importance for a presidential campaign is emphasized by the contest confronting Germany, of deciding between the conservative old warrior, Hindenburg, and the revolutionary young fighting cock, Hitler.

There are virile, practical men who approve Japan's conquest of China as the best thing for the world and for that great land endelessly torn by civil strife and pillaged by war lords. But the whole tendency of the world since the World War has been away from strong-arm methods and imperialistic designs. Whether any formal action is ever taken or not, Japan is going to feel the effects of moral and actual boycott for years to come.

There must have been many a Japanese cogitation on what would have happened at Shanghai if the Chinese had been equally well supplied with warships, airplanes, tanks and big guns.

Merely incidental to the centennial celebrations, the fact that George Washington had no children emphasized the point that the distinction between descendants and kinsmen should be more carefully observed.

We can't do much for the Chicago professors who can "demonstrate" that a greatly superior life exists in distant worlds, but can't figure out a way to get there.

"Garner will make no fight for the nomination." One A. Smith started out that way a fortnight ago.

MEXICAN SKYSCRAPER.

Mexico City's skyline, held low through the centuries because of earthquake hazards and because the city rests on a foundation of mud, is headed upward says the Los Angeles Times. Workmen are erecting the steel framework of a 12-story building, a virtual skyscraper.

It will be by far the tallest edifice in the republic. The appearance of this structure, to consist of 10 ordinary stories and a tower equivalent to two more, in the heart of the city, will make Mexico City resemble more the city of a million population that it is. The architects, who went to New York before they planned the structure, mapped out a design that in effect is similar to a baby skyscraper in cities north of the Rio Grande.

A Job That Is Done Seems Perfect Only to the Man Who Can't Improve It

By ROBERT QUILLEN

FIVE simple words tell the story of progress and growth. They are spoken in bitterness and loathing, in shame and repentance.

"What a fool I was!"

They are words spoken in shame, yet they have the meaning of a boast. The one whose groaning spirit utters them is a bigger man than he was. He has moved up a notch. If he hadn't improved, he wouldn't be able to realize what a numskull he was yesterday.

The man who boasts that he never has spoken those words is making a shameful confession. He is saying that he never has grown.

For it is the nature of man to make a fool of himself early and often, and none born of woman escapes the experience.

We grow by making mistakes. We develop by means of trial and error—plus the resolve to mend our ways. Wisdom is a product of blusters, and the diploma won in the school of experience is a sore spot.

"But I have grown," you say, "without once playing the fool."

There are three possible explanations. You may be the world's one perfect and blameless man, or you may employ a unique definition of the word fool, or you may be an incompetent witness.

A disinterested world must be the judge—not you. When a vain man plays the fool, he alone of all the world is unaware of it. And if vanity continues to blind him to the truth, he has no hope of growth.

It isn't a pleasant experience to recall the follies of the past. Many people deny thsemselves the pleasure of solitude and quiet leisure in order to avoid it. They keep moving to avoid thinking.

But the memory of follies is your record of achievement and the ability to feel shame is your proof of progress.

So long as a man can see faults in yesterday's work, he is growing. When his pride begins to feed on the good work he did last year, he is an old man on the way down hill.

If the great men of your boyhood seem less great today, it is through no fault of theirs. Your growth has lessened the contrast.

PRO AND CON

A Free Convention.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Persistent rumors that Chairman Raskob, of the Democratic national committee, together with former Gov. Smith and Executive Chairman Shouse, had combined to prevent the nomination of Gov. Roosevelt for the Presidency, have brought forth an explicit denial from Mr. Shouse and the assurance that national headquarters has been and will continue to be neutral, exercising no influence for or against any contestant. In his statement Mr. Shouse proceeds frankly to say that he prefers uninstructed delegates. He offers a number of reasons and, it seems to us, makes a good case.

A specially pertinent reason recites the fact that no one can foresee at this time what conditions will be when the convention meets in June. It might very well happen that the favorite of today would not be the logical choice of an unpledged convention four months from now. It is conceivable, at least, that the man of the hour may appear in the meantime. And in a situation critical beyond precedent, it is unnecessary to labor the point that a convention should be free to name the candidate who may have impressed himself on the party mind as the preeminent leader, or, in lieu of such eventful development, will win preferment in the discussion and rigorous analysis of an untrammeled convention.

X Marks the Villain.

Toledo Blade.

Most people have observed the change in the group picture of Democratic presidential aspirants. It shows what an artist can do. With a single deft stroke Mr. Smith has brushed out the arrow that pointed to Gov. Roosevelt.

Platform Building.

Ohio State Journal.

The problem confronting those putting up the political platforms is to make the flaws in the wood look like knot holes to the drys and bunghholes to the wets.

Rich Home Market.

Syracuse Post-Standard.

The importance of this country's domestic market is stressed by Col. Frank Knox, Chicago publisher appointed by President Hoover to direct the nationwide campaign against hoarding.

"Much of our trouble seems to be a national headache induced by eyestrain from looking across the Atlantic," he remarked. "We can't remedy conditions in Europe, but we can remedy them here."

The one great fact which Col. Knox uses to support his argument is that only 7½ per cent of American products are shipped abroad. The remainder is consumed in the domestic market. His conclusion is logical; that if we restore confidence at home, "ninety per cent of our troubles are over."

The President's Message.

Atlanta Constitution.

To the broad principle of simplification of the executive branch of the Federal Government in the interest of economy and efficiency, advanced in the message of President Hoover to Congress Wednesday, there is no reasonable ground for disagreement.

It remains to be seen whether the specific recommendations made toward the accomplishment of that purpose will be acceptable to both the Republican Senate and the Democratic House. If they are not, they at least furnish a basis from which a start can be made in working out a plan of consolidation of governmental efforts which will result in better service to the people at decreased cost.

Al No Stickler.

Detroit News.

We didn't get the impression, as some did, that Al Smith would accept the nomination only if it was on a silver platter. If it were on an ash tray we think he could forgive it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Another Well-Meaning Gentleman Construes Washington's Warnings to Mean the Opposite of What Washington Said.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am much interested to read in your editorial this morning the extract from Washington's letter to William Heath, dated May 27, 1797. When George Washington urged our citizens that "instead of being Frenchmen, or Englishmen, in politics, they would be Americans, indignant at every attempt of these or any other power to establish an influence in our councils," he doubtless had very vividly in mind his own experience as President with Citizen Genet, whom the French revolutionary government four years before had sent over as "Minister Plenipotentiary to the Congress of the United States" with the purpose of inducing the United States to declare war against England. While French Minister here Genet planned military expeditions against Florida and Louisiana. In defiance of Washington's proclamation of neutrality he equipped and sent out privateers. He refused to treat with Washington, and demanded an extra session of Congress to consider his demand that the United States join France in the war. And especially at the first he found considerable backing among Francophiles in the United States as he thus "presumed to sow the seeds of distrust and disunion among ourselves."

Was it not against such a condition of partisanship for or against warring European powers that Washington expressed his warning in the letter that you quote and in the Farewell Address? The warning did not keep us out when the seemingly interminable wars between France and England were drawing to a close and our interests suffered. But surely his words imply no disapproval of such present attempts at assuring just and friendly relations with all nations as the World Court, the Pact or the League, if it renounces war.

There were colonial isolationists in those days when in most ways Boston and even Charleston were farther from Fairfax County than the ends of the world now are from Washington. But the great Virginian was not one of them. Could he have envisaged the interdependent world in which on his two-hundredth birthday his name has sounded in the ears of his fellow citizens with the speed of light from Warsaw and Prague and Berlin, from Paris and London, and the Northampton where his fathers lived, he would not have been afraid to have his America take her part in the ordered and peaceful life of the world.

CHARLES L. CARHART.

Personal Liberty Considered in Event States Should Be Given Control of Liquor Traffic.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: After years of agitation, the wets have evolved no program on which they agree. They are still "a house divided against itself." This is due in part to the fact that they are confronted with a dilemma from which there is no escape. One of their stock arguments against the policy of prohibition is that it violates the rule of personal liberty. If, however, this is a valid objection, how can the advocates of State control justify their attitude? Is not the principle of personal liberty violated in State or local prohibition as well as in national?

The trouble is that personal liberty is largely a myth in a highly organized civilization, where the right of the individual to do as he pleases is necessarily subordinate to the interests of the public. The case of a wet official directing the affairs of a corporation which requires its employes to abstain from liquor is an illuminating example of the way the doctrine of personal liberty works out in this machine age.

In case the policy of State control were adopted, could those who now advocate it be counted on to uphold the popular verdict in States that voted "dry?" Would they respect the State laws and aid in their enforcement any more than they now do Federal ones? Or would they still feel free to patronize the bootlegger (whose operations would be greatly facilitated in case adjacent States were wet, on the ground of personal liberty? We wonder.

FRANK H. SPRAGUE.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

A PATIENT GOLFER EXPLODES.

Old Bill Jones is a golfer brave and a patient soul is he
When he dubs a shot he may like it not, but a smile is all you'll see.
Old Bill just grins at his golfing sins and silently walks them out.

There are times I've known when old Bill Jones was a strong man sorely tried,
But never a word from his lips I heard, though he must have boiled inside.
And I whispered low: "No man can show such marvelous self-control;
There will come a day when he'll throw away his everlasting soul."

Good luck or bad he still seemed glad to be out with a golfing friend,
But there came a day, with one hole to play, when a drive meant several pounds,
And old Bill shot with a mighty swat—and that ball went out of bounds!

He took one look at that hook and turned, like a madman on the tee,
We three stood still and gazed at Bill, for his face was a sight to see.
His veins stood out, as he strode about, ere the speech began to flow, formation on which they have based their essays.
Then he frightened the birds in the trees with words which he wasn't supposed to know.

"But, in addition to studying and reading about George Washington, they must sit down quietly and think about the lessons of his life.

"Another thing which strikes me as most commendable in The Post contest is that it permits children to enter the essay contest at any age, but later the essays will be classified into age groups in order to be able to judge just how well the children have done according to their ages.

"I will watch The Post, which I read daily, for the prize-winning essays after the contest closes on March 14 and expect to obtain much pleasure and profit from reading them. No one of us can learn too much about George Washington, and I feel certain that the essays will bring us some original points of view on the Father of His Country."

Flood of Essays Expected.

As the contest enters into its last stage, it is expected that the flood of essays will be greatly augmented by groups of essays turned in from certain schools where practically all boys and girls in the school have entered the contest. It is remarkable how many college men and women who have not yet reached their nineteenth birthdays are submitting essays. The attractive cash prizes—first prize of $100 and $25 are among the things which are inducing older boys and girls to compete.

Among those applying for the booklet yesterday were Kent Ward, 405 Rosemary street; Robert Bladen, 184 Cedar lane, Bethesda, Md.; Charles Henderson, 613 Elliott street northeast; Anne Brown Smith, 1433 Harper street northwest; Alice Henderson, 5115 Longfellow street northwest.

Among the Washington essays submitted yesterday were those from Frances Knapp (age 14), 3008 Forty-fifth street northwest and Edith Frances McChesney (age 7), 3421 Wisconsin avenue northwest.

Others turned in include those by: Blanche E. Sejen, Helen Claire Faye, Helen Ray, Lucille Richards, Evelyn Duvall, Elizabeth Anne Elkins, Alvin Hamleir, Atwood Strole, Mary Jane Croghan, William Clarkson, Marjorie H. Ellsworth, Nancy Crawford, Verona F. Via, Alton S. Johnson, Margaret Mills, Anna Kelly, Douglas Stanton, jr., Genevieve Vivian Mourer, Norma G. What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

IF February 24 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 5 p. m. to 6:15 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 8:40 a. m. to 10 a. m. and from 2 p. m. to 3:15 p. m.

Benefic configurations on February 24 hold out every prospect of an interesting, happy and profitable day. Those who have passed the days of youth will come under lucky influences in connection with love affairs and marriage. Young people of the susceptible age will suffer through infatuations into which they will be drawn on this date.

The child born on this February 24 will be strong-minded and well-balanced. Its horoscope reveals ability, perseverance and energy. It will be a resourceful worker, a clever sportsman, an intelligent talker and a top-notch student. It will win much through life by its own efforts.

Born February 24, you have a very positive, dynamic nature with much push and go. When others want rest and tranquillity, you want noise and bustle. When you can relax physically, you can not relax mentally, for your brain seems tireless and ever functioning. You are not content to work piecemeal, to creep upward step by step; you are only interested in quick meterializations. You are not afraid of work when you can see the result coming in, but you soon get bored when your efforts seem futile or the rewards far distant. The love of change and novelty is shown.

Both your mind and your fingers are alert, and you can both plan and do things. You have too much nervous energy to lead a sedentary life, and you should at least have hobbies which give you physical exercise if your work is of a mental type. One of your faults may be your attempt to cover too much ground and to take up too many interests.

Socially, you are a favorite, as you are entertaining, good-natured, witty and responsive. You must mix with people to be happy, as solitude is misery to you. You are too temperamental to make a restful companion for steady diet, and your life partner must exercise both patience and understanding to secure the desired harmony.

Successful People Born February 24.

Indoor—Outdoor Gardens

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

MORE ABOUT PERENNIALS.

WHEN setting out perennials we must pay attention to their period of flowering. If this is not done we may have a display of color, covering the entire border in June, and then an almost total absence of color until fall, when the hardy asters come into bloom. This condition can easily be avoided by planting some varieties which have their blooming season in midsummer. If we take the trouble to work out a plan on paper before we actually begin work in the open we can arrange our plants so as to have some flowers from late April until early November, when the chrysanthemums lend color to the garden. It is only in this way that we will be sure of a harmonious color scheme.

In the case of an established border, it is well to give the ground a top dressing of a well-balanced plant food or a combination of bonemeal and sheep manure. Of course, if a winter mulch was applied in the fall or early winter it is unnecessary to add more food, as this will be ample for the plants when it is turned under in April.

Owing to the great number of perennials, it is really a matter of individual taste which ones we select for our own garden. The following list contains the name of plants which are well suited for use in the borders of an inexperienced gardener.

The first ten plants are well suited for use in the back rows, as they are tall growers, being usually over three and one-half feet when fully maured; hollyhocks, anchusa Italica, hardy asters, digitalis (foxglove), delphinium (hardy larkspur), echinops (globe thistle), rudbeckia (cone flower), golden glow, helianthus, thalictrum (meadow rue), yucca filamentosum.

The second ten plants in this list are spoken of as medium varieties as they attain a height of one and one-half to three and one-half feet when matured: Anemone Japonica, aquilegia (columbine), campanula, coreopsis, Chinese delphinium, gaillardia (blanket flower), gypsophilia (baby's breath), iris, Oriental poppy, peony and hardy phlox. The third section of this list is made up of dwarf varieties well suited for the front locations of a border. Arabis alpena (rock cress), dianthus (hardy pinks), geum coccenium, heuchera (coral bells), iberis (hardy candytuft), iris (dwarf varieties, I. verna, I. pumila and I. cristata), dwarf phlox sublata, cowslip, sedum spectabilis and daisy.

All readers' questions on growing and care of indoor and outdoor flowers and floral decorations for social functions will be answered by Miss Kift, directly in this column if addressed in care of The Washington Post, or directly to readers if a self-addressed stamped envelope is supplied.

Jane Engle INTERPRETS the MODE

NEW YORK, Feb. 23.—Coral and jade!

Just the sound of them makes one dream, if dreams are there, and doors can be opened to beauty with a magic word. Coral and jade! Southern islands, tall palms with slender, straight bodies, like native women who walk with burdens on their heads—the ancient wall of China, dreaming the centuries away—coral and jade.

And Dame Fashion is a dreamer, if you would know. She, too, likes to indulge in the whim of opening dream doors with words, and sometimes gestures. Her latest is a gesture, and it is, coral and jade!

In evening gloves, my deahs. Evening gloves in these two colors are the latest and last word in chic. Why exactly these two are favored no one seems to know—unless it is that they can be matched with jewelry, and that they so well contrast the almost inevitable white evening gown.

Matching one's gloves to one's jewelry is new, too. And the very shades of coral and jade gloves are new.

Gives me an idea, too—amethysts and mauve gloves with a soft gray gown—topaz and amber, with fawn-colored gloves, well . . . !

* * * * *

"Prune" is a fairly uninteresting word, but when associated with fabrics, and especially taffeta, it becomes a magic word, too. Maggy Rouff says "prune" in the taffeta frock I sketch for you today. And then she says "string" and that, either—is not as dull as it sounds, when the string in this case means the trimming and what stiffens this gown. And, sh-h-h, is that a bb-b-b-ustle? No, a bow!

* * * * *

How is your handkerchief box? Time to re-hankie! Materials were never so cheap and I believe that they never will be again—and when a square large enough to make four gorlicious and ample hankies costs as little as 50 cents—I ask you plaintively, is there any reason why a lovely lady shouldn't have all the handkerchiefs in all the colors imaginable? There isn't!

Au revoir.

THE HOMEMAKER

By NANCY CAREY

SPANISH SOUP AS COLD-WEATHER DISH.

WEDNESDAY, February 24, and here we are nearing the end of this second month of the new year. The month which this year, as it is happens, contains that extra day, making our year a day longer, and in addition, bringing with it Leap Year, which may or may not have its advantages.

Thursday's Dinner.
Spanish Soup
Frizzled Dried Beef with Cream Sauce
Mashed Potatoes
Beet Greens
Prune Whip
Tea or Coffee.

Spanish Soup.

2 cupfuls of beans
4 teaspoonfuls butter
2½ quarts of cold water
1 bay leaf
2 small onions, minced fine
1 small bunch parsley
1 sprig of thyme
1 small green pepper
3 tomatoes or 1 cupful of tomato pulp.

Wash and soak the beans overnight, then drain and put in a kettle with the cold water. Bring slowly to a boil and let simmer for two hours. Melt the butter in a saucepan and add the minced onion, chopped parsley, bay leaf, thyme and green pepper. Brown slightly, add the beans and tomatoes and simmer for another hour or until the beans are tender. Put through a sieve and season to taste. Let the soup come to a boil and serve with croutons.

Frizzled Dried Beef with Cream Sauce.

2 tablespoonfuls fat
1 tablespoonful flour
1 cupful milk
Seasoning to taste.

Shred the beef and remove connecting gristle. Cover with boiling water and let stand 5 minutes. Pour off the water. Saute the beef in the fat until thoroughly heated and curled. Shake over the meat the tablespoonful of flour and mix thoroughly. Add the milk and stir until smooth and boiling. Season to taste.

Beet Greens.

Wash beet greens and remove young small beets. Cook and chop the greens. Season to taste with salt, pepper, lemon juice and butter and pack in small greased mold or bowl, set in boiling water to keep hot. Meanwhile, cook beets which have been cut from the greens and skin. Season to taste with salt, pepper and butter. Remove the greens from mold onto a hot, shallow dish and surround with the small beets. Serve hot.

Prune Whip.

Wash and pick over one pound of prunes and let them soak for two hours. Cook in same water until they are soft and the water has been nearly consumed. Remove the stones, cut the prunes in very small pieces and sprinkle them with three-fourths cupful of sugar. Beat the whites of four eggs until stiff and add the prunes slowly. Pour into a buttered baking dish and bake slowly from 20 to 30 minutes. Chill. Serve with whipped cream or pudding sauce.

Sauce.

Beat the yolks of the four eggs until thick and lemon-colored and add three-fourths cupful of confectioner's sugar, a pinch of salt and a third cupful of cream or top milk. Flavor with lemon or vanilla flavoring and chill. If necessary the sauce may be thinned to the desired consistency by adding either cream or milk.

THE WEIGHT GUIDE.

For individual assistance, write to Nancy Carey, sending a stamped, self-addressed envelope and give age, weight, height and habits of life.

Answers to Readers.

Dear Miss Carey—I should like very much to see a meat caloric list printed in your column. Will this be possible? R. A.

We shall be very glad to include for you today a list of the meats used in most everyday diets. Then, if there are others you should like, we shall be very glad to send them along to you. In addition to this, our folder of reducing suggestions, which we gladly send our readers upon request and receipt of a stamped, addressed envelope, contains a list of the more common foods and their caloric values. This list includes meats, fish, fruits, vegetables, &c.

	Calories.
Dried beef, 4 slices, 4 by 5 inches	100
Creamed dried beef, 1-3 cupful	100
Hamburger cake, 1, 2½ inches diameter	100
Beef loaf, 1 slice, 4 by 6, by ⅛ inches	100
Beef stew, 1-3 cupful	100
Rib roast, 1 slice, 5 by 5 ¼ inches	200
Round steak, 1 slice, 4 by 3 by 1⅛ inches	100
Roast lamb, 1 slice, 4½ by 3½ by ⅛ inches	100
Lamba chops, 2	200
Veal cutlet, 1 serving	283
Veal roast, 1 slice, 4 by 2¾ by ⅛ inches	200
Calves' liver 3¼ by 5 by ⅜ inches	200
Roast chicken, 2 slices, 3 by 2½ by ¼ inches	200
Broiled chicken, ¼	200
Creamed chicken, ½ cupful	200
Bacon, 4 slices, small	100
Ham, boiled, 1 slice, 4¾ by 4 by ⅛ inches	100
Pork chop, 1	100
Sausages, 2	120
Frankfurter, 1	100

Dear Miss Carey—Is it all right to include buttermilk in a diet which is strictly nonprotein? Is it fattening? Would one quart daily be too much for an individual? A READER.

Question No. 1—Since buttermilk contains 7.22 protein grams, as compared with 1.19 fat and 11.56 carbohydrate, it can be very definitely termed a "protein-rich" food. For this reason it should not be included in a strictly nonprotein diet.

Question No. 2—Buttermilk, since it lacks butter fat, may be used more generously than whole milk without causing a gain in weight.

Question No. 3—A quart of milk a day, whether whole milk, skimmed milk or buttermilk, is none too much. In fact, the taking of a quart of buttermilk a day is quite an old beauty secret. It works marvels for the complexion. If we could only persuade people to drink more and more milk and to increase the amount of fruit and green, leafy vegetables taken each day, a diet satisfactory for the preservation of vitality and health would soon be more generally secured.

Culbertson on Contract

by Ely Culbertson

World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

234.

THE LADY AND THE PLAY.

THOSE who have read my writings on Contract Bridge know that I have frequently stated that the average woman Bridge player plays better than her husband. This is not only true as to the average, but in many cases women qualify in the expert class. The hand below gave an opportunity for a lady in Ann Arbor, Mich., to disclose her ability to correctly execute that extremely rare play, the Grand Coup. The hand and bidding was:

South—Dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

	♠ K J 3 ♡ 10 ◇ A K Q 10 6 5 ♣ K J 3
♠ 8 7 2 ♡ 5 3 2 ◇ J 8 7 4 3 ♣ 7 5	N W E S	♠ 9 6 5 ♡ A 9 8 7 6 ◇ — ♣ A 10 9 8 2
	♠ A Q 10 4 ♡ K Q J 4 ◇ 9 2 ♣ Q 6 4

The Bidding.

South	West	North	East
1♡	Pass	3◇	Pass
3♠	Pass	5◇	Pass
Pass	Pass

It might be remarked in passing that perhaps the bidding disclosed the weakness of the sex in succumbing to the lure of diamonds when there was a safe game in spades and particularly is this true in view of the fact that had East not been in such a hurry to cash the two Aces, the contract could have been defeated. However, human nature is human nature and I myself with less reason have found the caress of such a diamond suit impossible to resist.

As the hand was played, the Ace of clubs was first led and then the Ace of hearts. East then continued the club suit and North won with the King and laid down the Ace of diamonds, only to receive the unpleasant news that all five adverse diamonds were held by West. It is apparent that unless the hand can be developed to produce a Grand Coup, West must make a trump trick. So the King of spades was led, overtaken by the Ace and then the nine of diamonds led from the Dummy. West did not cover and North played a small diamond. Now the King of hearts was led and trumped in the North hand. The Dummy was reentered by leading the three of spades to the Ten, the Queen of hearts led and the Knave of clubs discarded in the closed hand. The Knave of hearts was then led and West was helpless. He could have discarded or trumped, but it is immaterial. In the actual play he discarded his remaining spade. North also discarded her remaining spade. On the eleventh trick South led the Queen of clubs. West was forced to trump and North overtrumped with the Ten and picked up the Knave and eight with the remaining high trumps.

The contract could have been defeated by correct defensive play. East should have led the Ace of clubs and West should have played the seven to the first trick. East should then have continued with the club suit and when he regained the lead with the heart Ace, as he necessarily must before North has an opportunity to execute the coup, East should have led another round of clubs, giving West the opportunity to trump and defeat the contract.

TODAY'S POINTER.

Often the fall of the cards, if closely studied, will furnish a clew to the correct defense of the hand.

Education Described As Need for Recovery

"A Social Program of American Education" was discussed by Prof. William H. Kilpatrick, of Teachers College, Columbia University, before the Kappa Delta Phi honor educational fraternity last night.

Prof. Kilpatrick declared that it is the duty of education to help in a Nation-wide program of social planning if our economic and social situation is to be properly cared for. The current depression, bad as it is, has disclosed even deeper seated evils, he said.

Delta Phi Epsilon Host to Dr. Kleinsmid

Dr. Kleinsmid invited the fraternity members to attend the national convention at Los Angeles, Calif., on August 15-17. President Raleigh Dawson presided at the luncheon.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES M'DONALD

What—No Red Flannels?

DEAR Frances McDonald: I was interested in your wail, "Where are the old-fashioned girls who want a husband and babies?"

Well, if you call that old-fashioned I want to shout from the house top "here is one right here" and there must be lots more because all my friends are "that way," too, and (strange as it may seem) very happy.

I did not marry my husband because he was "tall, dark and handsome" or a perfect dancer and I didn't grab the first man who asked me, for fear of being left without, either. But—he does not wear woolen underwear, nor talk only of "pinching pennies," and he loves his home, he loves kiddies and after being married eight years, we still love each other dearly.

The girls of today don't have to look for fellows in red "flannels" to get a real man, surely the "Anitas" realize there is a happy medium between them and the gin-drinking, dance hall sheiks who call themselves "modern youth," but who, in my opinion, are getting a little passe, like the flapper. Somehow as husbands they don't seem to wear very well.

I have found that lots of imitations look better than the genuine article at first glance, but I picked my man to wear a lifetime (I suppose that is old-fashioned, too).

Yes, strange as it may seem, I still get thrills. I have fun. I dance and I am happy with my husband, my home, and our two darling kiddies (and I hope to make that number six some day). Incidentally our income is $32.50 per week, so I do all my own work and like it—and yet I call myself modern. Ho-hum!

MARY MARIE.

Dear Frances McDonald: Why do you assume that Anita is frivolous just because a suitor in red flannels gives her "the willies?" Would you take such a man yourself? I would not. It seems to me that nickel-nursing and chills would just naturally go together. I am married and live in just such a two-family house as Anita refers to as the goal of her red flannel suitor. We own it—or will in about two more years, but if my husband wore red flannels he could own the Woolworth Tower and I would not have him. It seems to me a girl is entitled to some romance and a few thrills and I can not see how any girl could thrill over a man who clung to the red flannel past. This man has many more traits you may be sure besides those poor Anita has enumerated, and I for one do not blame her for passing him up—even if no other ever crosses her path.

Marriage is awfully every-day and commonplace after you are really into it, and if there was no thrill to start with what has a woman got to cling to? My husband is very homely, but, somehow he always thrilled me. I was jealous of him and am still because, home or not, he has what they call "it." He is very dignified and a woman would have a hard time starting anything with him, but just the same I have seen a few try. Anita is probably not waiting for perfection, but I can not blame her for turning down an anaemic soul who can't get warm without wearing woolen undies. The man is just impossible when you add to that the fact that he is stingy. I am for Anita and every other girl who holds out for thrills at least at the start, for there may not be many at the finish.

NO RED FLANNELS.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

A DOCTOR'S SPRAY.

A HALF century ago Dr. Murrell advised people who had winter coughs to use an ipecac spray. His recommendation was that wine of ipecac be diluted with twice its bulk of water, and sprayed with steam, or otherwise. This treatment came to the attention of Dr. E. J. Kuh, who began using it.

Finding that it gave relief to the unpleasant symptoms, he modified the recipe and the method of using. He has had a long and extensive experience, beginning with the original method used to relieve winter coughing, and extending to the use of modification for the relief of that disorder and several others. The recipe he has used for many years is 1 to 2 per cent creosote, ½ to 1 per cent camphor, 2 per cent oil of pine needles, and enough of abolene (or some other mineral oil of that density) to make 100 per cent. This is sprayed with compressed air. He uses a No. 56.

To use, the patient must be thoroughly relaxed. The tube and curved tip of the spray apparatus is introduced far back into the mouth, the end being located near the tonsil area. The tongue is not depressed. Unless the patient is so thoroughly relaxed that his tongue does not get in the way, he is not likely to get much relief from this method.

The man exhales just before the spraying begins. He then inhales gently and deeply through his partly closed lips, as the spraying goes on, the objective being to have the spray carried throughout the air tubes, even to those located in the chest, within reach.

This method of spraying the bronchial tubes was done originally for the purpose of cutting the phlegm and soothing the cough in those attacks of bronchitis which come during the winter season and then hang on. As time passed and experience accumulated, Dr. Kuh and his patients found additional uses for it. Some of the older hands among the patients use it when they feel that they are catching cold. They have faith in it as a means of warding off chest colds, and of relieving the symptoms of acute bronchitis. He has had some favorable experiences with this spray in whooping cough. He says: "Tractable children may be trained to relax themselves enough to use the spray with advantage. The few fearless children with whooping cough who submitted to the inhalations recovered within ten days. The same experience holds good for adults afflicted with this disease."

It is of service in chronic bronchitis, in chronic bronchitis with emphysema, and in bronchial asthma. It is of service as a palliative in hay fever.

IGNORE HEAD NOISES.

J. J. G. writes: I am troubled with head noises. This affects my hearing slightly. What can I do for myself?

REPLY.

Averaging cases, the best thing to do for head noises is to ignore them. We train ourselves to ignore all other noises. Why not these?

WILLIAM M. IMLAY, FISCAL AGENT, DIES

Official of Federal Reserve Board, 61, Succumbs to Illness.

William M. Imlay, for 15 years fiscal agent of the Federal Reserve Board, died yesterday at his home, 19 Vergilia street, Chevy Chase, Md., following an illness of several weeks. He was 61 years old.

Mr. Imlay was a native of Magnolia, Iowa. He came to Washington in 1899 and for some time served as a clerk in the Navy Department. A short time later he was appointed confidential secretary to Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury.

During his service in the Treasury Department, Mr. Imlay acted as assistant superintendent of the building and served as a clerk in the disbursing office. In 1914 he was appointed a clerk in the Federal Reserve Board. He held that position until 1917 when he was made fiscal agent, a post which he held until his death.

Mr. Imlay was widely known in business and fraternal circles here and held membership in the Masonic Order, the Order of the Eastern Star, and the Modern Woodmen of America.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Jennie Eastman Imlay, whom he married in Newport News in 1900, and two children, Miles H. Imlay, of New London, Conn., and Lucille B. Imlay, of this city.

Funerall arrangements have not been completed.

RAYMOND S. COLLINS DIES.

Former Resident of Capital Expires at Home in Brooklyn, N. Y.

Raymond S. Collins, 64 years old, formerly a resident of Washington, died last Thursday at his home in Brooklyn, N. Y., it was learned here yesterday. Funeral services were held Saturday in that city.

Mr. Collins was born in Washington. He was educated in the District public schools and for a number of years conducted an insurance business here. Later moving to Brooklyn, Mr. Collins was connected with the Consolidated Gas Co., of New York.

Surviving him are two brothers, Guy V. Collins, an employe of the Evening Star, and Ralph A. Collins; two sisters, Mrs. Ada A. Gaskins and Mrs. May Dickinson, of Bayside, N. Y.; his widow, Mrs. Margaret Collins, and four children, Raymond, Vincent and Paul Collins, Sister Stella Aloysia, of St. Peter's Convent, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

MRS. CLARE HIGGINS DIES.

Insurance Man's Wife Will be Buried Tomorrow.

Mrs. Clare Lipscomb Higgins, 42, wife of John J. Higgins, well known in the insurance business here, died yesterday at Georgetown University Hospital after a short illness.

Funeral services for Mrs. Higgins will be held at the family residence, 3800 Military road northwest, tomorrow at 9:30 a. m. A requiem mass will be said subsequently at the Blessed Sacrament Church and interment will follow in Oak Hill Cemetery.

Besides her husband, Mrs. Higgins is survived by three children, John J., 15; William S., 13, and Laurie Anne, 11; two sisters, Mrs. Paul H. Wacker and Miss Josephine Lipscomb, of this city; three brothers, Norman J. Lipscomb, Walter A. Lipscomb, of this city, and John T. Lipscomb, of Clarendon, Va.

MRS. C. A. COFLIN IS DEAD.

Funeral Will be Held Tomorrow for Potomac Resident.

Mrs. Hattie R. Coflin, 48 years old, wife of Clifton A. Coflin, died on Monday at her home, 129 West Oxford avenue, Potomac, Va. Besides her husband, she is survived by two daughters, Miss Margaret Coflin and Miss Mary Coflin, and five sons, Thomas and James Coflin, of Warrenton, Va.; Clifton, Scott and Richard Coflin, of Alexandria.

She also leaves her mother, Mrs. Mary Brawner, and three sisters, Mrs. Russell Mundy, of Washington; Mrs. Claude Javins, of Franconia, and Mrs. Bernard Sweeney, of Alexandria. The funeral will be held at 9:30 o'clock tomorrow morning from St. Rita's Catholic Church, Mount Ida, conducted by the Rev. L. J. Koster. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery.

LAFAYETTE PARKER DIES.

Funeral Services Will be Held Today for Confederate Veteran.

Lafayette Parker, aged 92 years, died on Monday at his home, 1514 King street, Alexandria, and the funeral will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the home, conducted by the Rev. Ryland T. Dodge, pastor of the Baptist Temple, and the Rev. C. M. Compher, pastor of the Methodist Protestant Church. Burial will be in the Methodist Protestant Cemetery in Alexandria.

The deceased was a Confederate veteran, at the beginning of the War Between the States, enlisting in the Loudoun Guards and serving throughout the conflict. He was one of the few remaining veterans who was present at the surrender at Appomattox. He is survived by five sons, Maurice, Frank, William, Clarence and Lafayette Parker, jr.

WILLIAM E. LORENTZ DIES.

Funeral for Government Printer Will be Tomorrow.

William Edward Lorentz, 59 years old, died suddenly yesterday at his residence, 207 Sixth street southeast. He had been employed at the Government Printing Office for 31 years.

Surviving Mr. Lorentz are his wife, Mrs. Maud Lorentz; a son, Leonard, and a daughter, Mrs. Ruby E. Halterman. He was a member of Columbia Commandery No. 2, Knights Templar, and National Lodge No. 12, F. A. A. M.

Funeral services for Mr. Lorentz will be held tomorrow at his home by the Knights Templar, beginning at 2 p. m. Masonic burial rites will be observed at Cedar Hill Cemetery.

Crismond Funeral Is Today.

The funeral of Harry F. Crismond, 65 years old, who died on Monday in a Washington hospital, will be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from Demaine's funeral home in Alexandria, conducted by the Rev. Pierce S. Ellis, pastor of the First Baptist Church. Burial will be in Bethel Cemetery, Alexandria.

MOTORISTS' CAMP PERMIT IS REFUSED

Prince Georges Commission Votes Opposition to Highway Cabins.

Going on record as being opposed to the establishment of any further tourist camps along the Baltimore boulevard, the Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday rejected an application for a permit to build four tourist cabins between Beltsville and Hollywood.

Action of the board was unanimous, and the rejection will constitute a precedent, they said. The application was made by Jacob S. Gurevich, and referred to the commissioners by the park and planning commission. The ban applies to camps where separate cabins are to be built and rented.

The commissioners also recommended to the sheriff that prisoners serving jail sentences be kept in the Marlboro Jail except when this building is full. This action was taken when it was pointed out that time served in the lockup at Hyattsville might not be legal, as there is no provision in the Maryland law for more than one jail in a county.

It was also directed that taxable securities be assessed at their market value on March 1. This will only be done if holders of them ask for a reassessment, however. In many cases this will lower taxes of the holders, as many of the securities owned in the county are assessed at peak prices, it was said.

The clerk to the commissioners was directed to write to the State Roads Commission, asking them to use a portion of the present Ritchie-Marlboro road in the new State road being built. This will save the expense of grading and the cost of keeping up parallel roads. Lieut. Col. L. A. Kunzig, commanding officer at Fort Washington, appeared before the board again to ask the repair of the road leading from the Livingston road into the post.

A letter from Raymond W. Bellamy, Federal director of employment in Maryland, was read to the board, in which Bellamy suggested that the county police be sent to the State Police School for training. He was informed that this plan had been under consideration for some time. A letter from Leon S. Braunstein, of 936 Shepherd street northwest, was also received, commending Sergt. A. W. Hepburn and other county police for their handling of an accident case in which Braunstein was involved. It spoke of the uniform kindness and courtesy of the force.

Woman Sues Bus Firm For $2,500 Damages

Alleging that she was permanently injured in an auto crash on Rhode Island avenue near the District line last October, Mrs. Rosa Reed, of Brentwood, Md., has filed suit for $2,500 against the Nevin Bus Line in Marlboro Circuit Court.

According to her suit, filed through Attorneys J. Wilson Ryon and Albert R. Hassall, she was riding in an auto driven by her husband when it was involved in a collision with a bus. She received lacerations of the scalp, internal injuries and a broken rib, her bill states.

Maryland Child's Death By Auto Held Accidental

A verdict of accidental death was returned last night by a Prince Georges County coroner's jury investigating the death of Audrey Ling, of Clinton, killed when he ran in front of an auto driven by Charles S. Early, jr., son of former Sheriff Charles S. Early.

The child, who was 6 years old, was struck near his home Monday and brought to Casualty Hospital, where he died shortly afterward.

2 Boys 'Killed' by Tree Regain Consciousness

Two colored boys, prisoners at the Maryland House of Reformation at Cheltenham, Md., who were "killed" yesterday when struck by a falling tree, recovered several hours later while a coroner's jury was being impaneled to hold an inquest over them.

The boys, Godfrey Rickett, 17, and John Queen, 16, were chopping down the tree when it suddenly toppled and fell, pinning them under the branches. County police were called and had summoned a jury when officials of the prison phoned to say the youths had recovered consciousness. Each suffered a broken leg.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

THERE are now two authors of record who have expressed complete satisfaction with the manner in which their works have been translated into terms of the cinema.

Preston Sturges, I believe, let it be known that the film version of his play, "Strictly Dishonorable," met with his full approval and now along comes Tom Gill who entertains similar kindly thoughts toward those who converted his 80,000-word novel of "The Gay Bandit of the Border" into a fast-action film known as "The Gay Caballero," to be seen as chief screen feature for the week beginning this Friday at the Fox.

This almost unprecedented authorial viewpoint came to my knowledge following Managing Director Harry W. Crull's private screening of "The Gay Caballero," at the Fox Monday midnight, at which Mr. Gill and his charming wife were guests of honor, along with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Morgan, Mr. Morgan formerly having been general manager of the Crandall interests in Washington and still being a showman at heart who can not enter any man's theater without developing an irresistible yen to get back in the racket!

In a considerable conversation with Mr. Gill I learned that much of his life has been spent among the people and amid the scenes on the Mexican border of which he writes. He is by way of being a bit of a rancher, and globe-trotter, as well as writing man.

It was necessary to hurry a little with the previewing business to enable Mr. Gill to see his picture without a long delay, because he and Mrs. Gill are about to embark on a protracted West Indian and South American cruise that will keep them out of the United States well over the first-run release dates of the picture. The cruise, by the way, is in the nature of an airing-out process preliminary to the beginning of another novel of the West that is to run as a serial in a popular magazine, starting in September. The new work is mapped but not written and eventually, no doubt, will find its way to the screen.

Mrs. Gill, incidentally, was once a motion picture actress, her first assignment having been as understudy to Elsie Ferguson.

But, returning to "The Gay Caballero," Mr. Gill is of the opinion that, everything considered, Fox has done a pretty swell job with his story. The photography pleases him immensely—as well it might—but more especially is he impressed by the fact that the adapters have "caught the feel of the yarn."

The film has been particularly well cast. Victor McLaglen, George O'Brien, Conchita Montenegro and Weldon Heyburn turn in spirited and consistent performances.

This Weldon Heyburn, the former Washingtonian known to his intimates as "Spanny" Franks, gives a much better account of himself here than in "The Silent Witness." He also takes a terrific beating from George O'Brien in a smashing fight scene during which I understand he sustained a couple of cracked ribs and other abrasions, contusions and bruises. Well he might!

I may add that these personal impressions are derived from all but the first reel of the film, which had run off the spool before the critical duties falling to this column's lot in connection with "The Social Register," at the National, could be discharged.

What I think is an unique conception of how George Washington may most believably and most fittingly be impersonated came to this department's attention a day or two ago when George Washington himself miraculously seemed to walk into my office, velvet breeches, lace ruffles, powdered wig and all.

As a matter of fact, it turned out to be Mr. L. H. Hass, of Pontiac, Mich., but the illusion was almost perfect. When Mr Hart goes into action in the character of the Father of His Country, I am given to believe that the effect is startlingly realistic.

Mr. Hart is by way of being an actor who finds it possible to imbue his impersonation with all of the emotional qualities the First President is popularly reputed to have possessed. Furthermore, his physique quite fulfills the popular notion of Washington's impressive physical endowments.

But all these, I think, are minor considerations in comparison with the fact that Mr. Hart in assuming the character of George Washington speaks only those lines which Washington is known himself to have spoken or written. The text of Mr. Hart's utterances invariably is in Washington's own words.

So comprehensively has Mr. Hart achieved actuality in his historical simulations that his fame has spread from a small Michigan city virtually throughout the country. He is in Washington to fulfill an engagement to appear before the membership of the National Education Association. This, however, is not his first professional visit to the Capital. He has appeared here before the student bodies of the Holy Cross Academy, the Cathedral School for Girls and other important institutions of learning.

But it is, I will admit, a little disconcerting to have George Washington walk in on you like that!

Squaring-it-with-the-public-(if any) note:

I defy any one to discover one iota of pathos in the lines or action of "The Social Register," in which Lenore Ulric and Sidney Blackmer are appearing at the National.

Yes, I know that is what Tuesday morning's review said, but what I wrote was "bathos." After all, there is a difference!

In case you hadn't heard, five Washington girls appear in the prologue being presented this week at the Earle Theater in conjunction with first public presentations of "Washington, the Man and the Capital," the Warner Brothers' special Bicentennial film. Stafford Pemberton directed the choreographic portions of the prologue, featuring Janet Heibig, Betty Yoder, Eda Momoskcha, Helen Herdrick and Jane Bagley.

You might have known it would turn cold just as soon as you drained that antifreeze solution out of your radiator!

8 Teams Are Left In Bridge Tourney

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The polite preliminary stages of the Eastern contract bridge team of four championships ended late today, with eight teams left for the ruthless "knocking out" process that begins tomorrow. Sixteen of the 24 teams entered for the Curt H. Reisinger Trophy had been eliminated.

Virtually every player left is a top-notcher, and the experts expect them to give no quarter as they continue the elimination process by weeding out four more teams tomorrow, two on Thursday and decide the championship itself Friday.

The "four horsemen"—P. Hal Sims, David Burnstine, Oswald Jacoby and Willard S. Karn—forged valiantly from behind to score 31 match points and lead their section; a Cavendish Club team—Walter Malowan, J. Matheys, H. Schenken and S. Stearns—runners-up to the "horsemen" in the recent Vanderbilt Cup competition, led the second section with 34 out of a possible high point score of 55.

Broderick Assailed As Bank Trial Starts

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—As Joseph A. Broderick, State superintendent of banking, went on trial today for neglect of duty, he was accused by the prosecution of not having done all in his power to protect the 400,000 depositors of the Bank of the United States before the institution closed its doors.

About 50 men and women who had money in the bank held a protest meeting in the street near the court building, demanding the State pay all depositors in full. About 45 per cent has been paid back so far.

MONTGOMERY ASKED FOR TOMB APPROVAL

S. G. Evans Plans to Build Mausoleum Near Club in Potomac Area.

With the plan in view to erect a mausoleum on property owned by Fulton R. Gordon, Washington real estate dealer, near Congressional Country Club in Potomac District, S. G. Evans appeared before the Montgomery County Commissioners yesterday in Rockville, Md., to announce intentions of filing a petition for such a permit. The tract contains about 75 acres.

The commissioners also received a protest from the Bradley Hills Citizens Association and from George P. Sacks, large property owner in the vicinity, opposing the rezoning for commercial purposes of any more property on Bradley lane. The protests declare that the property is located in a strictly residential area, except for the Chevy Chase Coal Co. property, which was nonconforming before the section was zoned.

The commissioners emphatically refused to grant a permit for boxing matches on March 18, at the Kensington National Guard Armory, which was applied for by Capt. Clarence V. Sayer, commanding officer of the Howitzer Company, First Infantry, Maryland National Guard. A previous permit had been refused by the commissioners, but at that time the matches were moved to Silver Spring Armory. The county commissioners refused the permit following the protests of the mayor and town council of Kensington. It is probable that the boxing question will be carried into the town elections in May.

Thomas J. Fisher & Co., agents for the Chevy Chase Land Co., yesterday notified the county commissioners that they will withdraw their application for rezoning of Wisconsin avenue at the District line pending further study of the matter. The rezoning was opposed by the citizens associations of the west side of Wisconsin avenue, but was indorsed by the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce and the Rockville Chamber of Commerce.

Six Members of House Plead Own Alien Bills

(Associated Press.)

The House immigration committee yesterday heard six representatives argue their own bills for immigration restriction. Representative Blanton (Democrat), Texas, urged a five-year exclusion of all aliens. His argument was directed chiefly against the importation of cheap Mexican labor in Texas.

Exclusion of alien communists as well as anarchists was urged by Representatives Hopkins (Republican), Missouri, and Bachmann (Republican), West Virginia. Representatives McCormack (Democrat), Massachusetts; Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, and Kvale (Farmer-Labor), Minnesota, advocated repeal of the natural origins sections of the immigration act.

Farmer Arrested on Rum Charge.

Alfred Ross was arrested yesterday on liquor charges by Federal dry agents after a still was found on his farm near Tracy's Landing, in Anne Arundel County. He was released by United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran on bond of $1,000, after being charged with manufacture, possession, and possession of articles for the manufacture of liquor.

Gov. Murray Opens Indiana Campaign

Is Stumping State in Drive for the Presidential Nomination.

Indianapolis, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Gov. William H. ("Alfalfa Bill") Murray of Oklahoma brought his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination to Indiana today.

His first address of a nonpartisan nature was delivered this afternoon before a State convention of the Rotary Club. His opening political gun was fired tonight at a Democratic rally at Monticello.

Savannah, Ga., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The application of Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma to have his name entered in the Georgia presidential preferential primary reached Savannah today, but it was about twelve hours too late to qualify him under requirements of the State executive committee.

Burns, Oreg., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—William H. ("Alfalfa Bill") Murray, Governor of Oklahoma, filed today for the Democratic nomination for President in the Oregon May primary election.

Clyde B. Cornell, of the Burns, Oreg., Times-Herald, sent the necessary papers to Murray, who returned them here with his signature. Mr. Burns mailed the papers today to the secretary of state in Salem.

Supreme Court Sets Date In Power Body Dispute

(Associated Press.)

The Senate's fight to set aside the confirmation of George Otis Smith, chairman of the Federal Power Commission, was advanced yesterday by the Supreme Court for hearing on March 21. The court announced it would decide whether the Senate had the right to recall its confirmation and would not confine its opinion to the narrower grounds of the question asked by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, where the case is pending.

The effect is that the case is taken out of the hands of the Court of Appeals and will be settled by the highest court. The Attorney General was granted permission to argue in support of President Hoover's position that the Senate's confirmation of the Power Commission's chairman was final. The District of Columbia Supreme Court took the position that the Senate could not change its mind, but John W. Davis, Senate counsel, appealed.

CHARTER REVISION READY FOR ACTION

New Plan for Alexandria Is to Be Introduced Soon in Virginia House.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

City Attorney Carl Budwesky has prepared and delivered to Delegate J. Fred Birrell, of this city, a new charter for the City of Alexandria to be introduced in the House of Delegates.

Delegate Birrell and the members of the Alexandria City Council last week held a conference over the proposal to change the number of councilmen for the city, also the manner of their representation. The council has indorsed an increase from five to nine members of that body, but the election to be at large, as is the present plan, while Delegate Birrell, at the request of a large number of citizens, had introduced in the State Legislature a bill to have nine members of council, one to be chosen from each of the six wards, and three at large. This measure met with the opposition of the present council and also the members of the Alexandria Chamber of Commerce, but was acceptable to a very large number of the citizens.

The new charter, prepared by the city attorney, provides two plans, one being the "council at large" plan, under which there would be seven members of the council elected at large. The other is the "council by ward" plan, under which there would be nine members—six from the respective wards and three at large.

The charter further provides for a special election to be held on Tuesday, March 29, to determine which of the two plans shall be adopted. The plan adopted to be effective on and after September 1.

A free chest clinic will be held at the city health office at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon, conducted by Dr. H. A. Latane and Dr. Llewellyn Powell, for white persons, and at the same hour and place tomorrow one will be held for colored patients.

Church Club to Present Bicentennial Program

A Washington Bicentennial program has been planned for this evening by the Men's Fellowship Club of the Presbyterian Church at Vienna, Va. This celebration will take the place of the club's regular meeting.

Mrs. Joseph Berry will tell of the domestic life at Mount Vernon. "George Washington, the Farmer," will be the subject of the talk by Franklin Williams. Fairfax County Surveyor Joseph Berry will speak of Washington as a surveyor, while Wells A. Sherman will sketch his military career, Ronald Blake his political life, and Herbert Gherkin will speak of him as a churchman.

News Correspondents Restricted by Japan

Shanghai, China (Wednesday), Feb. 24 (A.P.).—Japanese headquarters announced today that no foreign correspondents will be permitted within the Japanese lines without special permission from the high command. Some of the correspondents "took advantage of the courtesies extended and used imagination too freely in the propagation of false news," the headquarters spokesman said.

AMERICAN SECURITY IS THE BEST SECURITY

Can Too Much Money Become a Family Burden?

Few answers would be in the affirmative if this question were addressed to men whose positions as heads of families impose upon them the sacred duty of care and support.

But there is a very different aspect as revealed by the financial and business experiences of widows who have been suddenly placed in the control of large sums of money.

These unfortunate situations frequently arise when widows with ready cash are approached by friends who seek loans; by advisors with investment schemes; or by children who insist on extravagant expenditures.

Protect your family against future financial losses by establishing a trust fund, either in your Will, or by special agreement, and by naming the American Security and Trust Company your Trustee.

You are invited to discuss your financial problems with the officers of our Trust Department.

BEWARE THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON
Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action; it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.
Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, attacks the seat of the trouble and checks the growth of the germs.
Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis and other forms of respiratory diseases, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Money refunded if any cough or cold, no matter of how long standing, is not relieved after taking according to directions. Ask your druggist. (adv.)

Police Chief Asks Iron Bars To Protect Liquor Seizures

The placing of iron bars over the windows and strengthening of the doors of the liquor storeroom in the county building in Hyattsville are recommended by Police Chief J. J. Crowley and State's Attorney Alan Bowie in a report of the recent liquor robbery made to the Prince Georges County commissioners yesterday.

James S. Heal, clerk to the commissioners, and Commissioner George N. Bowen were selected by the board as a committee to examine the storeroom and make the necessary improvements. The report stated that 25 cases and two kegs were taken, and 25 cases, four 5-gallon kegs, and four 10-gallon kegs were left. The report of Policeman Arthur Brown, on duty at the time, was referred to the commissioners without comment by Chief Crowley.

Chief Crowley, in his report, pointed out that before the Hyattsville lockup was taken over by the sheriff, the outer doors of the building could be closed and locked at midnight. "Now," he says "the riffraff is back and forth for one purpose and another all the time." The robbery occurred early Sunday, when 130 gallons of liquor were stolen from the storeroom in the police station. The commissioners took no action against Policeman Brown, whose report said that he went to sleep at 4 a. m. and did not awake until 7 o'clock.

LET'S PULL Together

There's a job waiting for every idle dollar in America. And what a job active dollars can do to speed up business—to create new jobs for men eager to work. You can do your bit to help yourself and your country by drafting every slacker dollar you can lay your hands on—and putting it back in circulation, back to work!

GIVE us a hand . . . America has a big job to do!

And we've got the money, too. But some of it's lying idle.

That's it . . . idle money is crippling business. Forcing men out of work. Slowing down the wheels of industry. Smothering the entire country's system of credit.

Today . . . right now . . . there are over a billion and a half American dollars lying idle . . . not working.

Oh, it's easy for the average man to say . . . "That's no problem of mine . . . I haven't a lot of money."

But it is your problem. It's everybody's problem . . . rich and poor alike. A ten dollar bill withdrawn from circulation means a hundred dollar loss to credit. Don't you see how quickly active money multiplies?

Of course, you should save. But save wisely. Release your money in a conservative way that will benefit everybody.

If there's any question in your mind . . . talk to the able business men in your city.

But the net of it is . . . put your money where it will bring interest to yourself . . . and employment to others.

This isn't the first time that America has had a tough job to do. We had one in 1917. And we licked it by pulling together. Let's do this one the same way.

This is one of a series of advertisements printed without cost by the publisher of this newspaper. He has done this in a patriotic cause . . . to tell you these vital facts. For this great public service he deserves the nation's thanks.

INCOME TAX BLANK FOR BOOTLEGGERS.

(If the suggestion of William Gibbs McAdoo that the Government levy such a tax on all bootleggers were adopted.)

Name .....
Aliases .....
Residence .....

(Give street, pier, boat, jail, &c.)

1. Is this a joint return? If so, give list of joints.

2. State whether you paid an income tax to the United States Government last year, and give the circumstances which frightened you into it?

3. State your gross income as grossly as possible.

4. List separately such income from the sale of wood alcohol, bilge water, tincture of iodine, prussic acid, floor varnish and antifreeze solutions.

Exemptions.

1. A deduction of $3,000 a year for all lawyers necessary to the conduct of your business; $2,500 a year for all professional bondsmen; $1,200 a year for bodyguards; maximum total of these items, $6,700.

2. Expenses of trips to Washington to get prosecutions dropped, fines remitted or prison terms suspended.

3. Cost of padlock removals and reopenings next door. (Said reopenings not to exceed two a month.)

4. Cost of gifts to senators, ward bosses, district chiefs, mayors, city attorneys and police officials. (Group police officials.)

5. Gifts sent to weddings of daughters of prosecuting officials, enforcement agents, politicians, &c.

6. Expenses necessary to operation of business office. Deductions may be made for all legitimate expenses such as (a) construction and operation of bullet-proof automobiles; (b) firearms necessary to business (c) bribes paid to public servants; (d) use of hearses, ambulances, &c., in transporation of liquor for the retail trade.

7. Losses by fire and storm. These losses may include those sustained in raids, hijacking, operations by land or sea, explosion of stills, wrecking of trucks, speedboats, &c.

8. Leakage, breakage, seepage, confiscated cargoes, &c.

9. Warehouses abandoned in haste. (Do not list names of prominent citizens involved in deal by which warehouse was leased and used in violation of the Constitution).

10. Testimonial Dinners. Deductions may be made for moneys spent for tickets to testimonial banquets to city, State or national politicians.

Depreciation.

1. Deductions may be made for depreciation of private yachts, motor caravans, limousines, country estates, racing stables, summer homes, airplanes &c.

2. Charity. Deductions may be made for contributions to campaign funds, dependent judges, friendly court officials, probation officers, sheriffs, wardens, &c. (Do not get personal. We all have to be careful.)

3. Travel. Deductions may be made for the costs of trips abroad if made for the purpose of dodging arrest or avoiding trial. Otherwise forget them.

4. Net Income. (This may be ascertained by subtracting deductions from gross receipts; multiplying the result by 24 full quarts and labeling the residue as just off a boat.)

STOCK PRICES DROP IN QUIETER TRADING

Reaction After Rally Records 1 to 4 Point Losses on Selected List.

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Stocks slipped slowly backward today in the quietest trading since February 9. Prices sagged fractionally at the opening, recovered and then lost heart, drooping to an emphatically weak close. The last hour was the most active period. Net losses in many instances ranged from 1 to more than 4 points, with the turnover 1,201,213 shares.

Brokerage houses which have been taking the view that the worst of the bear market was over found ground for calling the reaction a consolidation of the recent advance, pointing out that the list had still to complete a normal technical reaction from the midmonth rally.

Nevertheless, buying support was uninspiring, for shorts appeared to have regained their composure fully, and there was nothing in the day's news to stimulate demand in anticipation of another upward flurry. Further profit-taking was doubtless a factor.

Auburn Breaks 15 Points.

Auburn Auto had a 15-point break, although the market was not seriously troubled by the change in fortunes of this volatile issue. Union Pacific's loss of more than 6 seemed to have some weight, since it followed publication of a poor January earnings statement.

American Telephone and General Electric fell into heavy going during the last hour, losing 4⅝ and 2 points, respectively. General Motors, Du Pont, Case, American Tobacco "B," American Can, New York Central, Norfolk & Western and U. S. Steel finished 2 to 3½ lower.

Preferred stocks were mixed but with a tendency toward heaviness. January railroad earnings, several of which have now been published, are of special interest because they cover the first month of the higher freight rates. As the weekly car loadings had indicated, returns are unfavorable, although percentages of decline from a year ago run smaller. Results of the wage cut will not be fully apparent until the March statements appear; a better showing is then expected. However, traffic continues unsatisfactory and there is some question as to whether diminished volume will not offset the pay roll reductions.

Meetings on Dividends.

An unusually large number of dividend meetings were held, prominent among them being that of United Corporation which declared a 10 per cent quarterly payment on the common which has been on a 75-cent annual basis. This step reflected downward revision of dividends last year by two of United's large interests, Columbia Gas and Commonwealth & Southern.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank was reported to have been a heavy purchaser of banking acceptances both for its own account and those of foreign correspondents. The bank's holdings had been depleted by maturities and it was favorably situated to help the market by reducing accumulations in dealers' hands. It had been feared that these supplies might force an increase in rates.

With the French franc comfortably below the gold point and Swiss and Dutch rates tapering off, the question of additional gold shipments assumed, at least temporarily, less importance. It was recalled that France had failed to take advantage of the fact that two fast ships, on which she might have imported metal, sailed last week-end, and bankers were inclined to believe the flurry was over.

Merger of the two large German banks received considerable comment in Wall street, where this strengthening of the Reich's banking structure was commended.

WILSON REELECTED BY PHONE COMPANY

New Plant and Equipment to Cost $884,475 Is Authorized at Meeting.

Lloyd B. Wilson was reelected president and John A. Remon, general manager, of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. by the board of directors at its regular monthly meeting held here yesterday. Other officers elected were Marshal D. Sedam, Philip O. Coffin and John C. Koons, vice presidents; Walter B. Clarkson, vice president and secretary; Thomas B. Clarkson, treasurer; Harry C. Gretz, general auditor, and Ralph A. Van Orsdel, general counsel.

Capital expenditures for new plant and equipment which will provide additional facilities for telephone growth in Washington, involving expenditures of $884,475, were also authorized.

This brings the total amount authorized for expenditures this year to $2,745,493, according to a statement made by Mr. Remon. Included in this appropriation is the installation of additional central office equipment in various Washington offices, private branch exchange equipment and house cable in the Department of Agriculture and for private establishments.

The forum committee of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, under the direction of A. E. Henze, chairman, will hold its second meeting of the year on the tenth floor of the American Security Building tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock.

Norman E. Towson, assistant treasurer and manager of the foreign department of the Washington Loan & Trust Co., will be the speaker on this occasion and will have for his subject, "Our Economic Dilemma." He will then lead a discussion.

Mr. Towson is editor of Washington Chapter's magazine, Dollars and Sense, and has been identified with chapter activities for many years. He is well equipped to speak on this subject as he has long been a student of economics. He writes on economic problems and his articles, printed and distributed by the Washington Loan & Trust Co. to all parts of the world, receive favorable comment. The meeting is open to all graduate members of the chapter.

SPEAKER

Harris & Ewing.

NORMAN E. TOWSON.

Curb Review

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The curb market pursued a downward course, for the most part, in the wake of the big board, in quiet trading today.

The market appeared to be influenced largely by unInspiring character of general business and trade news, and the belief in some speculative quarters that a substantial technical reaction was required to consolidate the recent advance. The turnover was only 170,000 shares, as reduced from the 300,000-share turnover of the last 5-hour session.

Associated Gas common was a firm spot in the utilities, rising nearly a point to 6 1-2, while the class A stock sagged a small fraction. Standard Power and Light dropped 2 1-2 points to its bear market low at 17 in small turnover. The Electric Bond and Share issues were also heavy. The common sagged 3-8 of a point to 9 3-4 in a large turnover. The $5 preferred dropped 3 3-4, to 50 1-4 in a few sales. In the Insull group, Middle West eased 1-4 to 4 3-8.

In the industrials, there was some demand for Ford of Canada A, which rose 1 1-4 points, to 14 1-2, then slipped back to 13 1-2. Ford, Ltd., sagged 1-4, to 5. Aluminum Co. dropped 2 3-4 points and among the thinly traded issues, Singer Manufacturing dropped 7 points, to 125 in an odd lot transaction. A. O. Smith lost nearly 6 points.

Oils held up fairly well. Gulf lost a point, but Indiana and Cities Service were about steady, while Humble rallied more than a point. Oil and Gas Journal reported a substantial reduction in erude output and added that production now seemed under better control than for some time past. In the Investment Trusts, Atlas Utilities reacted about a point.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Liquidating sales led to sharp setbacks in grain prices today, despite announcement that 1,500,000 bushels of North American wheat had been taken for overseas.

Constructive news from abroad exerted less influence than expected, and weakness of feedstuff values had a bearish effect on wheat. No. 3 yellow corn was selling on an immediate delivery basis, 6 cents a bushel lower than May contracts, a market situation rarely met with at this time of year.

Wheat closed unsteady at almost the day's bottom lower, ½@1 lower than Saturday's finish, corn ¾@1 down, oats ½@1 off and provisions unchanged to 20 cents decline.

Setbacks in securities were an adverse element as to wheat during the last part of the day, although earlier ignored. A disappointing close at Liverpool after the wheat market there had shown independent strength was also effective to holders here to let go, together with Washington reports of proposed new enactments to put exchanges under additional restrictive regulations. Meanwhile, bearish crop reports about wheat prospects in Illinois and Missouri contributed to the downward course of the markets.

Big increase of Italy's wheat import quota lifting the allowance in some cases to 60 per cent gave wheat prices here notable upward momentum early. The action of the Italian government liberalizing its policy as to foreign wheat was generally taken as acknowledgment that European importers' supplies were almost exhausted, and there were predictions that France and Germany would follow Italy's example. Trade advices also were current that world import requirements of wheat would be at least 100,000,000 bushels more than recently had been estimated. Heavy selling pressure was in the day, however, tumbled prices back, and more than erased all gains.

Cash discounts were the lowest on the crop. Receipts of corn in Chicago were heavy, 360 cars, and shipping demand was sluggish. Oats gave way with corn.

Closing indemnities: Wheat—May, 59⅛ @59⅝; ——, 61¼@61⅝; July, 61⅛@61¼, 62½; September, 62¾, 64⅛. Corn—May, 38¾, 39¼@39⅝; July, 41⅝, 42¼; September, 42¾ bids.

ST. JOHN'S AND G. U. PREP QUINTETS REACH FINALS

A. A. U. Tourney Entries Set Record; More Than 100 Teams Seeking Titles

WITH mail registrations still coming in this morning, District A. A. U. officials last night waded through a record entry list of teams for the gigantic Bicentennial basket-ball tournament starting March 1 at Tech High, under the sponsorship of The Post.

With 103 teams accounted for, and the prospect of still more to come, the list swells past last year's record mark on an even 90 clubs, and guarantees the greatest tournament in the six-year history of the event. Every prominent team in Washington, ranging from mere slips of 100-pound outfits, to seasoned veterans of a thousand basket-ball wars, is under lock and key in the tournament.

Teams will be weighed in Thursday and Friday at the Boys Club, with Walter Haight, of The Post, once more manipulating the sliding weights.

Marines Again Seek Title.

In the preliminary sorting of the teams last night it was found that some 40 clubs have entered the unlimited division, including the Quantico Marines, Bliss Electrical School, Griffith Consumers, Saks Clothiers, Knights of Columbus and such spectacular high school teams as the Eastern Scholastics, public high champions of Washington; the Tech Scholastics and the "C" Club.

The next most popular class is the 145-pound group, which boasts of Business High, Olmsted Grill, St. John's Victors and the Boys Club. The 145-pound division drew fifteen teams and promises more.

The Eastern Reserves and the Y. M. C. A. Flashes are in the swim with 130-pound clubs, in which group thirteen teams have entered.

The record entry list was looked upon as a triumph for the D. C. A. A. U.'s ruling, early in the year, stressing organized and established teams in preference to fly-by-night, all-star aggregations.

Consumers Beat Saks in Title Tilt

Extra-Period Thriller Gives Griffs Class A Community Honors.

In the greatest Community Center League game of the year, the Griffith Consumers won the Class A championship last night at Central High, beating the Saks Clothiers, 34 to 33, in an extra-period game which soaked a capacity crowd with thrills. The regulation game ended 28 to 28.

Never more than four points separated the clubs as they battled dramatically for the right to meet Delaware and Hudson, Class B winners, in the league final. The Griffs led, 28 to 22, with three minutes left of the game, but the Clothiers scored on three unbelievable potshots flipped by Sherman, Lucas and Hook, in that succession. Hook's shot, delivered on the dead run with 30 seconds to play, tied the score.

Wiler, Timmons and Wiler boosted the Griffs to 34-28 in the first minute of the extra period. With the end of the game in sight, the Clothiers rallied once more. Hook and Lucas scored long shots and Fisher a foul, but the gun ended the fray at 34 to 33.

Three Golfers Top In "St. Pete" Open

Cox, Atridge and Wood in Front at End of First Round With 69s.

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Par figures were slapped around considerably today in the first round of the 54-hole St. Petersburg $1,500 open gold tournament as Wiffy Cox, of Brooklyn; Clayton Atridge, of Tampa, and Craig Wood, of Deal, N. J., jumped into the early lead with 18-hole scores of 69 strokes each. Par for the course is 72.

Joe Kirkwood, the Philadelphia trick-shot artist, was a stroke back of the leaders. Bracketed in third place with cards of 71 each were Hugh Kirkpatrick, St. Petersburg; Clarence Doser, Rochester, N. Y.; Harry Cooper, Chicago; Joe Turnesa, Elmsford, N. Y.; Johnny Farrell, St. Augustine, Fla., and Billy Burke, Bellair, Fla.

Old Line Five Master of Hopkins

Special to The Washington Post.

UNIVERSITY OF MARYLAND, 1931 Southern Conference basket ball champions, wound up its regular season here tonight, drubbing Johns Hopkins, 38 to 24, before a crowd of 2,500, in Ritchie Coliseum. The victory gave the Old Liners fifteen wins against three defeats.

It was Maryland's final game before entering the conference tournament at Atlanta, where the Blue and Gold is to meet Florida in a first-round game Friday afternoon. The Old Liners also clinched State honors, being the only quint having lost only one game.

The Blue Jays extended Maryland in the final half, trailing, 9 to 16, at the intermission, but the home five stepped out to amass a big lead in the second period.

Old Liners Forge Into Early Lead.

Ronkin started the scoring with a foul shot and Vincent pushed the count to 5 to 0 on a court goal and two free tosses. Russell counted a foul for Hopkins, but Maryland forged ahead at 9 to 1 on a floor goal and foul by Vincent and Buscher's foul. The Blue Jays, led by Heib Canetta with a pair of two-pointers, rallied before the half ended to outscore Maryland, 8 to 7. With Ed Ronkin playing a stellar all-around game and registering three floor goals, the Old Liners piled up a big advantage in the second half.

Second-stringers finished the contest. It was the last home game for the five Marylanders who have garnered high honors for the Blue and Gold on the hardwood—Shorty Chalmers, Ed Ronkin, Jack Norris, Bozie Berger and Charlie May. It was this quintet that brought home the Southern court title last winter.

University of Maryland freshmen basketeers closed their season at College Park last night, handily defeating Johns Hopkins yearlings, 33 to 14, in a preliminary to the varsity contest. The Old Liners' record for the year was ten wins against two losses.

ED MORGAN HOLDOUT.

Morgan, who played first base last year but appears headed for the outfield eventually, has until March 1, the date on which the second squad of Tribesmen arrive at New Orleans for spring training, to escape classification as a holdout under the interpretation of General Manager Billy Evans.

Chevy Chase Club Scene Of Sectional Trials for U. S. Amateur August 16

By HENRY LITCHFIELD WEST.

THE sectional qualification round, including Maryland, Virginia and this district, to determine eligibility to compete in the national amateur golf championship for 1932 will be played on the course of the Chevy Chase Club in this city on Tuesday, August 16. Information to this effect was received yesterday from an authoritative source. This means that the qualification rounds for both the national open and the national amateur have been assigned to the National Capital.

Uncertainty still surrounds the location of the course upon which the qualification for the national open will be played. The first notification that Washington would be selected for this event on June 6 was received last week by D. L. Thomson, president of the District Golf Association, in a letter from the United States Golf Association and he was asked to arrange with some local club for holding the contest.

Columbia Assigned Event.

At the meeting of the executive committee of the local organization, the Columbia Club was assigned the competition, but no action since has been taken. As the matter now stands, the Columbia Club must either accept the invitation to hold the qualification for the open or it will be debarred from any participation in a national event, inasmuch as the national amateur elimination has been scheduled for Chevy Chase. It is true that Columbia applied for the latter event a year ago, but apparently nothing was done to secure it.

The Chevy Chase Club, on the contrary, after making a similar application, obtained the friendly cooperation of the officials of the Maryland State Golf Association to urge its claims upon the governing body during the national amateur championship at Beverly Hills last fall and was also represented at the annual meeting of the national association in New York last January. The favorable impression thus created was a factor in securing the prize.

"We do not know whether we will hold the national open qualification at the Columbia Club or not," said President Asher last night."

Buc Holdout List Is Reduced to Two

Paso Robles, Calif., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Sore muscles and aching bones were forgotten in the Pittsburgh training camp tonight. Everybody was happy over the news that the holdout list has been cut to two. Pitchers Heinie Meine and Steve Swetonic are the only bucs dissatisfied over the salary offered them.

Larry French, one of the mound aces, blew into camp today, signed the papers, and went to work.

In addition, there came word from Pittsburgh that the second squad, which starts for the coast tonight, will be joined by the Waner brothers.

Brooklyn Boxer Shot On New York Street

New York, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Edward Oliva, 26, a Brooklyn pugilist known to fight fans as "Buck Oliver," was shot three times and killed today by an assassin who escaped.

Santa Caraciollo, also a pugilist, known as "San Cara," who was with Oliva, ran when the shots were fired, but later returned and was taken to a police station for questioning.

He told the police that he and Oliva were walking on West street when some one came up behind them and fired the shots. He said he did not see the man's face.

Good Condition of Nats' Hurlers Pleases Johnson

Marberry and Crowder Down to Weight; Ainsmith May Coach; Griffith Firm on Burke; Baxter Succeeds Hadley.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH (Sports Editor of The Post).

BILOXI, Miss., Feb. 23.—The talent among Washington's squad of fifteen ball players and coaches is slowly but surely being brought to the surface in the first week of their stay in this garden spot on the Gulf. Intraclub champions have already been established in ping pong, billiards, shuffleboard, lobby sitting and walking town, even though the baseball skill of the rookies among them in undetermined.

The time that ordinarily would hang so heavily on their hands at the end of the day's practice shortly after noon is being nicely dissipated in the billiard rooms, the ping pong layout and the lobby, with the more sedentary of the group pounding their ears on the deck chairs and wondering what the wild waves are singing. Oh, for the life of the poor beleaguered ball player in Biloxi.

An even half-dozen of the rookies are laying claim to the pool championship, which Bump Hadley held during the six years he was with the Nats, but there is none to dispute the claims of Assistant Trainer Frank Baxter to the lobby sitting championship which he has successfully held both here and at Tampa during his long tenure with the club.

Baxter's sitting posture in the deck chairs is a cross between a reclining position and the pose of the figure in the renowned portrait of "The Thinker," although he was cruelly tricked out of a now long-distance record when some practical joker connected the telephone with the radio loud speaker and sang the national anthem through the mouthpiece, compelling Baxter to arise for two full refrains.

Eddie Ainsmith, Walter Johnson's battery mate with the Nats in the salad day of the Washington pitching idol, has joined the squad here and may catch on as a coach. President Griffith may place him at Chattanooga if he doesn't find a berth here.

Manager Johnson reports no casualties in the first three days of practice barring Trainer Mike Martin's mild attack of gout which is the curiosity of the camp at this writing with the rookies and veterans alike smirking in secret speculating on the cause and effect of the plight of their taskmaster.

From President Clark Griffith's sector of the encampment here there comes the news that he has made his last offer to Pitcher Bobby Burke, the lone recalcitrant among the salaried men. Mr. Griffith is very emphatic on the Burke question, declaring with great pomposity that he never compromises with his ball players in salary disputes and intimating that in the Burke case it would behoove the

Card Manager Takes Teachout Under Wing

Bradenton, Fla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Manager Gabby Street of the Cardinals today took Pitcher Bud Teachout under his wing and gave him some personal instruction. Street said Teachout, who was obtained from the Chicago Cubs, would be given every opportunity to fill a hole in the regular left-hand pitching staff of the Cardinals.

"I believe Teachout may have lost his stuff last year because he was pitching too many cross-fires," Street said.

Pinckert, Trojan Ace, Not on West's Eleven

Los Angeles, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—The name of Erny Pinckert, all-American half back of the University of Southern California, is conspicuously missing from the list of Western players announced late today for a demonstration football game here August 9 in connection with the Olympics.

Buster Brown and Jallos Clash on Monday's Card

Clever Pair Battle in Eight Rounds on Gala Program With Kocsis and Welsh at Maryland's Ritchie Stadium.

BUSTER BROWN must make 137 pounds at 2 o'clock for Louis Jallos, young Greek sensation from Cleveland, for their eight-round set at Ritchie Coliseum next Monday night on the all-star card to be presented there. Kocsis and Welsh meet in the final.

Young Jallos has been handed one of the toughest assignments of the night. Even with Brown coming in at 137, his task will be mountainous. Buster, who simply toyed with Jack Kid Berg for five rounds at Dreamland Park in Newark last summer; who lost a close 10-round bout to Andre Routis for the featherweight championship of the world, and only three months ago gave Benny Leonard a sizzling melee in Baltimore, knows every trick of the trade.

There will be only one thing in Louie's favor when he goes to the barrier against Brown. He is young.

Of all the boxing material that has appeared on card within the past year in this vicinity, Jallos is the best of the lot. Louie is going some place in the boxing racket and it won't be long.

Grobmeier Added To Mat Program

Subs for Stein in Semifinal on Strand Stage Tomorrow Night.

Fred Grobmeier, the dangling legged matman who is becoming as much of a local landmark as the Monument and Doc Wilson, has been substituted for Sammy Stein on tomorrow night's rassling card at the Strand Theater. Grobmeier, who is undefeated in Washington, will meet Paul Favre, a French importation.

Grobmeier yields the chief spotlight tomorrow night to Tiny Roebuck and Sandor Szabo, who will clash and tangle in the final event. Tiny and the Hungarian have met twice in recent months, and each holds a victory.

Two other bouts have been arranged. In one of these Doc Wilson, Washington's perennial own, will meet Leon Smith, sturdy Chicagoan. In the other Fritz Kley unleashes his bag of trick "holts" for the certain discomfiture of Wankah Zelesniak.

The fifth bout will be arranged today. Women with escorts will be admitted to the bouts free of charge.

Brown K. O.'s. Weiner in Sixth

Referee Stops Fight at Portners; J. Raymond Victor.

DIRECTING a whirlwind attack to the body in the earlier rounds and playing rights to the head as the fight progressed, enterprising Natie Brown last night scored a technical knockout over Baltimore Herman Weiner in the seventh heat of Day Nursery's scheduled eight-round main event at Portner's arena.

Though enjoying a 22-pound pull at the weights, it was obvious to the 1,500 present that Weiner was outclassed from the opening bell, which was delayed 30 minutes due to mismated gloves. Once in action Brown slammed Herman's 204-pound frame from pillar to post, sending him down for two nine counts in the opening period and dropping him for a count of two in the sixth.

Brown Floors Weiner.

As early as the very first round those present prepared to exit when Brown, boring in with the ferocity of a young bull, pounded Weiner to the resin with a right to the body. While Brown's handlers summoned him to a neutral corner, the latter remained on top of his man, who barely regained his feet at the count of nine.

Upon regaining his balance, Herman again crumpled to the resin, apparently without being hit, but when Brown again failed to go to the designated corner and Weiner finally staggered to his feet, Referee Short summoned the principals to continue.

As it was, the bell saved Herman.

Save for occasional bursts of speed, Weiner was badly beaten thereafter. In the fourth and fifth rounds the Baltimore boy staggered Brown with terrific lefts.

Deprived of the use of his right hand after the third round, game Walter Kirkwood was outpointed by Joey Raymond, of Baltimore, in the semifinal. Following the bout Announcer Jimmy Lake divulged that Kirkwood had fractured a small bone in his hand during a third-period exchange.

Entering the ring with a heavy cold, Kirkwood had piled up a healthy lead prior to his accident.

Perry Stops Tillman.

"Young Perry" blasted Benny Tillman off his feet twice in the third semester of the scheduled six-round preliminary, the go being stopped after the second knockdown. Right hands turned the trick both times.

Jack Quigley outboxed slugging Jessie Belt in a four-round go, while Young Van, shooting rights and lefts from all angles, easily outclassed Battling Casey in the curtain raiser to win a technical knockout in the second round.

Western High Finds Landon Five Easy

With substitutes predominating the line-up, Western High School won an easy 44-18 victory over Landon Prep on its home floor yesterday. Anthony Latona, with 18 points, and Bill Payne, with 12, led the winners in scoring.

GRAYS VS. ROCKVILLE.

The United Typewriter Grays meet the Rockville Unlimiteds tonight at Central High at 8:30 o'clock.

GALLAGHER TO REFEREE.

Marty Gallagher, well known heavyweight boxer, will be the third man in the ring when the National Training School boxing team plays host to a team made up of mittmen from the Boys Club and Christ Child Society. The Training School holds decisions over both teams. The following boys will fight for the glory of dear old National tonight: Harry Hicks, Albano, Pagano, White, Mariasco, Bratu, Collins, Tachina, Germanakos, Haskins, Sorientino, Corey, Michalko. A large crowd is expected to witness the program of 12 bouts.

Gonzaga Loses Overtime Thriller, 19-15, in Post Prep School Tournament

Rivals Play Tonight for Championship of District.

Georgetown Prep, 19; Gonzaga, 15.
St. John's, 32; St. Alban's, 19.
TONIGHT'S GAME.
(Final round.)
8:15 o'clock—St. John's vs. Georgetown Prep.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

THE first prep school basket ball champion in recent scholastic athletic history will be crowned tonight at George Washington University Gymnasium when St. John's and Georgetown Prep, the seeded No. 1 and 2 teams, clash at 8:15 o'clock for possession of the trophy offered by The Washington Post, sponsors of the thrilling tournament, which twice a day has been jamming the Colonial Gymnasium to the doors.

St. John's earned its berth in the final round last night when it rose to some of its greatest heights of the year in turning back the sturdy challenge of St. Alban's, 32-19, before the largest crowd of the tournament, which literally hung from the rafters. St. Alban's made a real fight of the game in the first quarter, at the conclusion of which the score stood 11-7 in favor of St. John's.

St. John's Draws Away.

St. John's was unstoppable in the second and third quarters, rushing over St. Alban's with the irrepressible force of an avalanche. While the defensive work of the winners was holding St. Alban's to 6 points in the second and third sections, St. John's zoomed from 11 points to 29, with Fred Scheele and Bob McCarthy winging in shots from every angle, while Johnny Breen gave an exhibition of floor play that brought him cheer after cheer.

St. Alban's rallied near the end, scoring 7 points in the fourth quarter, but the St. John's reserves, in whose hands the regulars had intrusted a comfortable lead, held out until the end.

Gonzaga Passed Up Chances.

It was a thoroughly chastised group of Georgetown Prep players who wended weary steps off the court after beating Gonzaga. It was a rather fortunate victory for the winners, and a bitter pill for the losers to masticate, for on two occasions Gonzaga had the game in its grasp.

As the teams raced down to the home stretch of the regulation game, tied at 15-15, Lilly, big Gonzaga guard, stood on the foul line and missed two free throws in a bedlam of sound produced by nearly 1,000 thrill-soaked fans. A moment before Allan, Georgetown Prep forward, had done the same with one foul shot. The gun stopped the regulation game at 15-15, but tension remained at a sulphuric consistency during the three-minute rest period.

Howard Ragland, whom Coach Joe Garner sent in the game with the express purpose of scoring on long shots, made good his reputation after half of the extra period had ticked away, when he sank a shot from near the middle of the floor to boost the score of 17-15. Gonzaga was still very much in this rough-and-ready fray, and two of the lethal shots of Lao, Gonzaga's sensational Filipino forward, missed by heartrending margins.

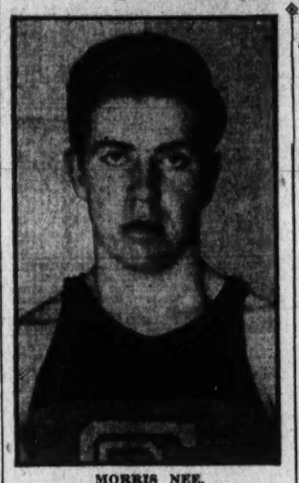
Maurice Nee Sparkplug Of Game.

Maurice Nee, last of an illustrious line of athletic Nees, was the spark plug of the winners yesterday, aided and abetted by Tom Keating. Nee, playing a whale of a floor game, kept Gonzaga going at full speed trying to stop the Garrett Parkers. Nee, it was, also who gave his side its first advantage in the trying moments of the third period when he sank two beautiful long shots, over the stubborn Gonzaga defense to give his side a 13-10 lead.

Part of tonight's celebration will be the award of two other trophies besides The Post Cup. One will be given to "the most valuable player to his team" and the other to the high point scorer of the series. The former award will be based upon the findings of the eight coaches, Referees Joe Mitchell and Ben Kail, and Head Coach Jim Pixlee, of George Washington University.

Georgetown Prep feted its players last night at a banquet, presided over by Father Lloyd, S. J., headmaster of the school. The entire student body will attend tonight's game. Georgetown University's Band will provide music.



MORRIS NEE, G. U. Prep guard, who starred in his team's semifinal win yesterday.

St. Godard Is Leader In The Pas Dog Derby

Quebec, Que., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Emil St. Godard, famed musher from The Pas, Man., captured the second 40-mile lap of the eleventh annual Eastern international dog derby today and went into the lead in total elapsed time.

Shorty Russick, of Flin Flon, Man., winner of the first lap yesterday, finished third today and dropped into second place in total elapsed time, nearly seven minutes behind St. Godard. Leonhard Seppala, of Nome, Alaska, second in today's lap, retained third place in the standings.

St. Godard covered the course in 3 hours 31 minutes 7 seconds.

Bill's Bob, Pointer, Wins Title Field Trials

Claremore, Okla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Showing class and performance far superior to his thirteen competitors, Bill's Bob, a pointer belonging to Cecil S. Proctor, of Oklahoma City, won a national amateur championship for his owner at the all-America field trials ending here today.

Bill's Bob, working a two-hour stretch yesterday, found two coveys and two singles. On a runover today he found two more coveys. His nearest competitors found no more than two coveys, and he was so much better than the other dogs that the three judges declined to name a runner-up.

Allison-Hall Net Duo Wins at Miami Beach

Miami Beach, Fla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Wilmer Allison, Austin, Tex., and J. Gilbert Hall, East Orange, N. J., paired in first-round men's doubles of the Pan-American tennis tournament here today to rout R. B. Mulloy, jr., and John Thomson, both of Miami, 6—0, 6—0.

George Lott, Chicago, and Marcel Rainville, Toronto, who drew byes in first-round doubles, were extended in the latter part of their second-round match with Count Georges du Manoir, Paris, France, and James Calder, Miami Beach, but emerged victors, 6—1, 7—5.

Marines, Minus Locke, Beaten at Fort Meade

Special to The Washington Post.

Fort Meade, Md., Feb. 23.—Playing without the services of their star center, Sergt. Locke, who is confined to the infirmary with a severe cold, the Quantico Marines were beaten, 32 to 29, by Fort George Meade, in a hard-fought game played here tonight. The score was tied at 23 to 23 as the teams went into the final period, but the soldiers spurted in this quarter to gain the verdict. Shelton played well for the Marines, while Dodson and Bell shared the honors for the soldiers.

Dempsey Defeats Wine by Decision

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Jack Dempsey, former heavyweight champion, easily outpointed Frankie Wine, blacksmith from Butte, Mont., tonight to win a newspaper decision. Dempsey weighed 194; Wine, 191.

Apparently taking it easy after losing to King Levinsky at Chicago last week, the former champ battered Wine almost at will and, except in the second round, clearly had the advantage over his opponent.

In the second round Wine managed to land a few short jabs to Dempsey's body, but at other times was on the receiving end of many body and head blows. The blacksmith swung and clinched on numerous occasions, and his legs buckled under him once in the fourth and final round, but he lasted to the finish.

SHORE FINED AND BANNED.

Montreal, Feb. 23 (A.P.).—Eddie Shore, defense man for the Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, today was suspended for one game and fined $100 by President Frank Calder for striking Referee Cooper Smeaton in Chicago Sunday. The suspension will keep Shore out of the game with the New York Rangers in Boston tonight.

PANETIAN WINS CHARITY DAY FEATURE RACE AT HIALEAH

Miami Needy Benefit by $20,000

Don Leon Threatens From Start in Thriller.

Le Bruyere, at 19-1, Scores in Baby Race by Nose.

HIALEAH PARK, Fla., Feb. 23 (A.P.).—A spirit of gayety and good will pervaded the atmosphere here this afternoon. This was designated as charity day by the Miami Jockey Club and the free list was suspended with receipts from all sources going to the fund for Miami's needy. Stage and screen stars entertained, while society was out in full force and all its color, a horde of pretty women dispensing and collecting for the worthy cause. In lieu of an official check-up, it was roughly estimated that charity would receive about $20,000.

The Charity Day Handicap featured an interesting program, Panetian, the fleet sprinter purchased yesterday by C. Leroy King from G. D. Widener at private terms, made a successful advent in his new colors, the gelding beating R. W. Collins' Don Leon by a half length, under a perfect ride from Bobby Leischman. The winner was an even money favorite. Mabla took third money, half a dozen lengths away while Marplot was a distanced last in the field of four.

Hitting The Head Pin

By LEWIS F. ATCHISON

THREE sweepstakes are on tap for local bowlers this Saturday, the American Legion Handicap, to be rolled at Arcadia; the Potomac, scheduled for Temple, and the Suburban Doubles, which will be staged at Clarendon. All should attract their quota of bowlers.

"Dutch" Bachman's 348 and Waters' 114 copped the individual awards in section 3 of the North of Washington League at Silver Spring last night. Woodside was high among the teams with its 1,611 set. Silver Spring Paint had a 582 game.

"Shorty" Udell was big enough to roll a game of 136 in the King Pin Business Men's League. Hecht Annex took the odd one from the Nationals in the only game rolled.

The Tip Tops overhauled the Kann's Team in the Ladies Independent League by whitewashing the Columbians, while Lansburgh was giving Kann's the shorter end of a 2-to-1 score. Mamie Payne's 114 and 298 scores were high.

Columbia smashed the all-time District of Columbia record for a team game when it stung the sticks for a 607 score at Columbia. Catherine Fortney, Pauline Ford, Helen Sullivan, Margaret Leaman and Rena Levy helped make the new record. They won the odd one from the Hilltoppers. University Park took the odd one from the Keenos, Shamrocks and Beeques swept their matches with the Cardinals and Veterans Bureau.

Nick Tronsky and Bill Tato, of Connecticut, stopped off in this city on their way home yesterday, and rolled a few games with Astor Clarke, and Joe Harrison at Convention Hall. The result was about even.

The Rinaldi Tailors took advantage of Maxie Rosenberg's illness to wallop the Pale Drys for a 2-1 victory at Lucky Strike. Astor Clarke's 142 game and Ollie Pacini's 374 set were high.

Hattie (and there's no dear aunt before the name), was the best of the insurance salesmen at Lucky Strike. His best game was 138, his set 360. Acacia's 598 and 1,645 outdistanced the other teams.

The Chemists, of the Department of Commerce loop, discovered that by mixing a few spares and strikes together good bowling scores were obtained. Their game was 575, and set 1,654. Keifer's 148 and 382 were the best individual scores rolled.

The Imirials constructed a set of 1,599 around a 581 game in the Supervising Architects League at Lucky Strike. It was a happy ending for Story when he counted a set of 351, high for the night. Sammy Samuels pocketed the high game award with 146.

"Oh, the Irish and the Dutch, they don't amount to much!" (From an old song.) But the Dutch proved their worth in bowling last night. "Dutch" Whalley rolled a 150 game and Carl Gochenour a 368 set to lead the Columbia Heights League at Arcadia. Swann's Service walked off with the team prizes with its 613 and 1,728 scores.

Just like a couple of kids swiping the ice cream at a party, Wendell Moyer and Walter Bell skipped off with individual prizes in the North of Washington Church League at Columbia. Moyer had a game of 142 and Bell a 368 set. Francis Asbury (that's a church), rolled 574 and 1,669 for the team honors.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—EVEN UP, $5.60, $2.90, $2.40; DORNOCH, $4.20, $3.00; WARD IN CHANCERY, $4.00.

EVEN UP, a slow beginner, was badly outrun in early stages, closed an immense gap under the whip and was up last ten yards. DORNOCH drew away first furlong, showed lot of speed to top of home stretch, where he began to weaken and was under drive all last furlong. He just lasted long enough to stall off WARD IN CHANCERY. BLACK SIGNAL was a forward contender to furlong pole, where he quit.

SECOND RACE—Three furlongs. Purse, $1,000; allowances. Dixie Highway Purse. For maiden 2-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:45½. Off at 2:47. Winner, R. W. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ZEVAR, $11.30, $6.80, $4.00; FOREIGN PLAY, $82.20, $25.50; LOVE OFFERING, $3.40

ZEVAR, outrun to stretch turn, where he was taken to outside, closed with a rush and was up in the last stride. FOREIGN PLAY went to the front soon after the break, was cut out entering home stretch, but hung on well under a drive. LOVE OFFERING, in a pocket in run down the back stretch, went through with a rush at top of home stretch, but faltered after getting on even terms with FOREIGN PLAY. MORDEN was shut off and rider forced to pull up when LOVE OFFERING swerved across in front of her last fifty yards.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—OATEN, $7.30, $4.00, $2.90; STELLANOVA, $4.80, $2.90; GENIAL HOST, $3.00.

OATEN, outrun in early stages, found an opening next the inside rail in home stretch and closed with a rush, getting up in last twenty yards. STELLANOVA moved up on outside of leaders rounding far turn, weakened after taking the lead at head of home stretch. GENIAL HOST, hustled to the front in run to first turn, was under pressure entire journey. BILL SOUTHAM made a wide turn into home stretch and moved up very strong, but tired last sixteenth.

FIFTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Cority Day Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:19. Off at 4:23. Winner, C. Leroy King's br. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PANETIAN, $4.00, $2.50, out; DON LEON, $2.70, out; MABLA, out.

PANETIAN carried DON LEON along at a rapid pace from the start. He was on the outside of latter all the way and came again after being headed at furlong pole, responded with a game effort under punishment, and outlasted DON LEON at end. DON LEON hung on well until the last few strides when he weakened. MABLA was outrun from the start. It was a two horse race all the way.

SIXTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $1,300. Preliminary Purse. For 3-year-olds. Start good. Won driving; place, easily. Went to post at 4:55. Off at 4:57. Winner, G. W. Dale's br. c. (3), by St. James—Overture. Trained by owner. Value to winner, $1,000; second, $200; third, $100. Time, 0:24, 0:48, 1:12 1-5, 1:39.

†S. L. Burch entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TROMBONE, $7.90, $3.70, $3.20; THURSDAY, $2.90, $2.40; BLACKMOCK, $4.20.

TROMBONE, a keen factor from the start, forced a rapid pace, came around the leaders at top of home stretch and, wearing THURSDAY down, outgamed the latter in final drive. Callahan rated THURSDAY off the pace until rounding the far turn, where he moved up on outside, bore over to the rail in stretch run and hung tired sixteenth. BLACKMOCK was closing at end. BAY ANGON was used up making the pace. He skinned the rail at stretch turn, but tired badly last furlong.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $1,000; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 5:28. Off at 5:29. Winner, Mrs. A. C. Carfano's br. g. (3), by Wildair—Ballade. Trained by C. Cafarelli. Value to winner, $750; second, $150; third, $100. Time, 0:25, 0:49 1-5, 1:14 1-5, 1:41 2-5, 1:54 3-5.

TOREALONG	116	4	5	5	5	5	5	5	Elston	7.80

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PARTISAN, $5.10, $2.50, out; WAR SAINT, $3.10, out; GRIFFIN, out.

PARTISAN ran as if much the best. He was smoothly rated behind WAR SAINT for seven furlongs, was called upon entering the stretch and, coming around leader, took lead when straightened out and easily drew away. WAR SAINT ran plenty of speed, but was no match for the winner at the distance and had little contention from the place. GRIFFIN followed pace under light restraint, but had nothing when called upon. TOP HATTIE and TOREALONG never were serious contenders.

—Hialeah Selections—

By J. B. SNODGRASS

HIALEAH PARK, Miami, Fla., Feb. 23.—An overnight handicap, the Citrus Growers, is the main attraction of the Hialeah Park program tomorrow. This feature received a list of seven fleet sprinters which will contest the $1,500 purse over the 7-furlong distance.

ROYAL RUFFIN, a consistent Coventry gelding, which sports the silks of D. Breckenridge, has shown by his recent splendid efforts that he can carry weight. However, the gelding may encounter stern opposition from the Hawaiian bred ULUNIU. The show is reserved for DOUBLE HEART. MY DANDY is rounding to form and may break into the money.

FIRST RACE — SHAVINGS, which failed by a nose last start, is picked to graduate from this field. DARK WAR showed a clever performance in his last effort and merits consideration. ALGERIA figures to improve and is the show choice.

SECOND RACE—MOVE ALONG and HOME WORK have shown the most consistent form of this group and figure to provide a bitter struggle for the honors. MONTGOMERY MAID appears best of the others for the minor award.

THIRD RACE — FOUL TIP closed gamely last start, and if the filly shows improvement off that effort she should enter the winner's circle. NUNS WAY appears to have an edge over WHIRLING on the place. The latter figures to share in the purse.

FOURTH RACE—GAY BIRD appears to have the fourth at his mercy. The A. W. Abbot entrant raced Jack Campbell to a nose last outing and against weaker opposition here figures much the best. CLAREMONT has shown a return to form and may force the pace. POLYGAMOUS is fairly consistent and is favored for the show.

SIXTH RACE—MY PURCHASE, a recent winner, has trained well and should experience little trouble. DYAK has shown speed, but is inconsistent. On his best form, the Ward & Burton 3-year-old may prove to be the contender. JAMBALAYA, from the W. R. Coe Stable, is the show selection.

SEVENTH RACE—BOUNDING DEEP displayed rare courage last start to finish second. With that effort as a conditioner the B. B. Stable's starter should score. BOZO was practically left at the post in his last attempt, but with an even break at the barrier may furnish stern opposition. MOROCCO outclasses the remainder of the field.

MOUNT RAINIER BOYS "HOT."

Not the least of the 130-pound teams in the District A. A. U. tournament is the Mount Rainier Boys Club five. Last Saturday night they won three games in one evening, beating the Athlisos, 40-21; the Warwicks, 55-6, and the Mount Rainier Baptists, 37-25.

VA. MERMEN DEFEAT G. W.

Rote Colonial Hero As Team Is Defeated, 44-22.

UNIVERSITY OF VIRGINIA swimmers defeated George Washington yesterday afternoon at the Ambassador Hotel Pool, 44 to 22, in a meet in which the competition was closer than the score would indicate. In addition to the relay race, which saw the Colonials beaten by only a foot, the visitors captured four first places.

Capt. Max Rote was the individual star, he winning the 50-yard dash and the 100-yard dash, besides making a fine showing on the relay. Blumenthal's performance in the 200-yard breast-stroke event was one of the best ever seen here.

Duke Mermen Here Saturday.

George Washington swimmers see action again next Saturday in the Ambassador Pool. At 4 o'clock the Frosh meet the Duke Cubs, while the varsity teams meet at 7 o'clock.

513 Athletes to Compete In C. U. Meet Saturday

16 Colleges, 12 Clubs, 13 Schools to Be Represented.

SIXTEEN colleges, 13 high and prep schools and 12 athletic clubs are supplying the 513 entrants who will do their stuff in the third annual Catholic University indoor meet to be held at Brookland Saturday night, starting at 7 o'clock. Relays, always popular with the fans, will have a prominent place on the C. U. program, with the intercollegiate mile event being divided into three sections.

Catholic University figures to win in Section A, when it stacks up against Lafayette and Lehigh. Princeton, Navy and William and Mary will do battle in Section B, with the third section made up of teams from Maryland, Temple, Richmond U. and Washington and Lee.

The 2-mile intercollegiate relay has been divided into two sections, with Lafayette, Maryland and Catholic U. competing in the first division and Navy and the University of Virginia in the second.

Virginia, Maryland, Richmond, La-Salle of Philadelphia and C. U. will enter teams in the two-third-mile freshman relay.

A meeting of all college, high and prep school coaches in this vicinity will be held at the Catholic U. Gym tonight for the purpose of drawing for positions in the various relay and distance races. All are requested to attend or have a representative present.

BUS LINES EXPECTED TO SEEK COURT WRIT ON TERMINAL RULING

Less Than Six Weeks Remain for Companies to Obey Order to Move.

ELEVENTH HOUR STEP IS SEEN AS PROBABLE

Operators Believed Divided Into Factions on Resistance to Ouster by April 1.

With less than six weeks remaining before the effective date of a Public Utilities Commission order requiring all interstate buses to vacate the congested area, operators of the score of companies involved are understood to be preparing to block the order in much the same fashion that zone taxicab operators have delayed the meter order.

Although the commission has sent out at least two circular letters to the Class A bus line operators, as they are known, replies have been either withheld or noncommittal. So far no one of the twenty-odd lines has informed the commission that even a site for a terminal outside the congested area has been obtained. Even if sites were purchased at once, the bus operators could do little more than raze the property and set up temporary open-air depots before April 1, when the order is scheduled to become effective.

At least two of the interstate bus operators have successfully defied the commission in the past, though before the passage of the new traffic act, and they may be of the opinion that they can do it again with impunity. Both the Great Eastern Stages and the Nevin Bus Line have stuck to terminals near Fourteenth street and Pennsylvania avenue, despite disapproval of the utilities body.

Operators in Two Factions.

The operators are said to be divided into two factions, one openly defiant and the other passively resistant. The Greyhound Line, which is owned by the Pennsylvania Railroad, has previously told the commission it would be prepared for the ouster, but it is now understood to be planning to ask for an extension of time with the backing of some of the short-route operators.

The Chester Valley and Great Eastern Stage Lines are reported to have instructed counsel to apply for an injunction just a few days before April 1 in an effort to restrain the commission from enforcing the order. This would be much the same tactics employed by the City and Bell Cab Corporations in holding up the taximeter order.

The commission is not unaware of the impending trouble, however, and is preparing to take drastic steps, if necessary, to froce the Class A buses out of the congested zone on the date scheduled. If necessary, the operators may be summoned to a hearing to place on record just what steps they have taken to comply with the regulation. The taximeter postponement has also taught this body a lesson.

Suitable Sites Difficult.

The major difficulty which confronts both the utilities body and the bus lines which are willing to comply with the order is the problem of acquiring a suitable site for a terminal in the downtown section at a reasonable price. Charges of being held up by the real estate men will undoubtedly be one of their cries to the commission.

The public hearing, however, was held last summer and the order providing for the evacuation was adopted on July 15 last and approved by the joint board. At that time there were several reports of plans to erect terminals, but nothing definite has been accomplished.

The provision of the order which becomes effective April 1 states that no Class A bus shall be permitted to load or unload passengers either on the curb or in an off-street terminal, within the area bounded by the east curb line of Seventh street, the south curb of H street, the south curb of New York avenue, the west curb of Fifteenth street and the south curb of Pennsylvania avenue.

Off-Street Depot Permissible.

After August 1, this year, no interstate bus will be permitted to use a curb terminal within the second traffic zone, but an off-street depot will be permissible.

The huge interstate motor vehicles have long been a problem to District authorities and especially to those who have to do with the movement of traffic in the downtown section. Not only when they are parked along the street curbs, as they do in half dozen of the most congested intersections, but even in moving they have obstructed traffic.

When the public hearing was held last summer there were 23 class A operators making a total of 572 scheduled trips a day to and from Washington. It was estimated that at least 1,500 passengers are transported by them daily in the District. This is in addition to the 20,000 carried by the class B buses operating between Washington and nearby Maryland and Virginia. Since that time they have increased rather than decreased in patronage.

Meeting on Jobs to Aid Idle Set Monday Night

The work creation group of the District of Columbia committee on employment yesterday issued an invitation to all civil, fraternal and other organizations throughout the city to attend a joint meeting in the United States Chamber of Commerce Monday night.

Col. E. G. Bliss, chairman of the committee, declared plans would be completed at the meeting in connection with the creation of work for the District unemployed. He said the time had come for citizens of Washington to realize that they can relieve the unemployment situation by returning to normalcy in their expenditures.

Dry Violator Fined and Sentenced.

Jack Ahern yesterday was sentenced to serve 60 days in jail and pay a fine of $500 when he appeared before Judge Isaac R. Hitt to receive sentence following a plea of guilty to maintaining a nuisance and possession of liquor.

$4,000 BLAZE HITS DEPARTMENT STORE

Fireman Is Injured Fighting Flames in Southwest Establishment.

Through the height of afternoon traffic yesterday fire apparatus raced to a three-alarm blaze in a four-story department store at Four-and-a-half and D streets southwest. Flames were confined to the basement, and damage is not expected to be more than $4,000. A fireman was slightly injured.

The fire was discovered by Robert Thomas, colored delivery boy, when he went into the basement to fix the furnace. He was driven back from the stairway by a gust of smoke and notified Louis Kronheim, owner of the store. Kronheim said he went to the stairs to get his coat, but was unable to reach it, due to the heat.

Thomas, after finding the fire, ran to No. 4 engine company, just around the corner, to give the alarm. An alarm was also sounded from a box on the corner by an unidentified person. The fire blazed with such vigor that a second alarm was turned in by Deputy Chief Henry C. Stern as soon as he arrived.

Private Herbert Frye, of No. 2 truck company, was taken to Emergency Hospital in the Fire Rescue Squad's ambulance after his right foot was pierced by a nail. His wound was not considered serious, but he was relieved from duty and allowed to go to his home at 426 Taylor street northwest.

About half a dozen persons were in the store when the flames were discovered, three clerks and several customers. All except Kronheim made their way from the store without difficulty, but the owner, delayed by his attempt to get his coat, had trouble in finding his way through the thick smoke, which welled up from the basement.

The fire had apparently been burning some time when discovered. It is thought to have started on a bench near the door to the furnace room, possibly from a carelessly dropped match or cigarette.

30-Day Sentences Given 5 Vagrants

Many Taken in Campaign Fail to Chop Wood as Court Orders.

Vagabonds and hoboes felt anything but a brotherly spirit when they were brought into Police Court yesterday in the wake of a drive on panhandlers launched by Brig. Gen. Glassford, superintendent of police, last week.

Five were given 30-day sentences yesterday. Many others, picked up in the general drive started last week, never saw the inside of the lockup because they agreed to go to work on the municipal wood pile and failed to show up at the scene of that torturous labor.

The word is still out that beggars and their ilk must go and policemen have been told to bring them to court for sentence as soon as possible.

Passing Stop Signs Results in $52 Fines

Total fines of $52 were assessed against Arthur Davis, colored, yesterday when he was faced with charges of passing a stop sign, failing to stop at the command of a policeman, speeding, no registration card and no permit.

It all started when Davis passed the semaphore at Seventh street and Florida avenue northwest. He was chased several blocks before he was arrested.

Legion Post Asks Soldier As President

Advocacy of a soldier as the next President was made last night by members of Victory Post, American Legion, meeting in Odd Fellows Temple.

The legionnaires adopted unanimously a resolution asking that both the Democratic and Republican parties nominate a World War veteran in at least one of the two places on their national ticket.

The resolution was introduced by Past Commander Norman Cassidy, just before Representative John Rankin, of Mississippi, a World War veteran and chairman of the House committee on veterans' affairs, was called upon to speak.

The Mississippi legislator predicted the passage in the present session of the bill which would pension widows, orphans and dependent parents of deceased veterans.

He denounced the action of legion officials, especially that of John Thomas Taylor, in attempting to have the bill amended so as to eliminate the parents of veterans.

The gathering was addressed by E. A. Babcock, of the Disabled American Veterans, who urged concerted action in affairs for the welfare of former soldiers.

Suspended Policemen To Be Tried March 2

The trial of Policemen Eugene D. Lambert and Lewis E. Hazard, suspended members of the Ninth Precinct, will be started March 2, United States Attorney Leo A. Rover said yesterday. The two were included in the list of policemen who were indicted following a Department of Justice investigation into alleged police brutality here.

The indictment charged the two with assault with a dangerous weapon and with simple assault upon Frederick Smith, colored, a physical instructor at the Lovejoy School, on May 27. They will be prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney John J. Sirica, while James A. O'Shea and John H. Burnett will act as the defense attorneys.

Rich Loot in Jewels Obtained in Robbery

A rare antique ring, the value of which the owner could not determine, and other jewelry worth $530 were stolen yesterday from the apartment of Mrs. Vera Dimitrieff, of 1215 Tenth street northwest, police were informed. Mrs. Dimitrieff said entrance apparently was gained by use of a duplicate key.

Two diamond rings valued at $100 apiece, an emerald ring worth $75, another ring valued at $75, a watch worth $55, and two pins worth $65 and $45 were listed among the articles taken.

Study Set Friday On Firearms Bill

House and Senate Groups to Hold Hearings on Capper Measure.

House and Senate District committees will take up Friday Senator Arthur Capper's bill providing drastic penalties for illegal sale or possession of firearms in the District.

The judiciary subcommittee of the House District committee will consider the measure at 10:30 Friday morning, while the full Senate committee will hold hearings on the bill at 2:30 the same afternoon.

Senator Capper's credit union bill, already approved by the Senate committee, also will be considered by the House judiciary group on Friday. An executive session on the Howell "home raid" bill will be held by the Senate group a week from that day, its chairman indicated.

CEREMONIES STAGED BY DISTRICT MASONS

Federal Lodge, No. 1, Oldest Here, Is Addressed by Dr. Thomas Green.

Memorial services were held last night at the Almas Temple by the oldest Masonic lodge in the District, Federal Lodge No. 1, in observance of the George Washington Bicentennial anniversary.

Dr. Thomas E. Green, of the American National Red Cross, who made the principal address, welcomed and praised members of the lodge, the only Masonic lodge of the District present when George Washington laid the corner stone of the Capitol September 18, 1793, with Masonic services. James B. Hoban, the architect of the Capitol, was master of the lodge.

William S. Quinter, chairman of the Federal Lodge Bicentennial committee, made the address of welcome. The Star-Spangled Banner was sung by Ross Farrar.

Rum-Vice Drives To Be Centralized

Bureau to Be Established on March 1, With Beckett in Charge.

Liquor drives and other special police activities against vice are to be directed from a centralized bureau to be established at police headquarters on March 1. Inspector James M. Beckett will be in charge of the unit.

Brig. Gen. Pelham D. Glassford, superintendent of police, ordered the reorganization step yesterday. He said it did not presage a special drive against liquor or gambling houses, but was planned to eliminate duplication in the work of the special squads.

The eleven men now working from the various inspection district will be combined with the nine at headquarters to make up the new centralized vice unit.

Truck Driver Cleared In Death of Woman

A coroner's jury yesterday brought in a verdict of accidental death in the case of Mary Fisher, 70, 1412 Euclid street, who was fatally injured Saturday afternoon when struck by a truck at Fourteenth and Euclid streets northwest.

Appellate Court Refuses To Reduce Alimony $150

The District Court of Appeals yesterday denied an appeal by Dr. Mark O. Davis, dentist, who had asked that the $300 monthly payments he was directed to pay his wife for her support and for the support of a daughter be reduced to $150.

Dr. Davis sued his wife and obtained a limited divorce, which was granted in October, 1925. Four years afterward Dr. Davis, the court said, went to Virginia and obtained a full divorce on the grounds of desertion. In that action he was ordered to pay $150 a month by the Arlington County courts.

It was the opinion of the appellate court that the District courts had never relinquished jurisdiction of the case and that the order to pay $300 a month was still in effect. Dr. Davis had appealed first to the District Supreme Court to modify its decree as to payments, and when that court refused, he asked the intercession of the higher court.

President Green Clears Up Point in Answering Coleman's Query.

COÖPERATION IS URGED IN FIGHT ON PAY SLASH

Secretary of Central Union Attacks Lehlbach Measure on Reclassification.

A bid to retain Federation of Federal Employes locals in American Federation of Labor membership, despite withdrawal of their parent organization, was made yesterday by President William Green, of the American Federation of Labor.

President Green wrote Frank J. Coleman, executive secretary of the Central Labor Union, to continue to admit delegates who seek representation. Similar instructions were sent to various State federations of labor.

Withdrawal Voted by 16,000.

Out of a membership of 60,000, approximately 28,000 participated in a ballot on the issue, about 16,000 voting to withdraw. Immediately afterward President Luther C. Steward notified President Green that the Federation of Federal Employes would go its own way.

Mr. Coleman, who has continued to send American Federation of Labor tax bills to Federal Employes locals, despite the official severance, said Henry G. Nolda, secretary of Local No 2, recently wrote to inquire if Federation of Federal Employes' locals still are entitled to representation at Central Labor Union sessions.

To clear up this point, Mr. Coleman said he wrote President Green, whose reply yesterday was regarded as a general invitation to individual locals to continue their labor allegiance.

Stresses Cooperation.

President Green stressed in the letter necessity for cooperation of all interested in forestalling congressional pay-cut legislation. In view of the danger of Federal wage slashes he said the American Federation of Labor had decided to work with various locals to avert them.

Mr. Coleman claimed last night that there never have been fewer than five delegates from Federation of Federal Employes locals at Central Labor Union meetings since the official withdrawal.

He said only one of the individual Federal workers units, Local No. 105, had ever notified the Central Labor Union its delegates had been recalled. Eight of the eleven Federation of Federal Employes locals voted not to withdraw when the ballot was taken last fall, he said.

Provision Is Alleged.

Mr. Coleman charged that in the new Lehlbach reclassification bill, sponsored by the Federation of Federal Employes, a provision for reclassification of the skilled trades is included, despite opposition of the trades affected.

President Steward, of the Federation of Federal Employes, was out of the city last night. The federation under his leadership recently launched a vigorous objective against Federal pay cuts. President Green later joined the drive, in letters and statements to members of Congress.

Woman Driver Injured In Crash After Blowout

A bursting tire threw the automobile of Mrs. Truly E. Sutherland, 39 years old, of 4629 Fifth street northwest, into a tree at Thirteenth and O streets northwest yesetrday afternoon. The woman was taken to Emergency Hospital in an undetermined condition.

Mrs. Sutherland was driving south on Thirteenth street when the tire blew out, according to police. The car skidded across the curbing near O street and crashed into the tree. At the hospital it was said Mrs. Sutherland suffered a possible fracture of the pelvis and lacerations on her right hand.

Harry Yudelevit Identified In Shooting of Policeman

Thrice Pointed Out as Kendrick's Companion During Gun Fight.

Harry Yudelevit, of 1620 Allison street northwest, was identified by three persons last night as the man who was with John Kendrick when Private T. D. Bacon was shot early last Friday by Kendrick.

Police had sought Yudelevit for several days in connection with the shooting. Yesterday morning he gave himself up. Those who identified him are Charles Flannigan, a night watchman; Rowland Darling, a taxicab driver, and Bacon himself.

Kendrick was also formally identified by the three witnesses. Both men were picked from a line of a dozen private individuals, detectives and newspaper reporters.

Darling said Yudelevit met him about a block away from the scene of the shooting and gave him $25 to take him uptown. Yudelevit denies being in the vicinity or any acquaintanceship with Kendrick.

The latter escaped last fall from a New Jersey prison where he was serving a term for carrying firearms.

Barbara Lee, who claims to have married Kendrick four years ago, was released from the House of Detention yesterday in the custody of her attorney, Charles Ford. She had been held since the day after Kendrick's battle with the policeman.

Yudelevit recently was arrested as a suspect in the shooting of Henry Abramowitz on Buchanan street northwest near Sixteenth street, on the night of February 3 during a purported holdup. However, Abramowitz and a companion, William Poe Moses, could not identify Yudelevit or two other men arrested in connection with the affair.

HARRY YUDELEVIT.

ACCIDENT INSURANCE FOR DRIVERS UPHELD

Senate District Committee Approves Bill Aimed at Traffic Violators.

The Senate District committee yesterday voted to require motorists convicted of major traffic violations to demonstrate financial responsibility before they could again operate an automobile in the District.

A bill to require liability insurance up to $10,000 of persons found guilty of driving while drunk, leaving the scene of an accident, or reckless driving, was favorably reported with amendments.

George W. Offutt, representing the Traffic Council, the American Automobile Association and the Board of Trade; L. W. Strahley, of the American Motorists Association; E. D. Merrill of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, Charles G. Collins, of the Board of Trade, and Joseph Fitzgerald, of the Federation of Citizens Associations, all appeared to indorse the measure.

Amendments proposed by Vernon West, assistant corporation counsel, which among other things would force the owner of a car to prove he did not consent to its operation by the party involved in an accident were taken under advisement.

Action on a bill to require all insurance companies incorporated in the District to maintain their principal offices here was withheld by the committee. Herbert L. Davis, superintendent of insurance for the District, told of expense to which the local government is subjected in gaining access to insurance records kept in other cities.

Man Is Arrested In Robbery Series

Drug Stores Victimized in Thefts; Another Suspect Flees.

A series of robberies, particulary affecting drug stores in the First Precinct, was believed to have been cleared up with the arrest of William Coleman, 36, early yesterday morning.

Coleman was cornered in the basement of the Duncan Pharmacy, First and K streets northwest, by police responding to a call. Another man escaped and five cartons of cigarettes were found to be missing from the store.

A charge of investigation was placed against Coleman at the First Precinct Station, while police checked up on his activities of the past few weeks. He said he is from Jacksonville, Fla.

Two Pistol Shots Fired Into Home in Southeast

The home of Frazier M. Hollifield, 108 Ridge road southeast, was the target for two pistol shots Monday night, and police yesterday were seeking the person who fired them. Hollifield's wife said the shots were fired about 9 o'clock, during his absence.

Hollifield found two bullet holes in the frame walls of the front part of his dwelling when informed of the shots on his return home early yesterday. He immediately reported the incident to the Eleventh Police Precinct and an investigation was begun.

Woman, 70, Is Hurt When Struck by Car

An elderly woman was slightly injured yesterday when she was knocked down by an automobile backing from a parking place on D street near Seventh street northwest.

Mrs. Ines Tighe, 70 years old, of 1315 M street northwest, was taken to Emergency Hospital for treatment, but later went home. Police say the car which struck her was driven by Chester Grigsby, 35 years old, of Owens, Va.

SENATORS TO AWAIT FULL MAPES REPORT

Capper District Committee to Consider Tax Increase Bills as Whole.

Senate District committee hearings on the Mapes bills, increasing the District's tax burden and adjusting Federal-District fiscal relations, will await the completed Efficiency Bureau report on all five of the measures, Chairman Arthur Capper said yesterday.

Informed that the first of the bills is now nearing completion, and may be reported with recommendations for "improvements" by the last of this week, Senator Capper indicated the committee will consider the tax issue as a whole.

It was learned that proposed abolition of the 60-40 basis of Federal contribution to District needs will be among the first of the bills reported on by Bureau of Efficiency investigators. No date could be set for the completed report.

Tables at Variance.

Experts of the bureau said they are considering the measures both in the light of figures collected by the Mapes committee for 23 comparative cities and the bureau's own comparative study of 14 cities. The two tables are sharply at variance, due to the bureau's application of a per capita tax base, adjusted to allow for Federal ownership of District property.

Representative Carl E. Mapes (Republican), Michigan, said whatever information the bureau has obtained on his special committee's study has been secured from the printed reports.

No member of the Mapes committee has been in touch with the bureau or intends to communicate with it, he declared. As the matter is "purely legislative," he said, "the committee prefers to bide its time and present whatever data it has directly to the Senate District committee."

Hopes Lord Will Be Called.

He hopes George Lord, Detroit tax authority, who did most of the research for the Mapes group, will be called before the Senate body, although Senator Capper has given no intimation he will call him.

The Mapes committee abandoned recommendation of the Bureau of Efficiency that the Federal Government contribute $10,183,391 toward local expenses, and fixed the lump sum at $6,500,000 instead.

That the Senate committee looks with more favor on the bureau's findings was indicated in Senator Capper's letter transmitting the bills.

"The committee is grateful for the fine work contributed by the bureau in the past," he said, "and will appreciate, I am sure, your efforts in the present instance."

Sergeant of Police Is Ordered Retired

Joseph S. Johnston, 64, Is Relieved on Age Limit; 8 Firemen Named.

Sergt. Joseph S. Johnston, of the Eleventh Precinct police, was ordered retired yesterday by the District Commissioners upon having reached the age of 64, in accordance with the age-limit rule adopted last summer. Sergt. Johnston has served 36 years in the Police Department.

John C. Riley, a private, was ordered transferred from the street railway crossing force of the Traffic Bureau to the Police Department with the same rank. Luther C. Bowers, another private, was moved from the department proper to take his place as a railway crossing officer.

Eight firemen were appointed to the Fire Department with the rank of privates. They are Thomas W. Belland, William A. Heflin, Robert H. Kirchmyer, Russel S. Hayman, Howard E. Rhine, James F. Reilly, Paul E. Sanders, and John H. Barnett. They were selected through civil service examination to fill vacancies created by retirements, resignations, and promotions.

Murder Trial Arguments Finished Within 2 Hours

One of the shortest murder trials in months was held in District Supreme Court yesterday when arguments in the trial of Robert Ford, colored, charged with the slaying of James Turner, also colored, were concluded within two hours of the opening of the case. It required only 15 minutes to pick the jury.

Justice James M. Proctor decided to have the jurors go to their homes and return today to receive his charge. Assistant United States Attorney James R. Kirkland prosecuted the case, while John Wilson defended Ford.

The slaying of Turner occurred November 15, 1931, at 78 Q street northwest. Ford claimed self-defense.

POLICE BELIEVE TWO MAY HAVE PERISHED IN PLANT EXPLOSION

Fear Woman Was Killed, as Well as Manager of Auto-Wrecking Shop.

NEW SEARCH OF DEBRIS IS ORDERED FOR TODAY

On the possibility that the body of a woman may lie in the wreckage of the explosion which yesterday demolished an automobile wrecking establishment at 1300 Eleventh street southeast and killed Frank Price, 40, colored, manager of the place, police have ordered another search today.

It was learned that Price had been seen entering the establishment in company with a woman about 11 o'clock last night. Only his body was found in the ruins.

Fire Department officials said that they had learned that Price stopped there with his wife to get gasoline for his car and later took her home. He is said to have left then, saying that he was going down into Maryland.

Blame for Blast Placed.

Although police believe that the woman who was seen was Mrs. Price, they have not been able to verify the fact from her, and will institute the further investigation this morning on the theory that another woman may have been with the manager and also lost her life in the blast.

The use of gasoline to revive a smoldering coal fire is believed to have caused the explosion. After an examination of the ruins of the two-story brick structure, which was used as a wrecking place of old cars, Fire Marshal Calvin Lauber said the debris indicated that the explosion had its origin in a coal stove in the front office of the place.

The lid was blown off the stove and the doors were torn from their hinges, according to the fire marshal. From the physical evidences it appeared that Price had tried to revive the fire by the use of gasoline, which exploded, shattering the building and rocking the entire Southeast section.

Thought to Have Tried Escape.

Price was found a short distance from the front office. The police believe that after the gasoline had ignited he sought to escape and the detonation brought down the building upon him. That the explosion had its origin in the front of the building was indicated by the fact that the rear wall was intact.

The building blew up about 2:30 yesterday morning and it is thought that Price may have stopped at his place of employment to spend the night.

Nine hours after the building was demolished, Price's body was found in the wreckage. When he failed to appear at the scene of the explosion early today, it was learned he had not been to his home in Fairmont Heights, Md., all night and a search was instituted. His automobile was found in the rear of the wrecked building.

Shakes Nearby Buildings.

Fire broke out in the debris directly after the explosion and, fed by oil and waste matter, it burned for several hours. Firemen had to pour water on the debris for several hours before the flames were quenched.

The force of the detonation shook buildings in the vicinity and tore pictures from the walls. Several windows were shattered in nearby buildings. Many residents said they had been almost jolted from their beds.

The place, known as the Penn Auto Wreckers Co., was owned by Jake Levin, of 2801 Thirty-third street southeast, who estimated the damage as $35,000, including building damage and stock loss. He had about $12,500 insurance on the building and stock, he said.

Levin said he stored no explosives within the building. The only inflammable material was a small quantity of lubricating oil and a few gallons of gasoline which might have been in some second-hand cars. A five-gallon can, which was used to fill automobile tanks with gasoline, had not been located last night.

Midshipman Is Sued In Automobile Accident

Mrs. Catherine C. Baughman, wife of Lieut. Comdr. C. C. Baughman, 3900 Conecticut avenue northwest, and her son, Midshipman James D. Collett, yesterday were named defendants in a damage suit for $10,000 filed by Miss Florence S. Beale, daughter of Dr. Robert S. Beale, of 1318 Nineteenth street northwest.

Miss Beale, through attorneys, George D. Horning, jr., and Tebbs & Myers, asserted that she was a passenger in an automobile driven by the midshipman on September 8, at Connecticut avenue and Q street northwest. At that intersection the automobile, owned by Mrs. Baughman, collided with another machine and Miss Beale was badly injured. The allegation is made that because of the injuries she suffered, she will not be able to follow her work as a secretary and stenographer.

Citizens Will Pay Honor To Herrmann March 29

Plans for a celebration in honor of A. G. Herrmann, who is now serving his twenty-fifth year as president of the Southeast Washington Citizens Association, were discussed last night at a meeting of the organization in the Buchanan School, Thirteenth and D streets southeast. It was announced that the celebration honoring the "Mayor of Southeast" would be held March 29.

The association, concluding an extensive membership drive, last night admitted 50 new members. A resolution was adopted commending police of the Fourth Precinct for their relief work during the Christmas season.

Property Ordered Purchased.

The District Commissioners yesterday authorized the purchase of property located at 475 Pennsylvania avenue, now used as a wholesale drug supply house, for addition to the Municipal Center site. The price agreed upon is $52,653.
